BULLETIN.

THE HAGUE, April 26.—The commander in chief of the land and sea forces in Holland has provisionally stopped all leaves of absence.

PREPARING FOR THE WORST.

LONDON, April 27.—Referring to the tension between Holland and Germany, the Rotterdam correspondent of the Daily Telegraph says he understands that the Dutch government already has taken preliminary steps to bring into force certain military measures.

German papers reaching Holland are lecturing the Dutch regarding the risks they are running.

The Taeglische Rundschau of Berlin warns them against Holland becoming a second Belgium, that is to say, a place from which Great Britain may attack Germany. The possibility of such a development cannot, it says, be disregarded and warns the Dutch in their own interest to seek cover.

The clerical Germania says the German demands on Holland are intended to restore the balance of that country, which lately has shown itself "too conciliatory toward the entente."

Capt. von Salzmann, military critic of the Vossische Zeitung, says Holland is not yet placed before a final decision, and by conscientious neutrality can still keep outside the war, but she must understand that an end will come some day to German patience, which already has been tried to the uttermost.

WASHINGTON ALARMED.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, D. C., April 26.—[Special.]—Diplomats of neutral European nations in Washington take an alarming view of the crisis in the relations between Germany and The Netherlands produced by Berlin's proposals to violate Dutch neutrality.

Information received from Europe through diplomatic channels has convinced several envoys that Germany is seeking deliberately to pick a quarrel with her little neighbor with a view to invading and completely occupying Holland as she has Belgium.

The neutral chancelleries which believe they have ground for such suspicions are convinced also that if Holland becomes the next victim of the Hun Denmark will be in great danger of suffering the same fate.

According to information reaching diplomats here Germany realizes that she cannot break through the allied line on the western front and that eventually she will be rolled back by the entente armies reinforced by the thousands of American troops being sent overseas.

Germany's only hope of victory has been in breaking through the allied line before the Americans can arrive in sufficient force.

Is It Peace Offensive?

Berlin's maneuvers in neighboring neutral countries indicate that preparations for this peace offensive already are in progress and that it is scheduled to be inaugurated some time this summer.

It is pointed out that if Germany occupies Holland and possibly Denmark, Berlin will conceive that she possesses in this additional territory for "trading purposes" a powerful additional argument for a peace by compromise.

With Holland and Denmark overrun by the Germans the allies' peace terms would be extended to include demands for the restoration of those kingdoms as well as Belgium, Serbia, and Roumania.

Holland Places New Embargo.

Holland has placed an embargo on the exportation from the Dutch East Indies of tin, tin ore, cinchona bark, quinine, quinine salts, and kapok, all of which are needed in large quantities by the United States for war purposes.

It was suggested the measure was in retaliation for the American requisitioning of Dutch ships. Elsewhere it was thought to have been prompted by the critical situation in which Holland finds itself with Germany.

The embargo on tin and tin ore will prove especially embarrassing to the United States. Supplies needed for munitions and food preservation were expected to come from the Dutch East Indies, as the British are taking the entire output of the straits settlement.

START IRISH DRAFT NEXT WEEK, REPORT

LONDON, April 26.—It is reported in nationalist circles that an order in council will be signed enforcing conscription in Ireland next week, says a Central News dispatch from Dublin.

According to the Daily Mail the post of chief secretary of Ireland has been offered to Edward Shortt, member of the house of commons from Newcastle-on-Tyne, in succession to Henry Edward Duke, who is understood to have been anxious to retire for a long time and has been only awaiting a suitable successor.

Trails Husband with Other Woman to Hotel

Police were called to the Fort Dearborn hotel last night to induce a woman to return to her home after she had been smuggled into the hotel by a man and the two were discovered by the latter's wife.

The manager refused to give the police the names or addresses of the three, declaring they were prominent and that the publicity would ruin them.

Early in the evening the man registered at the hotel. After bribing a maid, he smuggled the woman into his room. Then his wife, who had been following him all day, entered. The fight that ensued between the two women aroused the other guests, who called the house detective.

The husband and wife were asked to leave and did so, but the other woman, said to have been intoxicated, declined to get out until the policemen threatened to arrest her. Her home is on Buena avenue, she said. She was well dressed.

San Diego Police Prevent Lincoln Steffens' Speech

San Diego, Cal., April 26.—Lincoln Steffens, magazine writer and lecturer, was prevented by the police tonight from delivering an advertised address at a local church on "The Menace of Peace." Chief of Police McMullen told Steffens that "no man who criticized the government as he (Steffens) had done in a previous lecture" could speak again in San Diego, especially in war times.

Robbers Gasp at Size of Roll They Get from Prey

Robert Gottstein, 2615 North Troy street, a tailor, recently sold his shop for $500 and carried the money with him until two bandits last night at Washington boulevard and Wood street took the money and his diamond ring, valued at $265. The robbers used guns to persuade Gottstein to hold up his hands. Expecting only a small haul, when they saw the size of the roll they had garnered they gasped in astonishment.

GERMAN LOSSES ARE 2,000,000, CHIEF ASSERTS

AMSTERDAM, April 26.—Germany's losses thus far in the war have been 2,000,000 men, according to a statement credited by the Frankfurter Zeitung as having been made by Gen. Schulze before the main committee of the German reichstag.

Sick and wounded men to the number of 750,000 had been able to return to the front, according to Gen. Schulze, while 629,000 had been discharged as unfit for service, including 70,000 cripples. Up to date, the general added, Germany had to reckon with about 90,000 cripples.

Two Have "Devil of Time" with Stolen $6 and Auto

Two teamsters for several hours had a "devil of a time" with $6 and an automobile they had taken from Edwin Albrecht, 135 North Lorel avenue, Austin, early Wednesday night. They posed as rich men and a couple of girls believed them.

Albrecht reported his loss to the police who yesterday arrested Harry McCullough, 22, 1626 West Twelfth street, and Walter Wallace, 25, 1620 West Thirteenth street. They are charged with the robbery.

McCullough was arrested in the stolen automobile, the police say, and "told on" Wallace, who was arrested, also relating their experiences.

Customer Injured as Bomb Wrecks Saloon

Frank Cuccia's saloon and poolroom at 876 Townsend street was partially wrecked by the explosion of a bomb last night and a customer severely injured. Frank Oreshko of 820 Townsend street was hit by a piece of the explosive and his leg bruised. The police were unable to find the perpetrators.

Cuccia had conducted a saloon at that place three years ago and when he failed to heed a "Black Hand" letter commanding him to pay the writers $1,000 a bomb tore the front part of the building. Cuccia moved away, but six months ago returned.

Italian Flyer Covers 145 Miles in Only One Hour

Washington, D. C., April 26.—Sergt. Gianefelice Gino of the Italian flying corps today established what is claimed to be a new world's record for speed when he flew from Langley field, Hampton Roads, Va., to Washington in a fighting plane in one hour. The distance is 145 miles.

TANKS BATTLE AS DRAGONS OF FABLED PAST

Spouting Fire, They Crawl to Pound Each Other.

WITH THE BRITISH ARMIES IN FRANCE, April 26.—By the Associated Press.]—The slaughter caused by the small British tanks among a concentration of the enemy near Cachy in Wednesday's fighting appears to have been greater than was originally reported.

A few of these little engines, which are much faster than the ordinary big tanks, made the assault so quickly on two or three battalions of the enemy's infantry which were forming for an attack that the Germans were unable to scatter before they were being fiercely deluged with machine gun bullets.

Not only that, but a large number of men were caught beneath the tanks and ground into the earth.

Prisoners estimate that at least two, and probably three, German companies were wiped out in a few minutes.

Tanks in Horrible Shape.

The machines returned in such horrible condition from the shambles that they had to be washed down.

One German prisoner had a rough experience with the small tanks and lived to tell the story, although he was much shaken as a result of his experience. He got separated from his unit and was hiding in a shell hole near Cachy when a tank charged directly over the hole. It was deep enough to protect the German, but he was so terrified that he lost consciousness and was just regaining his senses when the performance was repeated by a second tank. Again he escaped and saved himself further trials by being captured.

Only four German tanks were in action on Wednesday at Villers-Bretonneux. The Fourht guards division, which advanced against the town from the south, expected seven tanks to accompany them, but three of them did not appear.

Tanks Fail Foot Soldiers.

The German division attacking Cachy was told that four tanks were to support the assault, but these were missing at the appointed hour. Thus, eleven tanks had been figured upon, but only four were actually engaged.

The German prisoners state they never had seen the tanks before, although they had often heard of them. The greatest secrecy appears to have been maintained by the German higher command regarding these engines, so much so that the infantry had not been trained to work with them in their initial appearance.

The German tanks sent into the fight at Villers-Bretonneux acted quite independently of the foot soldiers. Their business apparently was to search out the machine gun nests and engage them. The fact that the crews of two of the enemy tanks abandoned them when they got into trouble would seem to indicate that the personnel is not experienced.

Battle of Huge Machines.

Four German tanks came forward with the second attack at 9 o'clock. Only one clash occurred between them and the British tanks.

That was when the quartet came up against one big British machine and two smaller ones. Both of the latter had been damaged somewhat by the heavy cannonade, but the bigger British machine forced the enemy to retreat and put one of the number out of action.

The crew of this German tank fled, as did that of another which afterward got stuck in the mud. Neither tank, however, was completely smashed, and the enemy got them away later. Both the damaged British tanks were saved.

Some Thirty-six Feet Long.

From statements made by prisoners the correspondent is able to give an approximate description of the new German tank. It is about thirty-six feet long, twelve feet high, and twelve feet wide. There is a central turret on top and the turret guns are of about 5½ centimeter. These tanks also carry about six machine guns, which fire from the front, rear, and both flanks.

The track, or caterpillar, band upon which the tank runs is driven around by several pairs of wheels. Armor plate gives the whole machine the appearance of a turtle or an inverted basin. The speed of these tanks across

"MEN WILL WIN; RUSH THEM OVER;" RADCLIFFE'S APPEAL TO ALL ALLIES

LONDON, April 26.—The duty of every entente allied country engaged in the war to get every possible man into position to support the battle front, was emphasized by Gen. Delma Radcliffe, chief director of military operations, at the war office today, in his first interview with newspapermen since he took over the position formerly held by Maj. Gen. F. B. Maurice.

"The Germans are going on with this hammering process," he said, "and we have got to make up our minds that it is not this week, or next week, or next month, that this fight is coming to a decision. We are going to fight the whole summer, and in the end it is a question of who holds the last reserves.

"Reserves on the west front now are, I am happy to say, in the hands of one command—namely: in the hands of the commander in chief of the allied armies in France, Gen. Foch, in whom everybody in both armies has complete confidence. He has so far employed only a small proportion of his reserves and that is a good augury for the future.

"I want to emphasize the fact that this is a long drawn out test of endurance, endurance of nations. That is why it is so imperative for this country and all countries which are engaged to get hold of every man they possibly can to support the battle front. What is going to tell in the end is men."

In summing up the battle situation, after telling of the good results of allied defense in the Lys sector, Gen. Radcliffe said:

"On the morning of April 24 the enemy began a more serious effort opposite Amiens and yesterday he started a heavy attack on the Kemmel front. The enemy had made considerable progress. The latest information is still incomplete, but there is no doubt that the Germans succeeded in occupying Kemmel hill, a sector involving both French and British troops.

"The net result in the Kemmel sector so far is that the Germans have gained about 2,000 yards on a front of about 1,200 yards. The gain is not large, but involves very important ground and there is no question but that it is a very serious loss.

"Kemmel hill is an observation point for all ground to the north, but it remains to be seen whether it will remain in the enemy's hands. Our line to the north is all right. Kemmel hill is an isolated height covered with woods, which stands rather out in front and apart from that range of hills which Gen. Maurice has referred to as the backbone of the position.

"On the south the situation at Villers-Bretonneux is very satisfactory. We have taken back all we lost and with the village we have taken many prisoners and inflicted heavy losses. Villers-Bretonneux is a most important tactical point atop a plateau from which one may look down the western slopes towards Amiens.

"Look at these two attacks, we see one thing. In each case the enemy has struck at the junction of the French and British armies. As you know, that must always be a weak spot. With the best possible arrangements and with the best understanding, it must always be difficult to arrange for immediate support, both by artillery and reserves, when two different commands are involved. These difficulties, naturally, are increased when you have two nationalities, and, although we and the French have been fighting alongside each other for three and a half years and have absolute confidence in each other, yet we must always expect the Germans to try to find a joint in the harness.

"Speaking generally as regards the German policy as evidenced in the events of the last few days, there is nothing to alter the view that Gen. Maurice put before you—that it is the German intention to wear out the British army. He has been unable to break it or divide the British and the French.

"There is no reason to doubt that a big offensive on a far greater scale than ever is still to be expected between Arras and Amiens, with the object of driving in and separating the British and French. So far the whole of the German success is merely tactical. He has won ground and taken positions and guns and is hammering the British army wherever possible. This object has been countered by the action of the allied commander in chief in sending French troops to the north front, making it more difficult for the Germans to continue the game of fighting the British alone."

300,000 TROOPS GO TO PERSHING BY END OF MAY

Eight Guard and Three Draft Divisions Due to Sail.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

Washington, D. C., April 26.—[Special.]—Indications that eight national guard divisions and three national army divisions will be in France before the end of May were seen today in the announcement of the war department that fourth officers' training schools will be held in only twenty-four camps.

Thirteen of the sixteen national army camps, eight of the sixteen national guard camps, and three regular army divisional camps will get schools in the fourth series of camps opening May 15.

Some 300,000 Troops.

Counting approximately 27,000 to the division, this will mean that before the end of next May Gen. Pershing will get reinforcements of about 300,000 men as a result of the plans for accelerating troop movements to France.

The war department has arranged also that no delay will be occasioned in the transportation of other divisions to France by reason of the fact that officers' training courses may be in progress in those camps.

"These schools will be an integral part of the division and will move with the division," an order provides.

Finish Course Overseas.

This means that if orders to move a division to France come during the period between May 15 and Sept. 1 in one of the twenty-four camps having training courses, the classes will be suspended temporarily until the division reaches its training camp in France and will then be resumed.

Limitations placed on admission of students of foreign birth in the fourth training camps indicated that the war department has broadened its policy of withholding commissions from men of German birth by including natives of Austria, Bulgaria, and Turkey.

There will be 9,600 student officers graduated in the twenty-four camps in the United States and 1,200 in the three additional camps to be located in the departments of Panama, Hawaii, and the Philippines.

LATE BULLETINS

LONDON, April 27.—The death on Thursday of Second Lieutenant John Jewitt Miller, an American member of the British air force, became known through the inquest held Friday. Lieut. Miller was killed in a fall of 400 feet near Chester.

LONDON, April 26.—The lord mayor of Dublin, the Daily Mail says it learns, has abandoned his proposed to visit Washington.

It was announced several days ago that the lord mayor, as the representative of Irish bodies opposed to Irish conscription, would go to the United States to lay his cause before President Wilson.

AGREE ON PAROLE FOR PRINCIPAL IN CAUSE CELEBRE

It was reported at Joliet yesterday that a parole had been agreed upon by the pardon board in the case of Robert Ward, alias Leslie Shannon, who entered the prison for an indeterminate term in April, 1915.

As Leslie Shannon, Ward went to Utica, N. Y., several years ago as a newspaper correspondent. He had previously served a term in prison for embezzlement. He won the heart of Mrs. Cornelia Rice, a niece of the late James Schoolcraft Sherman, former vice president. Shortly before the wedding, Ward's past was exposed and Mrs. Rice's father, Henry J. Cookingham, called off the match. But Mrs. Rice remained true and the pair went to Rochester and were married.

They came to Chicago, where Ward, brooding over his troubles, took to drink and forged checks, which caused his arrest. The marriage was shortly afterward annulled.

Automobile Truck Kills Child at Play

Chester Jemia, 8 years old, of 1166 Cherry street was struck and fatally injured yesterday afternoon by an automobile truck driven by H. Heagerly of 3559 Cottage Grove avenue while playing at North Halsted and Branch streets. The driver was notified to appear at the inquest this morning.

HUNS PUSHING PAST KEMMEL IN YPRES AREA

Whole Salient Is Threatened as More Towns Fall to Foe.

(By Cable to The Chicago Tribune.)

LONDON, April 26.—The British and French armies in Flanders today suffered a severe setback.

Gen. Haig's report, issued by the war office tonight, admitted that the Germans not only have captured Mount Kemmel but have advanced a mile and a half to the north and west of that height.

Foe Gets Dranoutre.

The town of Dranoutre, southwest of Mount Kemmel, has been captured, as has Kemmel village, on the northeastern corner of the hill.

Tonight's official report from Gen. Haig's headquarters says the Germans are attacking all positions on the line of Locre, La Clytte and Scherpenberg, to the west, northwest and north of Mount Kemmel.

Fall Back on Locre.

The British lines at La Clytte and Scherpenberg are holding, but the defense has been pressed back further in the direction of Locre.

Extends to Canal.

The battle extends as far eastward as the Ypres-Comines canal. The British report does not mention any change in the line there, but the Berlin report says St. Eloi has been captured by the Germans.

This town is situated on the Ypres-Comines canal, just to the south of Ypres. It is only three miles from that city and its loss would mean that Ypres, already in grave peril of being flanked from Mount Kemmel, is threatened with direct attack.

Claim 6,500 Prisoners.

The Germans claim the capture of 6,500 men in the fighting.

There is no effort here to minimize the gravity of the loss of Kemmel mountain should the Germans be able to maintain their positions there. The mountain permits them to dominate the railroad to the north, which is the only means of taking supplies to the sorely pressed forces which are holding the important positions near Ypres.

The loss of Kemmel mountain, with the German advances east and west of it, places the British forces in the entire Ypres sector in an unhealthy position and the question might arise whether it would be worth holding as a matter of prestige.

Battle for Two Days.

The loss of Kemmel mountain came after a battle lasting for the greater part of two days which for its fierceness has been scarcely equaled during the war.

German troops, in a flanking movement, gained a footing at the base of the mountain on practically all sides, surrounding a French force which held the top. These men fought desperately and a French counter attack was thrown forward in an effort to dislodge the Germans.

This effort did not succeed and the allies were forced to withdraw. No official report states whether or not the French on the mountain top escaped.

ALLIES WIN IN SOUTH

Meanwhile, far to the south, the allies have assumed the offensive. The entente troops are attacking from Villers-Bretonneux, to the south of the Luce river.

Hangard-en-Santerre changed hands twice during the hand to hand fighting and at last accounts the French were holding the western side of the ruined village.

The allied troops also gained a foothold in the woods to the north of the town. The viciousness of the battle can be imagined from the statement in the Paris official report of the battle that the German troops made seven massed attacks in a vain effort to drive the French from the positions which they had won in the woods.

Retake Lost Ground.

North of Castel the Germans penetrated the village of Hailles and gained a hold on Hill 82, south of the village. The French counter attacks rewon most of the ground lost.

The French general staff estimates the German losses in the offensive at over half a million, but at a secret session of the reichstag before the offensive began Hindenburg promised complete success first at a cost of a million, but later at a cost of a million and a half casualties. So the Germans' biggest effort is still to come, and it will probably be between Arras and Amiens. It is known that unless Hindenburg can show a decisive success, which he has not done yet, it may be difficult to keep the German people content and continue to provide cannon fodder on the scale he demands.

ALLIES ON OFFENSIVE.

WITH THE BRITISH ARMY IN FRANCE, April 26.—[By the Associated Press.]—The allied arms today were taking the initiative on both the northern and southern ends of the battle front. This morning the British and French troops, acting in conjunction, began counter operations in the region of Mont Kemmel and the neighboring territory, which the Germans captured in yesterday's sanguinary struggle.

The aggressors at the time of the filing of this dispatch had made some progress, but they were battling in the face of great odds, and heavy fighting was continuing, with the enemy holding the advantageous high ground in strength.

South of the Somme.

South of the Somme the allied forces launched a combined drive against the German positions between Hangard and the southern outskirts of Villers-Bretonneux. The latest reports recorded some progress, but an intense conflict was in progress and the situation was nebulous.

Yesterday Villers-Bretonneux has been cleared of the enemy, who overran it Wednesday, and the British, by brilliant counter attacks, had retaken virtually all their original positions.

The main interest from the military point of view today centered in the northern contest, where the Germans have been making such determined efforts to gain control of the chain of hills, of which Kemmel is one, and thereby threaten the allied positions to the north.

Yesterday's fighting was of a desperate nature and the enemy gains were only made at a frightful cost.

The battle was at close quarters. The Germans continued to suffer terrible casualties. The shell torn slopes of the hill were strewn with the dead. The French were still in their positions on the hill when evening came, although apparently they were surrounded. If any of them were able to hold on through the night and had ammunition left, their assistance must have meant much to their comrades who counter attacked. this morning.

Allied Line Drawn Back.

In consequence of the German push about Mont Kemmel it became necessary to draw back the allied line somewhat on either side of the hill. This was a coincident in the struggle, however, for Mont Kemmel is all that matters.

On the front below the Somme, particularly in the vicinity of Villers-Bretonneux, which the British have recaptured, heavy casualties were inflicted on the enemy with artillery and small arms.

One French regiment, to which had been entrusted the defense of the crest of Mont Kemmel with orders to hold it to the last man, immortalized itself in yesterday's battle. Throughout the long, bitter day they clung to their post and sent swirling streams of death from their machine guns down the slopes into the struggling masses of German infantry which had surrounded the hill and were trying to battle to the top.

They "Hold or Die."

Some of these fearless Pollus at the latest reports were still there, and the staccato chatter of their rapid firers sent out the message to their general that they were obeying his order to hold or die.

Along the Ypres-Kemmel railway the defenders held for a considerable time and inflicted heavy losses on the atattacking troops. Meanwhile the French infantry on the crest of the hill was pumping steady streams of bullets from machine guns into the Germans.

The enemy troops kept pushing on until finally they swung their line in a circle about Kemmel. Throughout the early hours of the day they tried again and again to swarm up the slopes of the hill, but each time they met with such a grilling punishment that they were unable to get forward. Six hours of fighting passed before any German infantry was able to get near the top of the hill.

Hard Fight for Wytschaete.

Although German picked divisions advanced yesterday morning all along the line between Wytschaete and Bailleul, the brunt of their attacks was directed against a small sector of the allied line a little west of Wytschaete.

So heavy was the pressure from the overwhelming number of troops that the defenders were forced back. Into this gap the Germans flung fresh infantry, which started a turning movement downward about Mont Kemmel. The French, who were defending the hill, fell back slowly, contesting every yard of ground furiously.

Retaking of Bretonneux.

The British counter stroke which ousted the Germans from Villers-Bretonneux, south of the Somme, was a great success from the start. The town had been cleared of the enemy by yesterday afternoon with the exception of two "pockets" of infantry, one near the railway station and the other near the neighboring monument of the war of 1870. These pockets were cleared up last evening.

There was fierce fighting in the streets of the town after the British launched their counter attack at 10 o'clock. British gunners had been deluging the place with gas and the assaulting infantry went in wearing gas masks.

The Germans also were forced to don their masks and the streets were filled quickly with madly fighting men who looked like beings from another world in the big eyes of their face protectors.

The town hall was full of boches. Many of them had retired to the cellar, where they were trying to sleep in their gas masks, for there had been no thought of a British attack that night.

Large numbers of the enemy were slain in the streets and many were taken prisoner. By Thursday morning those who had been in hiding were crawling out and surrendering freely. They were still wearing their masks.

Prisoners Talk Freely.

Among the prisoners captured were several young officers, who gave their opinion of things in general with refreshing candor. They were chagrined at the fiasco which the Germans had made of the Villers-Bretonneux attack. Some had unkind things to say of the higher command.

A large part of their trouble the officers laid to the fact that the British held a hill just north of the village which gave the defenders full observation on the Germans for many miles. This hill, known as hill 104, lies close to the front line and commands a wide sweep of country. From it the British gunners have played havoc with the German troops and transport.

The prisoners said that for three days prior to the attack they had had virtually nothing to eat, because the food trains were smashed by shell fire and kitchens which tried to cook what food there was on hand were continually being demolished.

Germans Would Like to Know.

A British officer in talking with one of the young German lieutenants asked the latter to explain why the German submarines had sunk only one American transport.

"That is what we would like to know," the youngster replied.

When questioned as to what he thought the reason for all the world being against the Germans, he gave the same reply. The officer said the Germans had been wondering about these very problems and others of similar nature for some time.

YPRES IN GRAVE PERIL

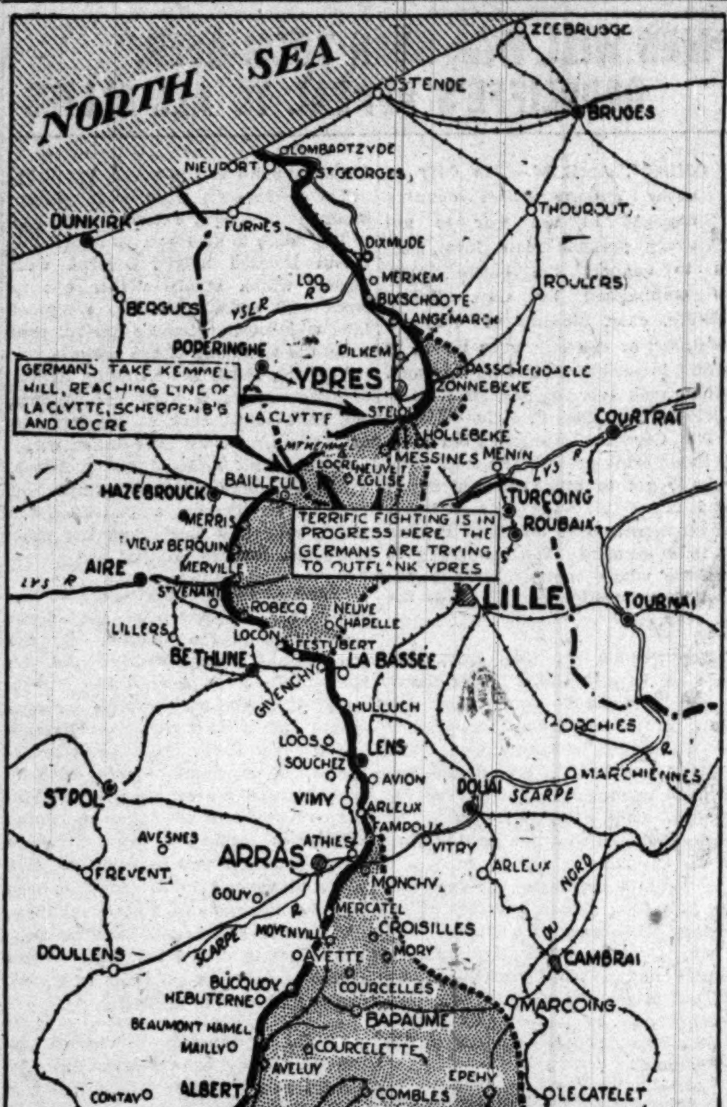
THE BATTLE IN FRANCE



AS U-BOAT SPY

Marquis, Spanish Subject, Held on Espionage Charge in Paris.

PARIS, April 26.—The arrest on an espionage charge of the Marquis de Arquevilly, a Spanish subject, which took place on Monday, has resulted in the development in the Parisian press of many details of his remarkable career. This morning's newspapers print the story of the manner in which the marquis, after having worked as an engineer for the Krupps for eleven years, made a fortune of 4,000,000 francs in commissions on the sales of submarines built on plans furnished by him.

The marquis, according to these accounts, returned to France at the outset of the war, got himself naturalized within twenty-four hours, and was incorporated into the army, where he obtained two promotions.

The newspapers now declare that the submarine plans which he took to the Krupps were stolen from the French ministry of marine. M. Laubeuf, the engineer who drew the plans which have been brought into question, tells the Petit Parisien that they were stolen, but he makes no direct charge against the marquis. The first submarines produced by the Krupps, it is claimed, were recognized as copies of the French submarine Aigrette.

The marquis, in his own defense, says he accepted offers made to him by the Krupps only after he had offered his services to both France and England,

BRITONS URGE OPEN TRADE DOOR

LONDON, April 26.—The committee, headed by Lord Balfour of Burleigh, which was appointed by Herbert H. Asquith, then premier, in 1916, to consider the questions of trade and industrial reconstruction after the war, has issued its final report. It deals largely with the treatment of enemy countries.

The committee generally is against the exclusion, except for a limited period, either of foreign shipping from British ports or of enemy banking, insurance, and trading institutions from operating in the United Kingdom.

The committee considers that it would neither be practical nor economically sound to attempt to make the empire entirely self-supporting in the matter of raw materials.

country is said to be very slow. On the highway it is reported to be much faster.

One tank used on Wednesday had the name "Cyclops" painted across the front and another bore the skull and cross bones.

French Tanks Are Busy.

WITH THE FRENCH ARMY IN FRANCE, April 25.—[By the Associated Press.]—Tanks of both the allies and the Germans played an important part in the course of the fighting in the last few days. This was the first occasion in history when these instruments of war met each other.

The French tanks already had taken a brilliant part in the fighting some days ago, when they drove the Germans from Senecat wood westward from Castel. In connection with this action two tank commanders who performed deeds of heroism have just been rewarded with honors.

Lieut. Domerc, commanding a squad of tanks, while advancing saw one of his chariots of assault suddenly halt. An investigation showed that the entire crew was disabled. The lieutenant, with one of his men as a gunner, mounted the tank under heavy fire and set it in motion and reached Castel, attacking on the way with the machine gun several large groups of Germans, putting many of them out of action. Eventually they returned safely to the French line.

Repairs Under Hot Fire.

Sergt. Mouren, commanding another tank, noticing a German field battery retreating, followed it to attack the gunners. He was 500 yards within the German lines when his motor refused to work. The sergeant dismounted with his crew under a hurricane of rifle fire and detached the machine guns, with which he repulsed a large force of Germans who attempted to approach, firing until the last reel of cartridges was spent.

The entire crew, except the sergeant, was wounded, but the sergeant gathered the injured men together and they made their way through thickets to the French position.

Both tank commanders received the cross of the legion of honor on the battlefield.

GERMAN CHIEF AT ZEEBRUGGE TO BE PUNISHED

AMSTERDAM, April 26.—Vice Admiral Schroeder, the commander at Zeebrugge, according to reports reaching here, will be deprived of his command for being taken by surprise by the British Tuesday.

German newspapers, in commenting on the raid at Zeebrugge, generally take the hint given in the official reports at Berlin and represent the enterprise as having been a failure. Some, however, admit that the attack was made with great boldness.

The Lokal Anzeiger says that the raiders succeeded in blocking the waterway to a great extent, but that the U-boats still are able to leave their harbor, as a narrow passage remains.

The Koelnische Volks Zeitung sees in the attack evidence that the existence of a submarine base at Zeebrugge is making "life intolerable for England."

NAVY INQUIRY ON TIPPING OVER OF LINER PUSHED

An Atlantic Port, April 26.—Investigation of the causes leading to the capsizing of the American line passenger steamer St. Paul at its dock here yesterday was being pushed by representatives of the United States navy and the owners today. Actual work of righting the ship to restore it to overseas duty also was well under way.

Five large wreckers, with the assistance of a score of divers, are handling the job.

Italian Patrols Raid Advanced Enemy Posts

ROME, April 26.—The official statement issued by the war office reads:

"In the Arsa valley Italian detachments penetrated three belts of wire defenses and suprised advanced enemy posts. In the Morbia valley and at Dosso they captured nineteen prisoners and destroyed a large portion of the enemy's defensive works. Our troops returned without loss, although the hostile artillery opened a concentration of fire on the attacked sector.

GERMAN FORCES IN PICARDY ARE IN GRAVE PERIL

French and British Hold Places Where Foe Is Weak.

[Since the following dispatches were filed the allied troops have regained a footing in the western outskirts of Hangard.]

WITH THE FRENCH ARMY IN FRANCE, April 26.—[Noon.]—[By the Associated Press.]—The situation on the French section of the Picardy battle front was unchanged at an early hour this morning. The guns kept up a most violent bombardment throughout the night, either as a preparation for a new German advance or to cover the relief of the tired divisions.

The French infantry remained in their positions around Hangard, where the Germans find the situation most difficult since the British have recaptured Villers-Bretonneux, which dominates the village.

Any fresh attempt on the part of the Germans to develop an attack from Hangard would be a hazardous operation with the allies occupying Villers-Bretonneux and would mean heavy sacrifices of men, which they are unable to afford unless certain of the result.

ENEMY POSITION PERILOUS.

ON THE FRENCH FRONT IN FRANCE, April 25.—[By the Associated Press.]—The more they advance along the road toward Amiens the more perilous becomes the salient the Germans are forming in the Somme region, especially in view of the fact that the allied reserves are virtually intact and the allied armies are now commanded by a single chief.

The present moment is less favorable to the German plans than when they started their advance on March 21. Then a weak point existed between the French and British armies. Now there is no sensitive part of the line, since the unified command has given the opportunity to make the most practical use of all the allied troops.

Fight Hand to Hand.

An all night battle in which the Germans, after gathering powerful columns, hurled them upon Hangard-en-Santerre, resulted in the village changing hands several times. Individual combats with bayonets from house to house were of frequent occurrence.

Fires started in all directions, until the village is now a mere heap of smoking ruins which the Germans held this morning with difficulty, for the French gave them no liberty of movement and their repeated efforts to advance further were stopped as soon as they began.

Meanwhile the artillery, extending the radius of its fire, bombarded heavily Hailles, Castel, and Senecat wood, all situated on the same plateau to the southwest of Hangard, which elevation bars the route to Amiens. The enemy launched several assaults upon Hailles and even succeeded in reaching the lower slopes of hill 82, just to the south of this village, but the French artillery and machine guns put an end to his progress here.

Hard Battle Near Cachy.

At the same time the Germans were devoting great attention further north to the British sector around Cachy, where the fighting was very severe. The army of Gen. von der Marwitz, which includes a division of the famous Prussian guards, met the most determined resistance from the French troops wherever they came in contact.

The German effort gives more marked signs of becoming a desperate attempt to force a way to Amiens, whatever the cost. This cost hitherto has been high, for neither the French nor the British are ceding an inch of ground without taking the heaviest toll from the German attacking forces.

Several additional German divisions have been terribly tried since the offensive was resumed this week, and the enemy possesses only a limited number more with which to continue his overwhelming rushes.

Germans Exhaust Reserves.

From March 21 until today the Germans have employed approximately 130 divisions, of which thirty have been withdrawn to refill the ranks and have then been sent into the battle for the second time, making the total of divisions in action 160.

About seventy other divisions have not yet been engaged in the battle, but of these a considerable proportion are unfitted to do more than hold quiet sectors. The forward movement must therefore be carried through quickly, as otherwise the German staff will find itself without further reserves.

Shows German Program.

A general review of the offensive which the Germans attempted demonstrates that the enemy plan was to thrust at the junction of the French and British armies protecting Amiens, with an intention of separating them. During the course of Tuesday night the Germans opened an artillery preparation of extreme intensity, having taken advantage of the respite in the fighting to bring forward many guns. At dawn on Wednesday morning the British started a counter bombardment. Shortly afterward the German infantry unsuccessfully attacked the line north of Villers-Bretonneux.

At the same time the French poured a barrage fire on the Germans advancing toward Hangard-en-Santerre. The fiercest fighting ensued throughout Wednesday and Wednesday night, and as the result the enemy captured Villers-Bretonneux, except a few houses in the outskirts. The enemy then got within 500 yards of the eastern limits of Cachy and occupied Hangard wood, while in Hangard itself they gained the cemetery and even surrounded the village, but the French would not give up.

Simultaneously the Germans made some progress toward Hailles. During Wednesday night the British firmly held their positions immediately around Villers-Bretonneux and regained some ground. Large German forces were thrown against Hangard, and the village changed hands on several occasions, finally remaining in the possession of the Germans this morning.

TIDE OF COMBAT

LONDON REPORT

LONDON, April 26.—North of the Lys river the battle is continuing fiercely on the whole front from the neighborhood of Dranoutre to the Ypres-Comines canal. The enemy has gained possession of Dranoutre, Kemmel village, and Mont Kemmel.

The enemy's attack yesterday was made in great strength by nine German divisions. This morning the French and British troops counter attacked and succeeded at first in making some progress, capturing a number of prisoners. Later in the day the enemy renewed his attacks, directing his assaults with particular insistence against the positions from Locre to La Clytte and astride the Ypres-Comines canal.

In the neighborhood of La Clytte and Scherpenberg all the enemy's attacks have been held, but after severe fighting, in the course of which a series of determined attacks were repulsed with heavy losses to his troops, he succeeded in pressing our line back in the direction of Locre. On both sides of the Ypres-Comines canal the enemy also made some progress.

Early this morning the French and the British troops attacked the enemy positions south of the Somme in the neighborhood of Hangard and Hangard wood and have carried their line forward at certain points of heavy fighting.

We carried out a successful minor operation during the night west of Merville and captured fifty prisoners and three machine guns. The hostile artillery has been active along our front from the Lys river to Givenchy.

BERLIN REPORT

BERLIN, via London, April 26.—The attack by Gen. Von Arnim's army against Mont Kemmel led to a complete success. The height itself, looking far into the Flanders plain, is in our possession.

The French divisions intrusted, within the radius of the British troops, with the defense of Mont Kemmel, and English troops adjoining them at Wytschaete and Dranoutre, were thrown out of their positions.

Enemy counter attacks against Mont Kemmel and in the fighting area south of Villers-Bretonneux failed with heavy losses.

The large crater of St. Eloi and the place itself was captured. Numerous concrete houses and fortified farms situated in the fighting area were captured.

Prussian and Bavarian troops took Mont Kemmel and the village by storm. We captured Dranoutre and the height to the northwest of Vleugelhoek (southwest of Dranoutre).

Battle squadrons attacked with great success the rear communication roads of the enemy, which were crowded with carts and columns of men.

As the result of yesterday's battle more than 6,500 prisoners have been reported up to the present. The majority of the prisoners are French and there are one English and one French regimental commander among the captives.

South of the Somme, Villers-Bretonneux, into which we penetrated, could not be held in the face of enemy counter attacks. Further attacks failed due east of the village. At the wood which we wrested from the enemy and the village of Hangard attacks also failed. The number of prisoners taken in this battle area has been increased to 2,400.

On the western bank of the Moselle, Saxon companies stormed the French trenches and penetrated into Regenville. After having accomplished their task they returned to their lines with prisoners.

FRENCH REPORT

PARIS, April 26.—Our troops counter attacked the German lines this morning from Villers-Bretonneux to south of the Luce river and have succeeded, despite the fierce resistance of the enemy, who had brought up important forces, in retaking a large part of the ground which was lost yesterday. We have retaken the position at the monument south of Villers-Bretonneux, penetrated into the wood of Hangard-en-Santerre and conquered a part of the western portion of that village.

The battle has been going on all day and is continuing with exceptional violence. The Germans have tried to arrest our advance at any price and have suffered great losses which were inflicted by our artillery. The German resistance was most notable north of the wood of Hangard-en-Santerre, where the enemy seven times launched their assault battalions against our lines without forcing our valiant troops to give ground.

The combat was no less fierce in the village of Hangard, which has changed hands twice during the day.

South of the Luce river we have retaken positions which we have held in spite of all the efforts of the enemy.

There have been intermittent bombardments on the right bank of the Luce river and at Hartmansweilerkopf.

We carried out a number of raids at different points on the front last night, especially in the region east of Lassigny, between the Miette and the Aisne, near Bezon Vaux, in the region of Eparges, in Lorraine, and in the Vosges. We took prisoners.

TROTZKY SPURS WAR ON HUNS IN NORTH RUSSIA

LONDON, April 26.—It is reported here that Leon Trotzky, the Bolshevik minister of war and marine, has gone to Murmansk in northern Finland to arrange for an effort by the Russian forces there to resist the German attempt to push northward. British and French troops are aiding the Russians in this region. Good feeling between the entente allies and the Russians is reported to be increasing in Petrograd and Moscow. In this latter respect it is said that the sentiment of a majority of the population has undergone a radical change in the last five or six weeks.

Suppress News of Pogrom.

STOCKHOLM, April 26.—The Austrian censorship is suppressing reports of the Jewish pogrom in Cracow.

TWO AMERICANS, WOUNDED, EXIST DAYS IN DUGOUT

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, April 25.—[By the Associated Press.]—Two American soldiers, wounded in the engagement around Seicheprey last Saturday, were found alive today in a dugout in No Man's land. The dugout had been badly smashed by German shell fire and how the men managed to keep alive in the rain and mud and under continuous German bombardment, physicians say, is little short of miraculous.

Another soldier, Raymond Demunsky, of New Haven, Conn., was buried alive for three days when he crawled to the surface. Demunsky was born in Russia, but had been naturalized. He was found by American Red Cross stretcher bearers who went out into No Man's land this morning. The Germans fired on the Red Cross flag, but the stretcher bearers kept waving it and the enemy fire stopped.

Americans Fight Big Odds.

The American troops in the Seicheprey fight, additional details show, were outnumbered, in some instances, eight to one. The latest advices are that the American casualties are much under the first estimates.

Edward Jacques, a New Haven boy, told the correspondent he was one of a hundred and fifty Americans who had one time been almost surrounded by at least 800 Germans. French troops came to their assistance, said Jacques, who added:

"We got on fine with the Frenchmen. They had been training us, so it seemed like they were our own fellows. We certainly made it hot for the Germans."

Sergt. John A. Dickman, formerly a printer of Somerville, Mass., and who is now wounded in a hospital, told a remarkable story. He and his men had charge of two Stokes guns. They were isolated for twelve minutes in an enemy barrage and were unable to signal the American lines. Dickman was wounded but kept pouring a hot fire into the German attacking waves and broke up the formation. He and his men retired only when their guns became jammed.

"Machine Gun" Parker, who manned a gun by himself, was asked by his superior officer at one stage of the engagement whether he could hold the line. He replied that he could, unless killed, and he did.

Priest Does Good Work.

Father William J. Farrell of West Newton, Mass., a regimental chaplain, proved such a good fighter that a high officer offered him a commission in his command. Father Farrell went to the assistance of a battery when four of the American gunners were killed, carried up ammunition, and helped the crew to keep the gun working. He was wounded slightly.

Raymond Connor of New Haven, a sanitary squad runner, was another hero. He was one of eight men captured by the Germans who escaped and went to Seicheprey. They took charge of the first aid station there until a doctor arrived. Connor then went to the rear and organized a new squad, returned to the front, and was wounded.

Succeed in Trench Raid.

WITH THE FRENCH ARMY IN FRANCE, April 21.—[By the Associated Press.]—American troops today made a successful trench raid near the heights of the Meuse, in the vicinity of Vaux-Les-Palameix (on the front below Verdun nine miles north of St. Mihiel).

The sector along which the Germans made their heavy attack against the Americans yesterday is situated in broken, hilly country, about seventeen miles eastward of the important St. Mihiel salient on the road between St. Pizier and Metz.

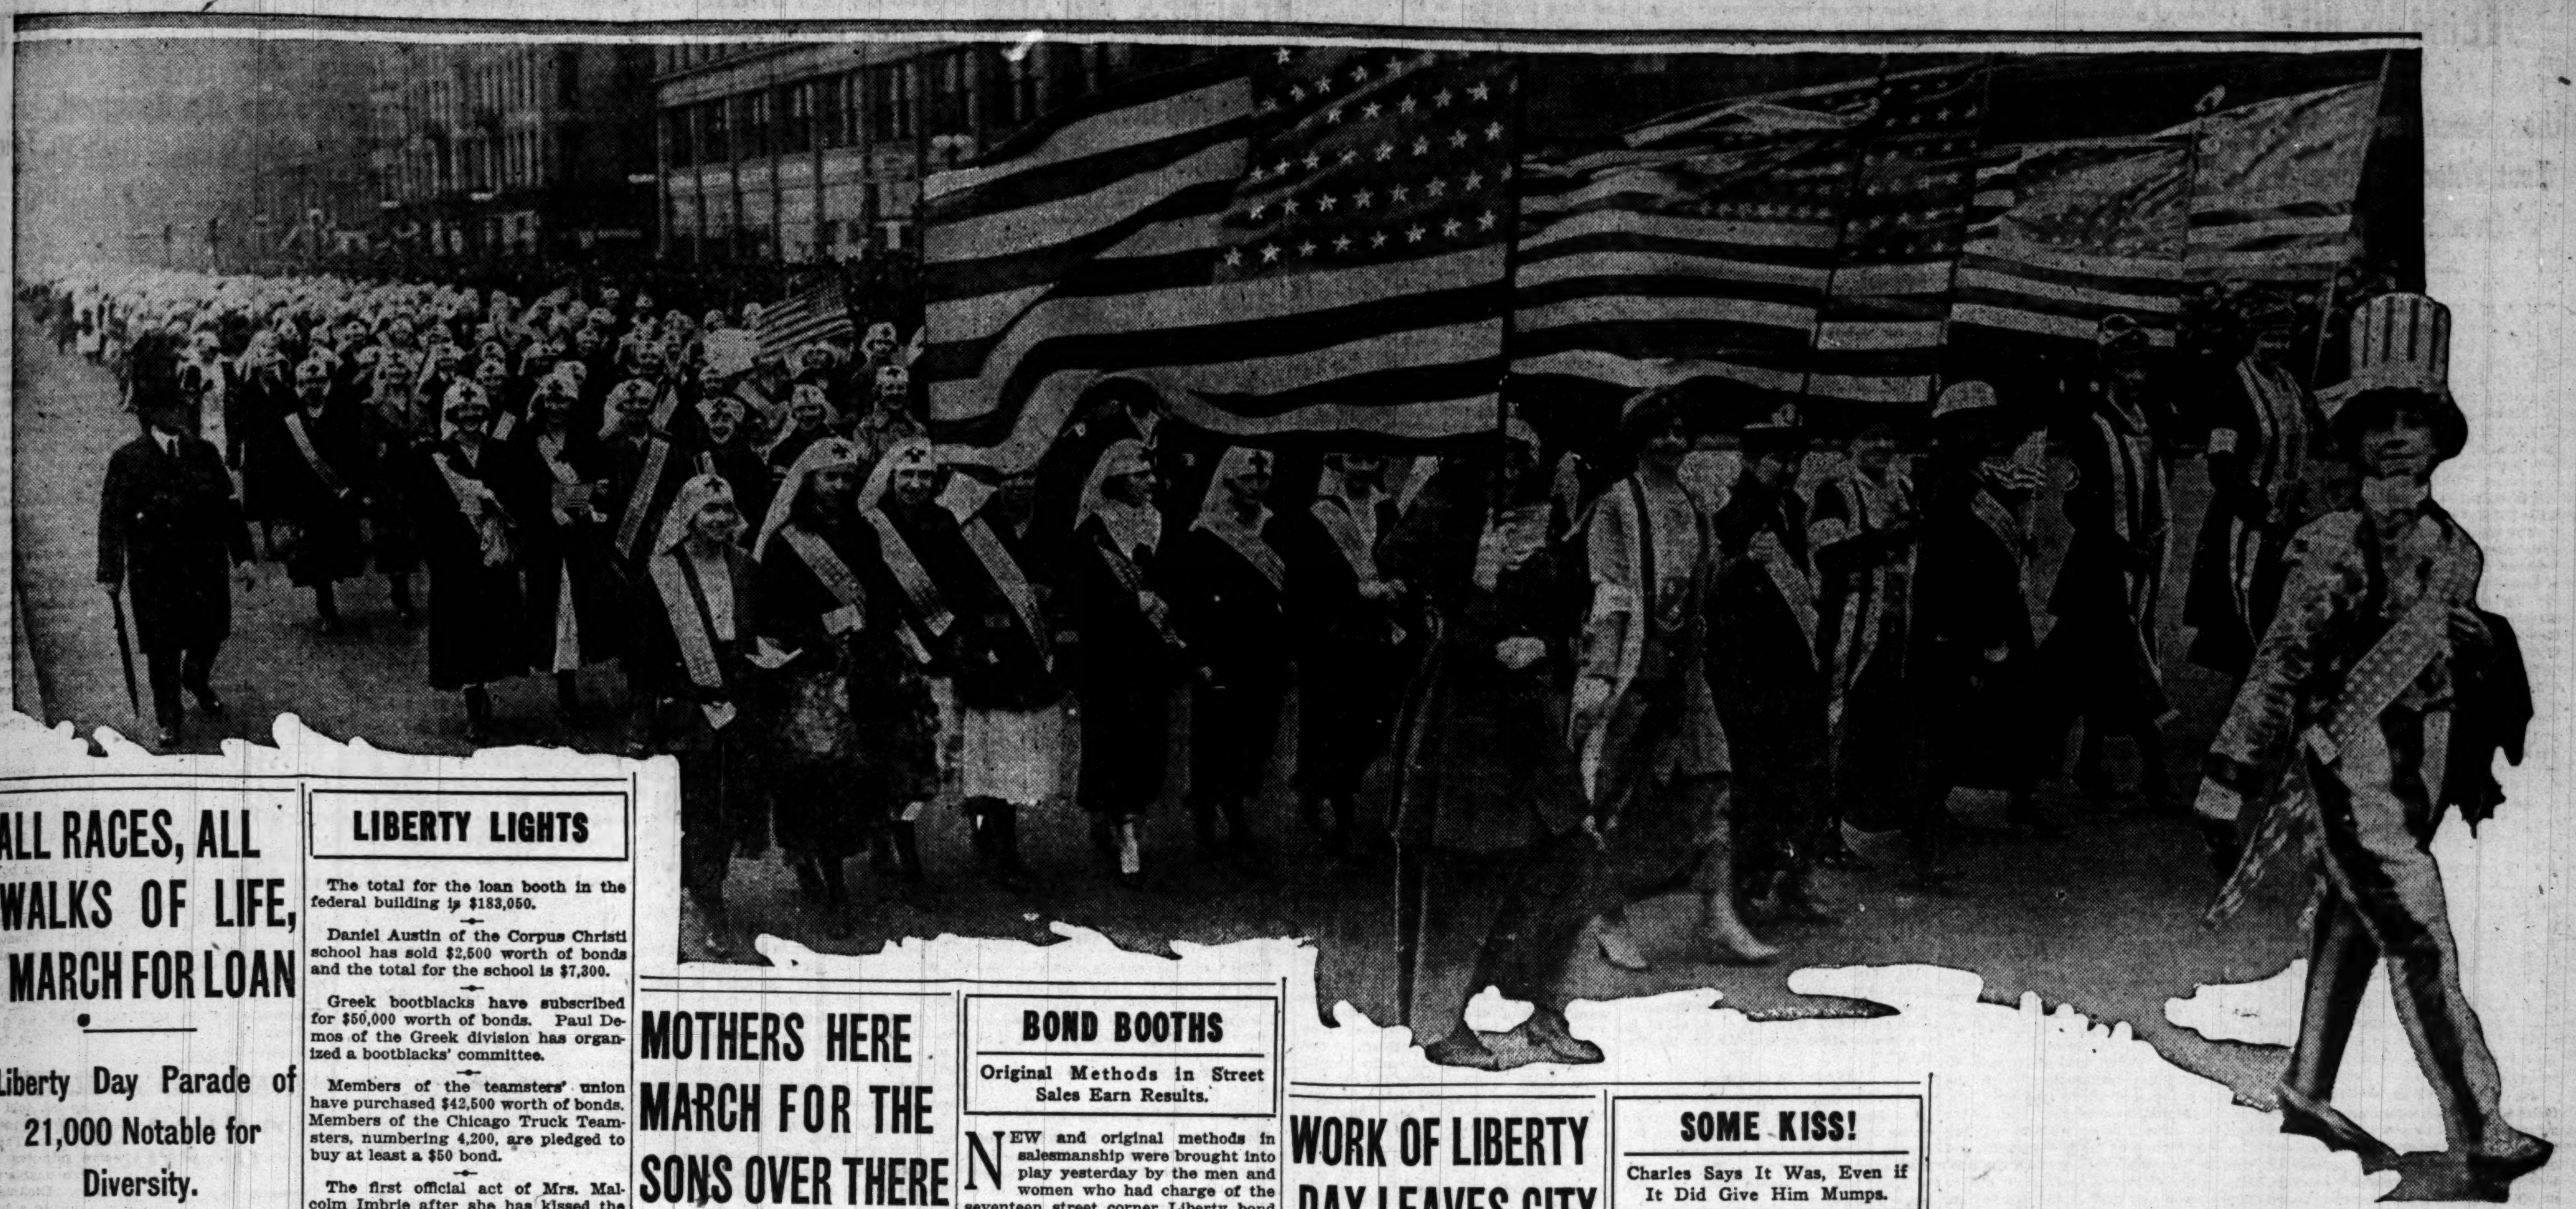
LIBERTY DAY PARADE SENDS A GLOW THROUGH THE LOOP

Six Hundred Girls of Lake View High School Red Cross Auxiliary Form Spectacular Unit in Line of 21,000 Marching to Boost Liberty Loan.



ALL RACES, ALL WALKS OF LIFE, MARCH FOR LOAN

Liberty Day Parade of 21,000 Notable for Diversity.

Twenty-one thousand persons marched through the streets of Chicago yesterday in a patriotic effort to push Chicago over its Liberty loan goal. With flags and banners and flying colors, scores of organizations took part in the most diversified procession of the four which have taken place during the third loan campaign.

There were soldiers, school teachers, club women, Liberty loan workers of thirty nationalities and of practically every trade and occupation in the city. There were cadets and school girls and nurses, policemen, firemen, and letter carriers. And perhaps the proudest delegation was that which contained the mothers and sweethearts of soldiers.

Mayor Fails to Appear.

The one upset in the plans of the Liberty day demonstration was the absence of Mayor Thompson or of any official representative of the city administration. All the first row of the reviewing stand at the Art institute had been reserved for the mayor and his party. As a mark of respect, no one was permitted to enter the reviewing stand until the mayor should arrive.

Among thsoe forced to wait were Lieut. Col. H. G. Bowes of the British army and Commander J. D. Willson of the Great Lakes Naval Training station. But when the mayor did not arrive, the two officers were placed in the front row and officially reviewed the parade. Mayor Thompson was in his office at times during the day, and was seen leaving the city hall shortly after the demonstration was over. He had been invited by Charles W. Folds, grand marshal.

Among those in the reviewing stand were Hart Hanson and Edwin S. Davis of the board of education, Supt. John D. Shoop and Assistant Superintendents Peter A. Mortenson, E. E. Cole, and W. M. Roberts, and Dudley Grant Hays, director of school extension.

Many Children March.

The school part of the parade was one of the most interesting features. There were thousands of school children and the girls added a touch of color and life that made the parade something more than a mere demonstration of civilian marchers.

Six hundred girls of the Lake View High school, composing the Red Cross auxiliary of the school, made one of the impressive sights as they marched, in the flowing white headgear of the Red Cross nurse, carrying their knitting bags of many colors.

There were nearly 3,000 cadets, led by Capt. F. L. Beals, and behind them were the "civilian" students. Perhaps the liveliest body of students was that which came from the Lane Technical High school. For they carried anti-Hun banners so thick and fast that it was impossible to read all of them as the boys marched by.

Slogans in Line.

A few of the Lane school slogans were:

"Kick the kaiser in his crown,
Buy a bond and knock him down."
"Eeny, meeny, miny mo—Lane's got the kaiser by the toe."
"Are you backing—or just cheering?"
"Lane is doing her best
To put the kaiser to rest."

Close to the front of the parade were more than 900 policemen. They were cheered by the thousands on the sidewalks who read their banner announcing that every member of the police force is a subscriber to the third Liberty loan.

There were 2,500 school teachers, too—men and women, who waved and smiled at Supt. Shoop as they passed the reviewing stand, and Mr. Shoop waved his handkerchief back at them.

A section of Western Union messenger boys carried banners containing mock cablegrams to the kaiser. One of them read: "Wilhelm, successor to Gott und me, Berlin: My nephews will pay you a visit soon. Uncle Sam."

There were 100 or more students of the Art institute. They carried a banner reading: "Remember Reims. Make the world safe for art."

"Melting Pot" Float.

One of the most impressive features was the foreign language section and the "melting pot" float. In front of the float marched nineteen soldiers from Camp Grant, each of whom represented one of the nationalities that have gone into the national army. Every one was born in a foreign country and later transferred his allegiance to America. The soldiers and the nationalities represented were:

Lithuanian	Joseph Nowak
Italian	Ralph Cozzi
Russian	Joseph L. Sanborsky
Polish	Adam Gawrys
Dutch	Nich Goosens
Jewish	Sam Becker
Bohemian	Joseph J. Strnad
Croatian	Anthony G. Agin
Greek	Harry T. Economos
Swedish	Charles Erickson
Danish	Joseph M. Lighbecker
French	Joseph F. Gibeau
Irish	William D. Murphy
Chinese	Ng Chang
Norwegian	Olub Dale
German	Herman Iding
Austrian	William G. Betz
Hungarian	Michael Kudelos
Scotch	Harry G. McLean [341st infantry]

Thirty Countries Represented.

In the float that followed were young women dressed to represent thirty nationalities. Hundreds of Liberty loan workers in the foreign language division followed, the Chinese delegation having a Chinese band, making strange sounds, with it.

Other big delegations were the firemen, the letter carriers, and the loan workers of the trade divisions.

LIBERTY LIGHTS

The total for the loan booth in the federal building is $183,050.

Daniel Austin of the Corpus Christi school has sold $2,500 worth of bonds and the total for the school is $7,300.

Greek bootblacks have subscribed for $50,000 worth of bonds. Paul Demos of the Greek division has organized a bootblacks' committee.

Members of the teamsters' union have purchased $42,500 worth of bonds. Members of the Chicago Truck Teamsters, numbering 4,200, are pledged to buy at least a $50 bond.

The first official act of Mrs. Malcolm Imbrie after she has kissed the bridegroom will be to sign her name to a Liberty loan application. She is still Miss Marie Annen of 7061 Greenview avenue, but she will be married tonight at the Rogers Park Congregational church and Mrs. J. B. Cook of the woman's loan committee will be there with her receipt book.

Liberty day meant just that for Harvey, Ill., yesterday. Coming from way behind, it subscribed 150 per cent of its quota during the day and brought the total to more than $500,000, or 200 per cent of the allotment. The subscriptions for the day were $320,000.

Automobile row is the scene of a struggle for Liberty loan honors among the various divisions of the motor industry. Ward S. Perry, chairman of the accessory subdivision, is the first to bring his group over the top. With an allotment of $360,000, it has exceeded $400,000. The Stewart-Warner Speedometer corporation and its employés have subscribed $201,000, of which the firm took $100,000.

Miss Francis H. Slott, a domestic living at 3747 Forest avenue, asked Alfred J. Cronin, chairman of the Liberty loan committee of the Holy Angels' parish, to call on her for a subscription. Mr. Cronin says it nearly took his breath away when she told him she had $1,150 to invest in the government securities. This was her life savings. The parish subscription to the loan now totals $40,000.

In the Liberty loan campaign on the Board of Trade traders in futures set out to beat the cash grain handlers in obtaining subscriptions. Ralph A. Sohuster of the cash crowd yesterday landed a subscription for $500,000 from the Corn Products company. This subscription brought the Board of Trade's total to $2,668,000.

A Liberty loan parade in Forest Park last night drew most of the residents from their homes to watch the marchers and floats. Several hundred men, women, and children, floats, boy scouts, and a detachment of the Second Illinois reserve militia were in line.

Oak Park and River Forest, which are jointly raising their share of the third Liberty loan, passed the $900,000 mark yesterday and soon expect to complete their minimum, which is $1,130,000.

MOTHERS HERE MARCH FOR THE SONS OVER THERE

Women from All Walks of Life Join in the Parade.

"The Mothers." This was the most conspicuous group in yesterday's Liberty parade. It was the least ostentatious in formation, but as the lines of quietly dressed women, most of them elderly, passed by the throngs, the cheering became roars.

And behind came "The Sweethearts." Both banners were carried by escorts of young boys, who walked as if they appreciated the honor done them.

Society Women in Group.

From the Lake Shore drive ward came a band of fifty women led by Mrs. William J. Chalmers and escorted by a jackie band. Mrs. Chalmers had in her division Mrs. William P. Conger, Mrs. Augustus S. Peabody, Mrs. Henry S. Robbins, Mrs. James Keeley, Mrs. J. M. Patterson, Miss Lucy Martin, Mrs. Charles Lindsay, Mrs. Stanley Field, Mrs. Honore Palmer, Mrs. Norman Williams, Mrs. John May, Mrs. Edward Swift, Mrs. Frederick D. Countiss, Mrs. James B. Waller, Mrs. George H. High, Miss Marie Rozet, Mrs. Wesley Dempster, Mrs. John C. Pitcher, Mrs. Henry Dibblee, and others.

Many of the husbands and friends of the women marchers filled the club windows with all eyes "dressed right" into the boulevard below. Ald. R. H. McCormick, accompanied by Howard F. Gillett, volunteered to bring the marchers hot coffee or anything else from the club commissary that they would accept. Their offers were smilingly declined.

One of the largest and most effective groups of women marchers was that composed of school teachers and pupils. According to Mrs. Irving L. Stern and Miss Ella Sullivan, who have been largely responsible for the successful Liberty loan campaign in the schools and who marched together at the head of the schools contingent. There were nearly 10,000 pupils and 3,000 teachers in line.

Women Lawyers in Line.

Mrs. Lambert O. Wile led the clubwomen, who have a record next to that of the public schools for Liberty loan subscriptions. At the head of the company of women lawyers marched Mrs. Catherine Waugh McCulloch. Near by walked the woman who claims to be the only woman lawyer in the employ of the United States army, Miss Blanche A. O'Connor, who is classed as an army field clerk.

Women doctors, trained nurses, Red Cross workers in the flowing veils of red, of white, and of blue, highland lassies with bare knees, and one remarkable lady in a costume of yellow satin trousers, short skirt and blouse; working girls, society girls, scrubwomen, clubwomen, mothers with little children clinging to their skirts, booth workers, hotel workers, speakers—every woman who has done anything for the Liberty loan was entitled to march in the parade and most of them did.

BOND BOOTHS

Original Methods in Street Sales Earn Results.

New and original methods in salesmanship were brought into play yesterday by the men and women who had charge of the seventeen street corner Liberty bond booths stationed throughout the city. Combined with novel tactics was a goodly measure of pluck and persistence and few passersby escaped without indicating that they already own bonds or have made arrangements to buy them.

At the northeast corner of State and Madison streets the booth was in charge of Thomas M. Sheey, who had as his assistants Miss Romayne Campbell of 4322 Sheridan road and Beatrice Millebille of 3310 Palmer street. Sergt. H. A. Harrison of Company M, Three Hundred and Forty-fourth infantry, of Camp Grant, acted as military aid.

"Excuse me, sir, but a young lady would like to speak to you," Sergt. Harrison would address a pedestrian.

The one approached usually straightened his necktie, put on a pleasant smile, and prepared to make an impression. Next he was led to the sales booth, where the Misses Campbell and Millebille promptly pointed out the dotted line. The net results of their day's work was approximately $1,500 in subscriptions.

New York, April 26.—Every one in Greater New York who could gain foothold on Fifth avenue turned out today to watch and applaud the 30,000 men and women who marched in the service flag parade arranged by the Liberty loan committee as the feature of this city's observance of Liberty day.

When the fourth division, with the mothers, wives, and sisters of men now under arms, passed in review the cheering approached a wild roar. Automobiles bearing survivors of the torpedoed United States destroyer Jacob Jones and a handful of Pershing's veterans who have been returned from the front to heal their wounds in the home land also were greeted with great enthusiasm.

In the reviewing stand were the governors of New York, New Jersey, and Connecticut; Andre Tardieu, the French high commissioner, and Earl Reading, British high commissioner, each with his staff.

BANQUETERS ARE LOCKED UP TILL EACH BUYS BOND

The Hungarian Charity society of Chicago reached a 100 per cent third Liberty loan subscription after an appeal from Harry A. Wheeler, food conservator for Illinois, at a meeting of the society in the Hotel Sherman last night.

The doors of the banquet hall were closed and none of the society members was allowed to leave until a receipt for a bond subscription was shown. The protest, "I have bought one bond," was not accepted by the doormen.

"I left at home the speech I intended making," said A. B. Seetenfreund, "but I find in my pocket a blank check, which I will fill out for $1,000 as a start in this rally." He was followed by another, who shouted "Here's a check for another $1,000 bond," and a third, who also shouted, "and here's the third $1,000 check."

At the end there were more than $46,000 in subscriptions in front of Max Sobe, who presided.

Citizens Urged to Hear McAdoo Appeal for Loan

Heads of every important Chicago industrial and civic organization have issued an appeal to citizens to hear Secretary McAdoo in the Auditorium on Sunday afternoon at 5:30, when he will make an appeal in behalf of the Third Liberty Loan.

WORK OF LIBERTY DAY LEAVES CITY BEHIND ON LOAN

All Divisions Except Cook County Unofficially Over Top.

Chicago closed its third week of the Liberty loan campaign yesterday with a big Liberty day celebration. But the celebration did not prevent it from remaining in last place among the six divisions of the Seventh federal reserve district.

Chicago is woefully behind, according to the Liberty loan leaders, and unless there is a spurt during the coming week it will end the campaign with the poorest showing of loyalty anywhere in five states.

Unofficially the Seventh district is over the top. Every division of the district except Cook county has an oversubscription of from 10 to 60 per cent. Except in Chicago, where only about $3,000,000 was added to the total, Liberty day shot the totals ahead throughout the district.

The official figures to date are:

	Subscribers.	Amount.	Per cent of Quota.
Cook county, Ill...	246,728	$ 75,200,300	60
Indiana...	199,685	41,793,950	78
Iowa......	367,414	84,423,250	119
Michigan..	220,810	53,127,600	70
Wisconsin.	169,593	43,546,600	95½
Totals..	1,447,907	$352,330,300	83

Chicago has $50,000,000 to raise to reach its minimum quota. There are only seven working days left in the campaign, which closes a week from today. That means $7,000,000 a day, and leaves the city far behind the rest of the district and far behind its record in the second loan. It is $100,000,000 behind its total for the second loan, which means that if Chicago is going to show up at all well in the present campaign, it must come forth with about $15,000,000 daily until the close of the drive.

Day's Leading Subscribers.

The Quaker Oats company made the largest subscription of the day, adding $500,000 to its original subscription of $300,000. Among the other large subscriptions were:

Franklin Coal company	$170,500
R. T. Crane Jr.	100,000
William Wrigley Jr. company	100,000
American Car and Foundry company	100,000
Armour Grain company	100,000
Alfred L. Baker & Co.	67,000
A. M. Castle & Co.	57,000
Campbell, Heath & Co.	50,000
Agricultural Credits company	50,000
J. Stanley Joyce	50,000
E. J. Brach & Son	50,000
National Malleable Castings company	50,000
George B. Carpenter & Co.	50,000
Ames, Emerich & Co.	50,000
Lindsay Light company	50,000
M. Born & Co.	51,900
James A. Rankin	41,000
Employes of R. R. Donnelley & Sons.	40,000

The average subscription of Chicago purchasers is $328. It has dropped from $480 at the end of the first week, due to the fact that there have been few large subscriptions during the last two weeks and many "baby bonds" have been purchased. The average for the district is $250.

McAdoo to Speak.

Secretary McAdoo, who will speak tomorrow at 5:30 p. m. at the Auditorium theater in a big massmeeting, is going to try to stir Chicago to a realization of its unenviable position at the tail end of the Seventh district. He talked to some of the Liberty loan leaders over the long distance telephone yesterday, and they spoke of some of the reasons for Chicago's poor showing. It is predicted that Mr. McAdoo will speak quite plainly.

The doors to the theater will be opened about 4:45 p. m., which is about the hour the secretary will arrive in the city. From the train he will be taken to the Art institute to award the prizes for Liberty loan drawings, and it is expected he will start to speak at the Auditorium meeting by 5:30 o'clock.

Boy Scouts Will Help.

Another aid to Chicago subscriptions will be the boy scouts, who open their campaign today. Seven thousand boys will take part, working in troops of 400 each. The scout masters of each troop will direct the work.

In the last loan the scouts sold $1,333,800 in bonds to 9,164 persons, and only about 3,000 boys worked. The aim in the present drive is to triple that figure. No money is collected by the boy scout, but he has a special blank which directs the purchaser to make his initial payment at bank before May 4.

SOME KISS!

Charles Says It Was, Even if It Did Give Him Mumps.

Mumps, two whole weeks of them! Would you be willing to pay that penalty for one kiss from Marguerite Clark?

Charles C. Ayres got the kiss and the mumps from Miss Clark when she was here selling Liberty bonds. Charles says it was worth it, too.

Charles is 11 years old and a pupil in the Lincoln school. He lives at 921 Wrightwood avenue.

Miss Clark was trying to induce the crowd she was addressing at Marshall Field's to sing "Over There," but the crowd didn't know the song. Young Mr. Ayres called up, "Why don't you try 'What Are You Going to Do to Help the Boys?'"

Miss Clark helped the boy to the table beside her. Then he led off in the stirring air and the crowd sang lustily.

"You don't mind if I kiss you, you dear boy. I've just had the mumps. You're not afraid of them, are you?" Miss Clark said.

"Well, I should say not," the youngster promptly replied.

He was so proud of those mumps that yesterday, when they were making four minute speeches in the seventh grade of the Lincoln school, he told of them so enthusiastically that he was awarded the certificate for the best speech.

U. S. TROOPS FULL OF FIGHT; WILL WIN, BAKER SAYS

Cleveland, O., April 26.—"By buying Liberty bonds the American people have the opportunity of putting the hand of the nation on the shoulders of our soldiers in France and saying 'hold them'," Secretary of War Newton D. Baker told several thousand persons here tonight in a Liberty loan address.

"Our boys in France know what we are thinking about from reading our letters and newspapers," he continued. "If it should happen that we let our patriotism droop they might worry. We must have a strength of mind and unity of action over here to strengthen them. Our boys are exposing themselves in the front line trenches in the protection of liberty and mankind. We are partners with the allies in this fight for freedom.

"We have so provided that no American soldier in France need want for food, arms, or ammunition. To be frank with you, the American soldier in France wants to fight. They have caught the spirit of the soldiers of the allies with whom they are associated and the combination is one that will be productive of great results."

ILLNESS HALTS MANN ACT CASE.

URGE CHICAGO WOMEN ABSENT TO BOOST LOAN

The activity of the woman's Liberty loan committee of Chicago is carrying their branch of this work away "over the top." They are making their campaign cover the solicitation of Chicago women whether in the city or elsewhere.

An appeal to Mrs. Potter Palmer has been sent to her at her winter home in Sarasota, Fla., in the form of a telegram, as follows:

"The women of Chicago are anxious to make a record showing in the sale of Liberty bonds. The women of your ward, the Twenty-first, have nearly $1,000,000 subscribed through their efforts. Will you add your subscription to theirs to help go over before we publish the names of patriotic women subscribers? Please specify the amount you will take and through what bank and a subscription blank will be sent you to sign."

The appeal was signed by Mrs. W. J. Chalmers, chairman; Mrs. E. S. Worthington, Mrs. Frederick Eames, Mrs. Bertram Winston, Miss Caroline Kirkland, Mrs. George M. Pullman, Mrs. Watson Blair, Mrs. James B. Waller, Mrs. Henry Dibblee, Mrs. Cyrus McCormick, and Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank.

AUSTIN TO HAVE A LIBERTY LOAN PARADE TODAY

Austinites will be out in force this afternoon to view as well as to participate in a Liberty loan parade which those in charge of the affair promises to be the largest yet held outside of the loop.

John J. McNeill, president of the East Austin Business Men's and Property Owners' association, predicted yesterday that fully 15,000 will be in line of march, which will be over several of the principal streets of Austin.

Liberty loan subscription booths will be placed along the line of march to take care of subscribers. Floats, bands, naval guns, jackies, and soldiers will be features in the parade.

The parade will be formed near West Madison street and Cicero avenue and after a march of several miles will disband at Washington boulevard and North Cicero avenue.

Wilson Buys More Liberty Bonds While at Theater

Washington, D. C., Arpil 26.—President Wilson made a second subscription to the third Liberty loan at a local theater last night, taking $2,000 worth of bonds. He made his first subscription for $1,000 worth at the same theater two weeks ago.

VICTORY GOLD FLOODS NATION ON LIBERTY DAY

Whole Country Joins in Backing Troops by Buying Bonds.

Washington, D. C., April 26.—[Special.]—Tremendous strides in the third Liberty loan were made today throughout the country. Liberty day, which dawned with more than two-thirds of the three billion dollar minimum subscribed, added impetus to the campaign.

Reports from all sources at the beginning of the day showed an aggregate amount subscribed of $2,032,990,200, and the results of Liberty day are known to have been gratifying.

While it is confidently expected that the loan figures in the next report will have mounted well toward the $3,000,000,000 mark, officials are earnestly hoping that this loan will be world record breaking, and, therefore, urged that the campaign must not be permitted to slow down.

AIRCRAFT AGENCY PLAN VOTED INTO OVERMAN BILL

Other Amendments Will Test Wilson's Power Over Senate.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., April 26.—[Special.]—The senate is about ready to cease debate on the Overman bill and a vote will be taken early next week, with assurance that the measure will pass, although there is strong probability that it will be modified.

Modification of the measure, if its critics succeed in pressing their arguments home, will consist of elimination of the interstate commerce commission and the federal reserve boards from the list of executive departments which may be altered by the president.

Senator Overman said tonight that this amendment, championed most actively by Senators Hoke Smith and Reed on the Democratic side, will be defeated by a slight margin. Senators Smith and Reed, on the contrary, maintain that it would carry by a few votes.

One Amendment Accepted.

Although the president has said he wanted the bill passed without amendment, Senator Overman, the president's helmsman in the long fight, accepted one amendment today authorizing the president to establish an executive agency to control aircraft and to transfer funds appropriated for aviation purposes. The amendment was proposed by Senator Wadsworth, Republican, of New York, one of the proponents of the director of munitions and war cabinet bills which received executive repudiation and for which the Overman bill is an administrative substitute. It was adopted by a unanimous vote.

In its amended form Senator Wadsworth is expected to support the bill whether the amendments proposed by Senators Smith and Reed prevail or not.

Many Fall in Line.

To the other important amendments concerning which such an issue has been raised, Democratic critics and Republicans insisting that tampering with the interstate commerce commission and the federal reserve board would be ruinous to the nation's interest, the president is known to be opposed. He has openly declared that he will not accept the bill if it is thus modified.

So strong is his plea for defeat of the amendments that it is probable that some of the Democrats whose votes have been counted on to support them will change their minds.

Issue Clearly Drawn.

In this case the bill will go to the president just about as he wants it, and Senators Smith and Reed will be on record as having been defeated by executive mandate. If they win, the president will for once have been checked in his habit of legislative dictation.

The fact that quite a number of Republican senators are going to support the bill regardless of amendment and have not been impressed with the arguments of Senators Smith and Reed on the amendments, is very encouraging to Senator Overman and the administration supporters.

MANY $1 A YEAR MEN NEEDED FOR SHIP WORK HERE

Following closely on the appointment of Charles M. Schwab as director general of the Emergency Fleet corporation, an appeal has been issued for business men who will help speed up shipbuilding by joining the ranks of $1 a year workers.

Fully six hundred factories in the district tributary to Chicago are working on ship's parts, which are being rushed to the shipyards, but their production is reported to be falling much below the amounts needed.

The appeal was sent out yesterday from the office of E. O. Sessions, manager of the Chicago office of the district production division of the Emergency Fleet corporation, at 72 West Adams street.

"We want the names and addresses of responsible business men in Chicago who would be willing to devote some of their spare time to special work connected with the speeding up campaign," said Mr. Sessions. "This work will vary in character, including such service as investigation of factories, collecting detailed information, brief addresses to workmen, and personal interviews with factory heads."

URUGUAY WAITS GERMAN REPLY, READY FOR WAR

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, April 26.—It is rumored here today that the German reply to Uruguay's inquiry as to whether the German government considered that a state of war existed between Uruguay and Germany is an unsatisfactory one. It is expected an official statement on this subject will be issued tonight.

Interallied Naval Council Meets in Paris

PARIS, April 26.—The interallied naval council met today at the ministry of marine with Georges Leygues, French minister of marine, presiding. Vice Admiral Sims, Capt. Twining, and Commander Babcock represented the United States. Rear Admiral Hope and seven other officers were present for Great Britain, Vice Admiral Thaon di Revel and four other officers for Italy, and Rear Admiral Lida and Capt. Hamano for Japan.

McAdoo Gets a Taste of Practical Railroading

Washington, D. C., April 26.—Director General McAdoo has driven his first "six-eight-wheeler," he telegraphed the railroad administration today. He manned the throttle of a Santa Fe engine near Albuquerque, N. M., yesterday, "running it for some time over the mountains."

Kaiser Brewing War Sought to Bunko World by Yacht Trip, Krupps' Director Says

Following is the conclusion of Dr. Muhlon's letter corroborating Prince Lichnowsky's exposure of German diplomacy before the war. Dr. Muhlon was a member of the Krupp directorate in July, 1914. He says Helfferich, then director of the Deutche bank of Berlin, frankly told him there would be war, and when he told Krupp von Bohlen what Dr. Helfferich had disclosed the head of the great Krupp works fully corroborated the war plans of the kaiser, as he had just come from a conference with the emperor. The last part of the Muhlon letter says:

"On the very day indicated to me by Helfferich the Austrian ultimatum to Serbia appeared. At this time I was again in Berlin, and I told Helfferich that I regarded the tone and contents of the ultimatum as simply monstrous.

"Dr. Helfferich, however, said that the note only had that ring in the German translation. He had seen the ultimatum in French, and in French it really could not be regarded as overdone.

"On this occasion Helfferich also said to me that the kaiser had gone on his northern cruise only as a 'blind'; he had not arranged the cruise on the usual extensive scale, but was remaining close at hand and keeping in constant touch. Now one must simply wait and see what would happen. The Austrians, who, of course, did not expect the ultimatum to be accepted, were really acting rapily before the other powers could find time to interfere.

Bank Begins Holding Gold.

"The Deutsche bank had already made its arrangements, so as to be prepared for all eventualities. For example, it was no longer paying out the gold which came in. That could easily be done without attracting notice, and the amount day by day reached considerable sums.

"Immediately after the Vienna ultimatum to Serbia the German government issued declarations to the effect that Austria-Hungary had acted all alone, without Germany's previous knowledge. When one attempted to reconcile these declarations with the events mentioned above, the only possible explanation was that the kaiser had tied himself down without inviting the coöperation of his government, and that in the conversations with the Austrians the Germans took care not to agree upon the text of the ultimatum. For I have already shown that the contents of the ultimatum were pretty accurately known in Germany.

"Herr Krupp von Böhlen, with whom I spoke about these German declarations—which, at any rate in their effect, were lies—was also by no means edified. For, as he said, Germany ought not, in such a tremendous affair, to have given a blank check to a state like Austria; and it was the duty of the leading statesmen to demand, both of the kaiser and of our allies, that the Austrian claims and the ultimatum to Serbia should be discussed in minute detail and definitely decided upon, and also that we should decide upon the precise program of our further proceedings.

"He said that, whatever point of view one took, we ought not to give ourselves into the hands of the Austrians and expose ourselves to eventualities which had not been reckoned out in advance. One ought to have connected appropriate conditions with our obligations.

"In short, Herr von Böhlen regarded the German denial of previous knowledge, if there was any trace of truth in it, as an offense against the elementary principles of diplomacy; and he told me that he intended to speak in this sense to Herr von Jagow, then foreign secretary, who was a special friend of his.

Kaiser Had Gone too Far.

"As a result of this conversation, Herr von Böhlen told me that Herr von Jagow stuck firmly to his assertion that he had had nothing to do with the text of the Austro-Hungarian ultimatum, and that Germany had never made any such demands. In reply to the objection that this was inconceivable, Herr von Jagow replied that he, as a diplomatist, had naturally thought of making such a demand.

"When, however, Herr von Jagow was occupying himself with the matter and was called in, the kaiser had so committed himself that it was too late for any procedure according to diplomatic custom, and there was nothing more to be done. The situation was such that it would have been impossible to intervene with drafting proposals.

"In the end, he (Jagow) had thought that non-interference would have its advantages—namely: the good impression which could be made in Petersburg and Paris with the German declaration that Germany had not coöperated in the preparation of the Vienna ultimatum."

Writes to Hollweg.

Herr Mühlon authorized the Humanité, a Paris Socialist paper, through its Swiss correspondent, to publish the following remarkable letter which he addressed from Berne, on May 7, 1917, to Herr von Bethmann Hollweg, then imperial chancellor:

"However great the number and weight of the mistakes accumulated on the German side since the beginning of the war, I nevertheless persisted for a long time in the belief that a belated foresight would at last dawn upon the minds of our directors. It was with this hope that I put myself to a certain extent at your disposal, in order to collaborate with you in Roumania, and that I indicated to you that I was disposed to help in Switzerland, where I am living at present, if the object of our efforts was to be rapproachment of the enemy parties.

"That I was, and that I remain, hostile to any activity other than reconciliation and restoration I proved soon after the opening of hostilities by the definite resignation of my directorship of Krupps' works.

German Chiefs Degraded.

"But since the first days of 1917 I have abandoned all hope as regards the present directors of Germany. Our offer of peace without indication of our war aims, the accentuation of the submarine war, the deportations of Belgians, the systematic destruction in France, and the torpedoing of English hospital ships have so degraded the governors of the German empire that I am profoundly convinced that they are disqualified forever for the elaboration and conclusion of a sincere and just agreement. The personalities may change, but they cannot remain the representatives of the German cause.

"The German people will not be able to repair the grievous crime committed against its own present and future, and against that of Europe and the whole human race until it is represented by different men with a different mentality. To tell the truth, it is mere justice that its reputation throughout the whole world is as bad as it is.

Against Hopes of Mankind.

"The triumph of its methods—the methods by which it has hitherto conducted the war both militarily and politically—would constitute a defeat for the ideas and the supreme hopes of mankind. One has only to imagine that a people exhausted, demoralized, or hating violence, should consent to a peace with a government which has conducted such a war, in order to understand how the general level and the chances of life of the peoples would remain black and deceptive.

"As a man and as a German who desires nothing but the welfare of the deceived and tortured German people, I turn away definitely from the present representatives of the German regime. And I have only one wish—that all independent men may do the same and that many Germans may understand and act.

"In view of the fact that it is impossible for me at present to make any manifestation before German public opinion, I have thought it to be my absolute duty to inform your excellency of my point of view."

CLARK REFUSES SENATORSHIP AS 'DUTY TO NATION'

Decides He Can Serve Country Better as Speaker.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., April 26.—[Special.]—Champ Clark, speaker of the house, refused the appointment as United States senator from Missouri today.

Speaker Clark notified Gov. Gardner of Missouri of his decision to decline the opportunity to succeed the late Senator Stone about noon, after he had carefully considered the offer over night and discussed it with Mrs. Clark, who ever has been his most influential adviser.

According to word from Jefferson City, Mo., Gov. Gardner, after receiving Speaker Clark's refusal, appointed Walter W. Graves, chief justice of the Supreme court, as senator. Justice Graves has not yet accepted the appointment.

Loyal Democrats Rejoice.

The speaker's decision was met with great rejoicing among the loyal Democrats of the house. While Republican leaders assured Mr. Clark yesterday they would make no attempt to organize the house in case he should resign, there were scores of Democrats who did not look with favor upon the prospect of the house being presided over, for the next few months at least, by a man who voted against war. Majority Leader Kitchin of North Carolina was scheduled to succeed Speaker Clark.

Speaker Clark is said to have realized this situation. Whether it had anything to do with his decision is, of course, not known. Certainly he said nothing about it publicly.

The Speaker's Refusal.

"I have thoroughly considered my duty in the premises, leaving out of the consideration my own personal fortunes as far as was humanly possible," Speaker Clark said in his telegram to Gov. Gardner, "and have come to this conclusion:

"In this awful crisis of our country's affairs—indeed of the whole world's affairs—it is the imperative duty of every man to serve the people and uphold the government to the best of his ability and in the position where he can do the most good. I believe that I can render more service in the speaker's chair than in the senate. CHAMP CLARK."

"I am glad that you indorse my action," said Speaker Clark, addressing the house. "Of course, to be a senator from Missouri is a great honor. It presented to me the most serious question that has ever arisen in my life from a political standpoint. The generous conduct of the Republicans would have made it easier, and I want publicly to thank them.

"Whatever reputation I have in the world I achieved on the floor of the house of representatives, and if I were to live a million years the manifestation of esteem and affection of this house bestowed on me would not be forgotten; they are enshrined in my heart. So I made up my mind to stay with you, and we will all fight this war out together."

"BARONESS" TAKEN AS SHOPLIFTER.

"Baroness De Berg, wife of the United States consul to England," was fined $25 in the Clark street court yesterday for the theft of a bottle of syrup from a shop at State and Lake streets. She was lavishly gowned and wore many diamonds. She explained she always liked syrup with her eggs and cakes.

Sinking of three German U-boats by American gunners is described in a letter from Christy Drain, a soldier in France, whose mother lives at 4839 North Drake avenue. "The American gunners sure are some good shots," writes the soldier. "They sank three subs and that was good enough for Old Kaiser Bill's bunch. We were only seventy-five miles from the coast when they started after us." The letter does not give the location of the attack.

Lieut. Raymond O. Brown, formerly a policeman of Evanston, wounded in France, has written to some of his Evanston friends that it will be unnecessary for him to have his leg amputated. Brown sent a brief telegram about two weeks ago stating that he had been severely wounded. "Day in and day out," said Brown in his letter, "it is cold and muddy. The bullets whistle over our heads continuously and we can hear nothing but the constant boom of the cannon."

NEW YORK ELKS ADD THEIR BAN TO GERMAN SPEECH

New York, April 26.—[Special.]—It became known today that, at a meeting last Sunday, the local lodge of B. P. O. Elks, No. 1, adopted resolutions against the use of German in the clubhouse or at club gatherings by members, and against the entertainment in the clubhouse of enemy aliens or of German speaking persons for the duration of the war.

It is the belief of the officers of the lodge, the largest in the Elks' order, that lodges elsewhere will do likewise as a manifestation of loyalty to the United States.

Chicago Will Not Act.

No such action as that taken in New York will be taken by Elks' lodge No. 4 of Chicago, according to Exalted Ruler Warren D. Bartholomew.

"Nothing of the kind is necessary," said Mr. Bartholomew last night. "We have never had a disloyal member of our lodge. We have never had an alien enemy in the building since it was dedicated last November. I have never heard German spoken here, and I don't think it ever has been. This is all by common consent. The Elks are peculiarly an American organization and their ritual is built about the American flag."

U. OF W. MEN DUB M'ELROY 'KING OF ASSES'

Students Hang Him and the Kaiser in Effigy.

Madison, Wis., April 26.—[Special.]—Incensed by the reiterated charges of Prof. Robert McNutt McElroy that the students of the University of Wisconsin are "damned traitors and Prussians," the 2,000 students tonight escorted the effigies of Kaiser Wilhelm and Prof. McElroy around the Latin quarter and then burned them. The kaiser was placarded with the sign "Me und Gott," while McElroy had the placard "McNutts McElroy, Prince of Asses," tacked on him.

The action was taken following a massmeeting at which the entire student body unanimously indorsed a communication to the National Security league asking that organization to repudiate the statements of McElroy as being libelous and untrue.

In the letter to the league the entire incident was reviewed in detail and a statement was included stating that until McElroy was properly reprimanded speakers from the National Security league would be decidedly unwelcome at Wisconsin.

Prof. W. A. Scott, head of the commerce department, was chairman of the meeting and after citing many instances which went to prove that the University of Wisconsin was loyal beyond all possible doubt, he stated that any one who said anything to the contrary was "a liar and should be suppressed."

Leroy J. Burlingame, president of the senior class, said before the meeting that the university went over the top in the Liberty loan with a subscription of $155,000, and that it would no doubt be necessary for the student body to raise at least $200,000 in order to get another remark from McElroy.

The students burned a copy of the Wisconsin State Journal and marched to Jones' home, where they were told he was out of town.

Finns to Barter Coffee for Grain with Sweden

STOCKHOLM, April 26.—The Finnish government has expropriated the supplies of tobacco and coffee.

The surplus will be exported to Germany as compensation for grain.

A lively discussion is proceeding in the Finnish press on the question whether a monarchy or a republic is to be established. Swedish Finns favor a monarchy.

Baron Rhondda Reported Out as Food Controller

LONDON, April 26.—Baron Rhondda, the Daily Mail says it understands, has resigned the office of British food controller which he has held for the last ten months. He has been absent from his post for some weeks owing to illness. John R. Clynes, parliamentary secretary for the food ministry, has been in charge temporarily.

Congress Gets Bill for Absolute "Dry" Nation

Washington, D. C., April 26.—Absolute prohibition of the manufacture or distribution of liquor during the war was proposed in a bill introduced today by Representative Barkley of Kentucky.

HOME RULE PLEA OF CHICAGO IRISH REACHES WILSON

Fellowship Club Fears the Situation Will Endanger the Allies.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., April 26.—[Special.]—Expressing the fear that the Irish conscription issue endangers the common cause of the United States and its allies, the Irish Fellowship club of Chicago has petitioned President Wilson to employ his good offices with England to obtain immediate home rule for Ireland, thereby enabling Ireland to settle the conscription question.

The petition which was laid before the president today says:

> Our fear as Americans is that the present situation between England and Ireland will be gravely prejudicial to the cause of America and the allies at this most critical time.
>
> Our interest and duty as Americans is to subordinate and bend everything towards winning the war.

Claims Are Presented.

A statement of the claims and contentions of the parties most directly involved is given as follows:

"The English government claims it is not only just but expedient for a war measure for it to impose conscription on Ireland at this time.

"The people of Ireland contend that when treated fairly they need not be drafted to fight freedom's battles, and in no event has any power outside of Ireland the right to impose such a draft.

"That at the opening of the war England passed a home rule law for Ireland whose operation she suspended for one year under armed pressure of rebellious Ulsterites aided from Germany.

"That England promised not to conscript the Irish.

Might Weaken Allied Forces.

"That alien conscription violates the principle of nationhood, whose preservation was one of the basic causes of this war.

"That England recognized this principle as applicable to the subject of conscription in Canada, Australia, and other dominions.

"That by England's own figures and admissions the draft would yield fewer untrained men than it would require trained men to enforce, and in this manner would weaken rather than strengthen the allied forces during this critical year.

"That Irishmen everywhere look with hope to President Wilson, the champion of the rights of small nations.

"That failure to grant Ireland her rights may prove an embarrassment to the United States and the allies at the peace conference.

T. P. O'Connor, member of the British parliament, called on Lord Reading, the British ambassador, at the British embassy this morning and conferred at length on the question of Irish conscription.

TEUTONS BREED ROW OVER COAL WITH THE SWISS

PARIS, April 26.—It evidently is difficult to satisfy the German greed. One would have thought the central empires had enough enemies, but this does not appear to be the case.

After trying to make trouble with Holland, which trouble has not yet calmed down, the Germans seem to want to cause friction with Switzerland.

As is the case with Holland, it would not be the first time trouble has arisen between Helvetia and Germany. In Holland the first cause of the quarrel was over the transit of gravel and sand, and in Switzerland it is over the transit of a supply of coal.

The German press, notably the North German Gazette, almost openly warns Switzerland she should be satisfied with what Germany is sending in the matter of coal.

This paper points out that there are other countries bordering on Germany which are in better position to relay than Switzerland. These countries, of course, are Holland and Denmark.

The German Gazette also says the Swiss newspapers should not show so much dislike toward Germany.

The reason Germany should make such strong representations toward Switzerland is said to be caused through new negotiations being held in Berne by which Germany wants Switzerland to supply her with more food.

Wilson Assures Greece of Peace Meeting Aid

Washington, D. C., April 26.—President Wilson has assured the Greek people that the United States is determined to give its fullest measure of support to Greece and that the country's rights shall be preserved in any final peace negotiations.

The president's attitude became known today when the state department gave out the text of a statement cabled to Minister Droppers at Athens which was given out for publication in the Greek capital.

Belgium Gets $3,250,000 in Loan from America

Washington, D. C., April 26.—Belgium was granted another credit of $3,250,000 by the treasury today, making her total borrowings from the United States $107,850,000 and credits to all the allies $5,228,850,000.

Teuton U-Boats Land Guns on the Coast of Tripoli

Washington, D. C., April 26.—German submarines have been landing guns, food, and munitions on the coast of Tripoli, according to an official dispatch today from France.

U. S. NAMES LABOR ARBITER HERE; MEANS WAR WORK

Unions' Promise of Peace Expected to Gain Contracts.

Chicagoans interested in bringing new government war work to Chicago foresaw success when they learned last night that Secretary of Labor Wilson had named John B. Lennon as special arbitrator in Chicago labor disputes. It also was stated that union heads had agreed to abide by the arbitrator's verdicts during the war.

For several months the Chicago Co-operative League of Building Trades and Industries has been bombarding Washington with statistics on the city's labor resources for war industries. Hugh Reid, representing the labor department, visited Chicago and made a survey of labor conditions last week. During his trip he talked with many local labor leaders.

The appointment of Mr. Lennon, who is vice president of the American Federation of Labor, came as the result of Mr. Reid's report.

End Fights Is Advice.

In naming Mr. Lennon, Secretary Wilson reiterated the words of Mr. Reid to labor leaders that the campaign to bring war contracts to Chicago will be handicapped unless the unions end all their jurisdictional fights.

"It has been pointed out to the department of labor and to the war industries board," the secretary said, "that large numbers of men are without employment in Chicago.

"Mr. Reid, representative of the department, reports that there are upwards of 50,000 in the building trades at present idle. He told representatives of the various Chicago unions that there were certain factors in the Chicago labor situation which made the department hesitate to recommend any large undertakings there.

Willing to Arbitrate.

"Various labor leaders with whom he conferred indicated a willingness to submit their internal disputes to governmental arbitration. As a result of his report, Mr. Lennon has been assigned to attempt some agreement by which the unions will sign a joint agreement to abide by the decision of government arbitrators during the term of the war."

It was also stated in the capital that Mr. Lennon would endeavor to settle the present labor trouble between the Otis Elevator company and electrical workers' union No. 134 on the Pennsylvania station construction work. It was this difficulty that prevented the electrical workers from signing up at first with other building trade unions to agree to call no strikes during the war.

Sees Victory for City.

"It looks to me as if the action of the secretary of labor means that the campaign for war work for Chicago has been won," F. B. Sullivan, secretary of the Coöperative league, said last night. "The building trades' unions have already signed a no strike agreement during the war. The government need have no fear that labor will stand in the way of finishing war contracts brought to Chicago.

"We hope that included in the work which the government authorities are planning to bring here will be contracts for the construction of ships for the emergency freight fleet."

FOUR MINUTE MEN

Meeting Called for Noon Monday to Emphasize Instructions on Bond Installments.

Four minute men who have been talking in behalf of the Liberty loan will meet at noon Monday in the Morrison hotel to discuss plans for making their work more effective.

Among other things it will be pointed out that some of them have failed to explain in talking for the loan that it was not necessary to pay the entire amount subscribed for at once. They will be urged to explain the partial payment system by which bonds can be taken for payments as small as $2 a week, and the other plan by which only 5 per cent has to be paid immediately 20 per cent on May 28, 35 per cent on July 18, and 40 per cent on Aug. 15.

The four minute men have been instructed not to act as auctioneers or to solicit subscriptions on the spot. In some of the theaters in which they have spoken the Stage Women's War relief is soliciting subscriptions following the speeches.

DAVISON WANTS NO 'SLACKERS' IN RED CROSS

PARIS, April 26.—Henry P. Davison, chairman of the American Red Cross war council, who has been on a tour of inspection along the battle fronts in France and Italy, left Paris today to return to the United States. Upon taking leave of the Red Cross staff here, Mr. Davison said:

"Every Red Cross man should do his work with a complete sense of humanity and obligation to the people who for three years and a half have been fighting and suffering for America.

"Any man," Mr. Davison added, "who feels that anything he does here in the name of the Red Cross incurs obligation on the part of the French people should be sent home immediately. It is, on the contrary, a privilege on our part to have had any share in the great effort to convey to France our sense of immense obligation and admiration for her."

British Bomb Enemy Posts; Germans Lose 17 Planes

LONDON, April 26.—The official communication dealing with aviation issued today says:

"On Thursday mists interfered, but we dropped 650 bombs on Menin, Roulers, Armentieres, and enemy billets.

"Ten hostile machines were downed in air fighting and two others were disabled. Four others were shot down by anti-aircraft gunfire and one by infantry fire. Two of our machines are missing."

NORTHCLIFFE SEEKS TO QUIT MISSION POST

Says He Resigned, but Will Remain Until Successor Is Found.

LONDON, April 26.—The Standard says it understands that Lord Northcliffe, chairman of the London headquarters of the British mission to the United States and director of propaganda in enemy countries, tendered his resignation on account of ill health, but that at the request of the premier and the cabinet he consented to continue his duties until a successor can be found.

Lord Northcliffe, in an interview, says he has been suffering from influenza for nine weeks, but kept working throughout his illness. He said he consented to continue until the government finds a successor.

Weir Given Air Post.

Sir William Weir has been appointed minister of the air forces in succession to Lord Rothermere, brother of Lord Northcliffe, who resigned yesterday. Official announcement of Sir William's appointment was made this evening.

IN ILL HEALTH.

Announcement was made Thursday in a dispatch from London that Lord Rothermere had resigned as secretary of state for the air forces as a result of ill health. Recently Lord Rothermere had been criticized severely by a portion of the press for running counter to Maj. Gen. Trenchard, chief of the air staff, and Maj. Gen. Sir David Henderson, director general of military aeronautics, who recently resigned their posts.

Sir William Weir has been director general of aircraft production. He was born in 1877 and has been in the aeronautical service since last year. Formerly he was Scottish director of munitions.

IRELAND ENJOYS A GREAT WAVE OF PROSPERITY

[SPECIAL CABLE TO CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

DUBLIN, April 26.—Straw hats, home grown tomatoes, and strawberries appeared today. Never in Ireland's history has there been such abundant prosperity as now. Farmers have become independently well off in four years. Except for the scarcity of sugar and the high price of whisky, the nation is living on the fat of the land. The salaried man and the poor class in the large cities are feeling the pinch of war prices. If the rebellion is averted, Ireland in a few years should become one of the richest nations, per capita, in the world.

American Colors

versus

German Colors

At the Textile Exhibition

If you are interested in knowing what progress has been made during the past year in the manufacture of American dyestuffs, we invite you to visit the Sixth National Textile Exhibition which is to be held at the Grand Central Palace, New York, from April 29 to May 11.

This Company has engaged a large corner space on the Fourth Floor and the feature of our exhibit will be a display of dyeings of some fifty "NATIONAL COLORS," alongside of which will be shown dyeings of the same class of colors of German manufacture.

These dyeings have been subjected to the same tests of scouring and fulling and exposure to light and weather for the purpose of illustrating more fully than has heretofore been attempted the exact status of American dyes as compared with similar dyes of foreign manufacture. The exhibit will be of unusual interest to members of the textile trade, to manufacturers of Men's and Women's Wear, and to the general public.

We believe it will demonstrate that the promises of this Company to place on the American market, within a reasonable time, an adequate and comprehensive line of satisfactory colors, is being fulfilled. The exhibit will also be recognized as part of our new war industry and will display the very interesting "bases" or "intermediates" used both in the production of munitions and colors.

CHIEF OFFICERS OF FLORENCE H. BELIEVED LOST

U. S. Gets List of Missing in Ship Blown Up on French Coast.

New York, April 26.—Capt. F. J. Butterfield and all the deck officers of the American steamship Florence H. now are believed to have lost their lives when that ship was destroyed by an explosion April 17 while off the French coast. A list of survivors received here today by cable from the American consul at Brest does not contain their names. It also is shown that only two of the engine room officers escaped uninjured, the others being reported as badly burned.

A checking up of the cabled list, with the record of the crew filed with the United States shipping commissioner here when the Florence H. sailed, shows that out of fifty-six men in the civilian crew, twenty-nine are dead or missing, twelve are in hospitals badly burned, two are slightly burned, and only thirteen escaped uninjured.

There is a possibility, however, officials of the United States shipping board here said, that some of the missing may yet be accounted for, but as the Florence H. was near a port when the explosion occurred this hope is remote. Chief Engineer James B. Watson and First Assistant Engineer Strickland are among those who escaped injury.

Men Believed Lost.

Those believed to be lost, with the addresses of their nearest relatives given by them when they signed the ship's articles, are:

CAPT. F. J. BUTTERFIELD, Haverill, Mass.
JOHN BEANS, chief mate, Brooklyn, N. Y.
RUSSELL OVERINGTON, second mate, Brooklyn, N. Y.
H. L. CUDAHY, third mate, Portland, Ore.
E. BENTLEY, reserve engineer, Halifax, England.
A. W. RANDLE, reserve officer, Niagara Falls.
J. A. WASHKO, reserve officer, Cleveland, O.
JOSEPH LAMERAUX, reserve engineer, 6727 Champlain avenue, Chicago.
L. B. GILDART, seaman, Everett, Mass.
S. PANSHI, carpenter, Russia.
C. A. GOODWIN, water tender, Melrose, Mass.
N. TANXIA, E. MONI, S. KATO, E. YOSNISAWA, messmen, homes in Japan.
T. MOTSUSNO, third cook; N. YAMAGUHAI, second cook; S. UMETSU, chief cook; T. MIYAKA, steward; H. YAMAFATO, messman, Japan.
JOSE ROSENTHAL, coal passer; A. SYLVIA, coal passer; A. AINPOS, fireman; C. F. SANTOS, fireman; J. S. ROUDOM, fireman; C. SCARDOUI, fireman, no address given.
N. BUXOPOLOS, fireman, Houston, Tex.
S. H. DOUCVIS, fireman, Greece.
A. VOVOA, fireman, Peru.

Six of Naval Crew Survive.

In addition to the civilian crew there were on board twenty-three men of a naval guard, six of whom have been reported as survivors through the navy department at Washington.

The Florence H. sailed from Philadelphia March 30 with a cargo, part of which was explosives. A recent cable advice from Paris said that the explosion was believed to have been caused by a bomb planted on the ship before it sailed.

3,000 KIDDIES ARE MADE HAPPY AT RINGLING CIRCUS

Many happy children, as many as possible of the thousands of orphans and cripples in the various institutional homes in Chicago, had their day at the circus yesterday. More than 3,000 unfortunate kiddies were entertained at the matinée performance at the Coliseum as the special guests of Ringling Brothers.

Everybody connected with the big circus, from Director General Charles Ringling to the boys who distributed the thousands of bags of popcorn and peanuts with the compliments of the circus, made a special effort to entertain and provide comforts. The clowns arranged special stunts, May Wirth, the famous girl rider, turned additional somersaults, the hundreds of ballet girls in the new spectacle, "In Days of Old," danced longer, and the entire performance moved with a snap that permitted not a single dull moment.

As early as 1 o'clock the children began to arrive. Some came in street cars, many in motor busses, and several hundred private automobiles were loaned. Special details of police, aided by jackies from the Great Lakes naval training station, carried the children into the building.

Hungary Workers Make Threats Against Rulers

Washington, D. C., April 26.—Labor troubles continue in Hungary. A dispatch from Switzerland today said that in Budapest on April 22 more than 250,000 workmen gathered in a protest in different parts of the city and adopted a resolution which the censor did not allow to be published in its entirety. The men expressed irritation and bitterness over conditions and decided to use every means, including legal measures if necessary, to overturn the government, which does not satisfy the workingmen's claims for electoral reform.

Can't Get "Correct Time" by Telephone After May 1

Watch your clock after May 1. You must depend upon it for the time of day, for the Chicago Telephone company announces that its operators will no longer respond to requests for the "correct time." They have answered this question 250,000 times a day up to now, but wartime conditions and the necessity to save time, labor, and apparatus will prevent them from doing so in the future. So wind your clock before you go to bed the night of April 30.

MARINE HEROES IN BATTLE SPUR TO RECRUITING

Who's Who Among the Chicagoans Recently Hurt in Action.

"Since the beginning of the war there has been no more powerful stimulant for recruiting than the marine overseas casualty list received from France on Thursday night," said Maj. F. H. Delano, in charge of United States marine corps recruiting for the central division, last night at his headquarters, 528 South Dearborn street. "Increases of from 25 to 50 and in some cases 100 per cent were reported yesterday from the sixteen states in my division."

Lieut. Frederic Kensel, in charge of recruiting for the Chicago district, said his office force was working overtime to keep pace with the applications, 1,000 of which have been received this week. Three hundred and fifty-four men have been accepted.

Tribute to Lieut. Shannon.

Chicago's first commissioned marine officer to fall in combat with the Germans is Lieut. Harold D. Shannon of the Sixth battalion, Sixth regiment of marines, who was reported slightly wounded. His home is at 5536 Everett avenue, with his uncle, Edward T. Page.

"Lieut. Shannon is one of our most efficient officers," said Lieut. Kensel. "With Capt. Thomas G. Sterrett and Lieut. J. F. Rorke he was in charge of what we call the 'moppers up' in trench warfare at the Quantico, Va., training camp. It probably was in action of this nature that he was wounded. He helped direct the trench fighting scenes in our marine recruiting picture, 'The Unbeliever,' a part of which was taken at Quantico.

"He has a distinguished record. He joined the marine corps at the time of the first Mexican trouble in 1913 and was a member of the force of jackies and marines that landed from the battleship Louisiana at Vera Cruz. It was after that he took his examination for a commission and passed."

Hoyne Avenue Boy.

Sergt. Harry W. Puccetti, another member of the gallant Seventy-fourth company of the Sixth regiment, of whom the official report stated, "none was captured," was formerly employed by the firm of Hornblower & Weeks, bankers and brokers, 37 South La Salle street. His parents live at 333 South Hoyne avenue. He has a brother and a cousin in the military service.

Sergt. Odelio N. Kass, reported as wounded, had been in the wholesale department of Marshall Field & Co. for four years when he joined the marines. His Chicago home was at 6416 Kimbark avenue. His family are now at Alton, Ia.

There is believed to have been an error in cable transmission in the name of Sergt. Leon Hadad of 844 East Fifty-fifth street. He was reported wounded. But his mother, Mrs. Amelia Hadad, has received no notification from the war department. She received a post card from him yesterday in which he stated he was in the best of health. He belonged to the headquarters division of the Sixth regiment.

Although Sergt. Edward G. Warren's name was carried on the casualty list, his mother, Mrs. Mary E. Warren of 5812 Drexel avenue, has received no notification from the war department and it is believed another Warren is meant.

Samuel P. Thrasher, superintendent of the Committee of Fifteen, has received no word for seven weeks from his son, Sergt. Dana B. Thrasher of the Seventy-fourth company, Sixth marine regiment, and is wondering whether he was injured in the recent fighting. Sergt. Thrasher joined the marines last April and sailed from Quantico last fall.

Corporal Vernon Neely Sostheim, another member of the Seventy-fourth company, was wounded in action on April 13, according to a telegram received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Sostheim of 7412 Princeton avenue. No details were disclosed. Corporal Sostheim was formerly employed in the real estate offices of Frederick H. Bartlett & Co.

Others in the List.

Others named in the list were Corporal Carl W. Johnson of 104 West One Hundred and Seventh street, and Privates Ernest P. Peterson, formerly with Montgomery Ward & Co., whose mother lives at 6937 Aberdeen street; Albert W. Bartz, whose father, Herman Bartz, lives at 213 Elizabeth street, Joliet, and Charles F. Miller, whose address was given as 6545 West Monroe street.

"No Kaiser Nonsense," Gerard Tells Soldiers

Washington, D. C., April 26.—"America will stand no nonsense from the kaiser," declared former Ambassador to Germany James W. Gerard in opening here tonight a Y. M. C. A. hut for soldiers and sailors. "America now makes the same threat toward the kaiser that the kaiser made toward America when he received me at his Potsdam palace in October, 1915. 'Force must be met with force.'"

Officer Reported Dead Is Alive; Wedding Expected

Lieut. Julian A. Dow, reported killed in the big drive in France, is alive and Miss Nell Huckins of Rogers Park, his sweetheart, has laid aside her mourning garments. Miss Huckins and Lieut. Dow were to have been married in July. A cablegram telling of his death was received on April 11 by his parents in Neoga, Ill.

They immediately wired Miss Huckins and after a few days she went to Neoga to sympathize with them. Two hours after she entered their home another cablegram was received saying that the young lieutenant is alive, but wounded and a prisoner in Germany.

The message said that because he will be incapacitated for service he may be exchanged. So the wedding may yet be held in July. Lieut. Dow has been "over there" eight months as a medical officer in the British army.

SIX CHICAGOANS PROVE HEROIC UNDER HUN FIRE

149th F. A. Fighting Men Cited for Bravery; Letter from One.

Private Joseph Gross, Battery C, One Hundred and Forty-ninth Field artillery, an employé of THE TRIBUNE, is among those of the American forces cited for bravery in action in the recent fighting in France.

Private Gross is just past his twenty-first birthday. He is the son of Henry C. Gross of 847 King place. He has been a worker in the engraving room of THE TRIBUNE for five years and enlisted with Col. Henry J. Reilly's regiment upon gaining his majority.

Five Others Honored.

Five other Chicagoans—members of Battery A—were cited for bravery in general order No. 11 by Col. Reilly under date of March 24. They are:

CAPT. T. S. HAMMOND, 1362 North Dearborn street. Mrs. Hammond is now a guest of Mrs. Reilly at Winnetka.
PRIVATE GEORGE W. HESSLEAU, father William J. Hessleau, 5046 West Madison street.
LIEUT. ROBERT N. McCREARY, 61 Cedar street; father, R. H. McCreary.

Four Danville Men Cited.

Four men of Danville, Ill., also are named in the citation of Col. Reilly. They are:

SERGT. FRANK HICKMAN; father, P. C. Hickman.
LIEUT. WILLIAM W. BODINE.
PRIVATE JOHN MOSELY.

Hammond a Grid Star.

Capt. "Tom" Hammond first gained fame as a football player on the Hyde Park school teams of 1899-1902, and then developed into a star on the Michigan teams of 1903-1906. Capt. Hammond now is commander of a battalion of the One Hundred and Forty-ninth.

A copy of the general order was received yesterday by Mrs. A. H. Unger, known as "the little mother of the One Hundred and Forty-ninth regiment," who has charge of the relief headquarters in the Marshall Field annex.

"The regimental commander wishes to commend the officers and enlisted men," the order says, "for the coolness and spirit displayed when left with a single piece in a position from which their battery had been removed because of the heavy fire."

The men are members of Battery A.

Lack of Cigg. Main Trouble.

A friend on THE TRIBUNE recently received the following letter from Private Gross:

"You say to make my wants known to you. Well to begin with don't forget that over here under fire I smoke ten times as much as you or Bill, both of you. Your cigarets from Christmas are gone, also six other cartons, and a hundred Union League club and a hundred others, and about twenty cans of pipe tobacco. Sam, you should know how a person smokes, for you have been in action and no doubt smoked as much as I do now. So for —— —— send me some cigg. tobacco. I can't get good old U. S. A. cigg. or tobacco over here. At the Y. M. C. A. you can get only one package at a time. Outside of that I get along pretty well.

Doesn't Mind the Shells.

"We have been up here some time, that is at the front where the shells are quite thick. We have had everything but liquid fire and air raids. The worst thing is the gas. Got so I don't mind the shells, but O, that gas! Have also been out under fire, shells breaking all around, in the day and night both. Got lost several times, but up to date I am getting along quite nicely with my new work. I like it better than the old—I get out more and see more than I would otherwise. The only thing that I don't like is that the days never end; about thirty hours in a day now, the closest I can figure it out.

A Little Art. Duel.

"By the time you get this, I will be in another place, where, is a question.

"O yes, I forgot to say that this little stations of ours has been bombarded at mess time, at that. A little art. duel.

"Well I hope this finds you well and happy. I am having lots of fun dodging pieces of shell and am very careful about it. Am quite well at present. I remain, truly, JOSEPH."

We Must Not and Shall Not Fail! Gompers' Cry

OTTAWA, Ont., April 26.—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, delivered at a joint session of the senate and house of commons late today an address which Minister of Justice Doherty characterized as "a new inspiration which shall revive in us our determination."

"We cannot fail! We must not fail! We shall not fail!" Mr. Gompers declared. "But it is better to fail fighting than willingly to submit to the yoke. A willingness to submit to the tyrant's yoke simply means stifling and stamping out the spirit of liberty."

ALL ON BOARD OF TUSCANIA PROVE 'HE MEN'

First Survivor to Reach City Tells Story of Disaster.

The first of the survivors of the Tuscania sinking to arrive in Chicago is back with a stirring tale of the disaster and of the splendid behavior of the American troops aboard. He is Lieut. Arnold Joerns of the aviation service, formerly secretary of the Chicago branch of the National Security league.

"There isn't so much to tell of the sinking as one might think," said Lieut. Joerns yesterday. "The thing came too rapidly and events followed too quickly. The outstanding fact about it all was the splendid behavior of our boys, every single one of whom proved himself a 'he man.' Every officer of the 150 aboard was proud of those 2,100 enlisted men.

Ship Shakes Like Steer.

"The ship was struck about 6 o'clock in the evening. I was in the middle of the ship at the time, and the ship shook like I have seen steers shake at the stockyards. Then suddenly everything was still. The torpedo had gone through the engine room, stopping the machinery, and after days of the throbbing of the engines their sudden silence was almost uncanny.

"The men had just finished their supper in the hold. They were as disorganized as it was possible to be. Yet they formed themselves into lines, without disorder or panic, and went up the ladders to the deck in single file. There were only two women—stewardesses—aboard. When they appeared on deck the men cried, as if by common consent, 'step aside, the ladies are coming.' The lines of men parted and the women were at once sent over the side into boats.

Women Help Rescue.

"They were real women—those two—Scotchwomen. They clambered down the ropes as nimbly as any man, and when in their boat aided in the rescue of four of our lads from the water. The ship's officers, also Scotch, lived up to the best traditions of the British navy."

Lieut. Joerns was in charge of a lifeboat which held fifty men. It was rescued by a British destroyer at 7 o'clock.

"Some of the scenes were sickening," continued Lieut. Joerns. "I was not much bothered by my wetting, and after getting into dry clothing and getting something hot to drink went on deck and helped pull in survivors. But there were some humorous incidents among the tragic. We on the destroyer found a raft with six American soldiers on it, singing 'Where Do We Go from Here, Boys?' They were saved. Some weeks later I told a French clergyman about this, and he preached a sermon on it, only he didn't know the song and described the sublimity of those soldiers, not knowing whether heaven awaited them or not, 'singing that beautiful hymn, "Where Are We Going from Here, Lord?"'"

VICE CLEANUP CALLED REASON FOR ARMY HEALTH

Less Disease than Was Expected, Says Dr. W. A. Pusey.

Only the repression of prostitution and the liquor traffic near army cantonments saved the army from having a high rate of venereal disease. As the figures now stand, there is less of this disease than surgeons estimated there would be with the creation of the national army.

Dr. William A. Pusey, who aided the federal authorities in equipping the cantonments for campaigns against diseases, made this statement last night at a meeting of the Institute of Medicine in Recital hall, Fine Arts building.

"It was well known," Dr. Pusey said, "that the spread of diseases went hand in hand with liquor and prostitution. It has long been recognized by army officials that you must expect disease with liquor and vice.

Army Free of Liquor.

"It can be said now that the national army is free of liquor. There is a little 'bootlegging,' but so little that it does no harm. The government has made prostitution difficult. In this it has been given incalculable aid by the civil authorities of the various cities. It was the five mile vice zones about cantonments which did most good.

"There have been cities cleaned up of vice and liquor conditions in the last few months which never would have made a start on this had it not been for the war. The country has been awakened to the terribleness of disease. It is ready for any kind of a campaign now. The revolution has been magical."

Called Army's Salvation.

Dr. Pusey told of the plan by which every soldier is punished for laying himself open to contract disease without notifying his superior. He said the medical treatment given the men had been criticized by moralists and "busybodies," but that it was the salvation of the army.

"The whole question is one of education," said the doctor. "It will be of lasting good after the war. The soldier has been educated to know that disease is worse than bullets. He has been given every form of healthful recreation to aid in this movement."

"I. M. O." AND RAPID TRANSIT.

No fair and thoughtful mind denies there is a case for municipal ownership of local transportation systems. City ownership and operation might conceivably give better service than private ownership and operation. Those who advocate municipalization of our traction systems are entitled to be heard and always will be heard until a final determination of the issue is reached.

The existing evils in our transportation service are only indirectly related to the question of ownership. The development of the city has reached a point where it is practically impossible to improve the service without increasing transportation facilities. The number of street cars and elevated trains that operate through the loop during the rush hours is limited to the physical capacity of the tracks. Inasmuch as business at these hours is more profitable for the companies than at any other periods of the day it is to their own interest to operate as many cars as possible.

It is not only the loop that suffers by the present congestion. Practically every outlying community feels the lack of rapid transit facilities. The report of the city's expert engineers was especially designed to give relief to these communities.

Any program for the improvement of transportation conditions in Chicago will involve the expenditure of millions of dollars. The city's commission of engineers estimated the expense for the first period of construction—that is, for the first six to nine years—would amount to approximately $100,000,000. The elevated railroads, which have never been profitable, could not raise that sum of money. The surface lines, with a franchise having only nine years to run, would be equally incapable of borrowing so large an amount.

The city government likewise could not do it. Our municipal borrowing power is definitely limited by the state constitution, and at the present time we have almost reached the prescribed limitation. In order to bring about municipal ownership we should have to obtain authority in the first place to issue sufficient bonds to purchase the existing properties. The initial expense would be more than $200,000,000. We should then have to float another bond issue of $100,000,000 or more if we intended to make any extensive improvements—and the straphanger will not be any better off than he is today until these improvements are made.

Now the only way in which the city can obtain authority to issue bonds to meet these very large expenditures is through the medium of a constitutional convention. If everything should go well the city might be given that authority within about five years. The people of the state will vote on the proposed convention this fall. If the vote is favorable it will then be the duty of the legislature to provide for the election of delegates. The next step is the assembling of the delegates, and no one can know how long it will take them to finish their work. Finally the proposed constitution is submitted to a referendum vote. After that would come action under the grant.

If, then, all transportation improvement is made contingent on the adoption of a new constitution it is clear that we cannot make any headway for several years even under favorable circumstances. But there is always the possibility that some obstacle may postpone or nullify the whole scheme. Even if a new constitution should finally be adopted we have no assurance that it would contain adequate provisions to give Chicago the power to purchase the traction lines or to borrow money for their rehabilitation.

In the meantime it is altogether probable that our population will have increased and our transportation service will have become correspondingly worse.

On the other hand, there is reason to believe that we can now make an agreement with the private companies which will insure an early beginning on the proposed program of rapid transit improvement. It is true that Walter L. Fisher criticizes with force certain features of the preliminary proposal submitted by the companies, but a reasonable attitude on both sides, coupled with a desire to bring about an equitable compromise, ought to lead to a settlement. If that can be accomplished it is quite likely that the so-called initial period of construction would be entirely completed before the proposed new constitution became effective.

It should be understood that by proceeding with the present program the city will not preclude itself from taking up the question of "immediate municipal ownership" whenever Chicago obtains the constitutional authority it now lacks. But in the absence of that authority the "I. M. O." agitation is merely futile or worse.

THE BOULEVARD LINK.

Officials at Washington are said to be dubious about giving their sanction to the construction of the boulevard link at this time. Shortage of labor and shortage of steel are cited as making it inadvisable to undertake large public works unless they are clearly of urgent necessity.

The desirability and necessity of the link project are not open to question. Before the war this improvement, for one reason and another, was delayed altogether too long. A city that could tolerate the continued existence of such an obstacle to traffic as the Rush street bridge stood convicted of a rather shameful degree of civic indolence, inertia, and irresponsibility.

Mr. Faherty of the board of local improvements is trying to convince Washington that the link should be built even under war time conditions. The very fact, however, that Chicago managed to get along without it for so many years, only to exhibit a burst of energy when we are in the midst of the greatest war of our history, may serve somewhat to vitiate his arguments.

Chicago will be inclined to hope that the work can go on in some fashion or other in spite of the unfavorable conditions. But the public will not favor the city government's demand for any materials or labor that may be needed in necessary war manufactures. Chicago does not want to be put in the position of consulting her selfish interest at the expense of the national interest. We do not want the boulevard link at the present time if its construction will in any way interfere with the prosecution of the war. We have waited a long time; we can wait a while longer.

CHICAGO LAGGING.

There is no good reason why Chicago should be the lagging part of the Seventh district in the third Liberty loan. It is, to the chagrin and wonder of many of its citizens. The showing is not good. It is not creditable.

There is not much excuse for this, although the reassuring thought is that activity must temporarily have reached an air pocket and that it will recover itself.

The condition is not an expression of a Chicago state of mind. It is not a true indication of the city mood. It is true that we have had considerable organized dissent and protest. Some public men aided this dissent by their attitude towards American participation in the war. Political use of protest had its effect. Anti-Americanism, as might be expected, centered in a large city with its heterogeneous composition. There were many obstacles to be overcome, but all of them can be considered without finding in any of them a good or sufficient excuse for Chicago as a laggard.

If a large city contains organizations of protest, it also is available most easily for exhortation. It can be permeated most easily by the influences which make determination and spur energy. The evident retarding of satisfactory activity in Chicago must be corrected.

A quickening of energy is needed.

INFLUENCING PUBLIC OPINION.

Hopewell L. Rogers of the Chicago News, as president of the American Publishers' association, proposed at the annual meeting of the association in New York that the publishers establish a bureau of information in Washington.

The real American difficulty lies in public opinion. So long as public opinion is kept in an uncritical and acceptive condition, policies and acts do not come to an accounting.

In the present bureau of public information the country has an agency of special pleading. Its purpose is to maintain public confidence in things as they are. George Creel is admirably selected for this purpose. He is an uncompromising partisan, with a zeal which knows very few scruples.

The whole object of the department he directs is to prevent the public discernment of errors, the public recognition of the futility and fallacy of policies. It is to keep the public from seeing the relation between cause and effect, to keep them from questioning the ideas which have brought them to their present predicament, and to keep them satisfied with the activities of the government in getting them out of their predicament.

All the hope that the United States is about to learn a lesson is in the hope that public opinion will be modified by experience and that it will not hereafter be so credulous and illusioned. It is the object of the present bureau of public information to interpose rhetoric between public opinion and experience, to prevent the modification, and to keep the people satisfied, credulous, and undisturbed.

Inasmuch as we shall make no progress except by progress in opinion, it is important, as Mr. Rogers suggested, that the publishers establish a bureau which is intended to produce data for correct reasoning and good judgment.

Government statements of what is happening and what is being done have been tainted from the beginning. They are unreliable. They are incomplete. They play upon public opinion in every fashion in which Mr. Creel can manipulate them. They exaggerate. They suppress. They even distort beyond recognition.

They are intended to create false impressions, and the only excuse Mr. Creel could offer would be that they were intended to sustain the morale and optimism of the nation. This, however, is not their primary intent. That is one of justification. It is to justify policies which have brought us into trouble and to continue these policies to get us into more trouble. It is to make errors appear as wise conduct and to make it possible for the errors to continue.

There is need of a bureau of information which will be influenced by a desire to form opinion upon fact. If we can get a correction of opinion we can force an improvement in policies. Unless we get it we shall continue to endure the consequences of bad policies.

"AREOPAGITICA."

In the editorial section of tomorrow's TRIBUNE will be found a selection from the "Areopagitica" of John Milton.

It is published in the hope that a more general knowledge of this great document, a document that dealt a death blow to the censorship of the press in England, may serve to enlighten current notions of censorship in Chicago and elsewhere.

It should be observed that Milton goes even farther than those who criticize the Funkhouser régime. Milton is conscious that an absence of censorship may seem to foster evil. Yet he accepts the danger calmly, and assures us that the ultimate result will be good. "That virtue," he declares, "which is but a youngling in the contemplation of evil, and knows not the utmost that vice promises her followers, and rejects it, is but a blank virtue, not a pure; her whiteness is but an excremental whiteness." An observation that suggests La Rochefoucauld's maxim that no one has a right to be called good unless he has sufficient strength of character to be bad.

Milton's great argument, it is hardly necessary to say, is not the argument of a licentious reprobate; it is, in fact, the plea of a devout Puritan, the author of the greatest religious poem in the English language. This information is added especially for the benefit of Maj. Funkhouser, who, we understand, is of the opinion that artists and defenders of artistic liberty are a bad lot.

SELL YOUR WHEAT.

[From the Prairie Farmer.]

The wheat situation is extremely serious, and it is only with the utmost difficulty that we will be able to get through until harvest. No farmer who is a patriot will hold his wheat now in the hope of higher prices. If we can get higher prices for this year's crop, they will be welcome. In holding back old wheat, however, we are holding back material that is as important as shells and soldiers, and putting ourselves in the same class with shipyard strikers.

The News is highly gratified at the expression of satisfaction on the part of many of our subscribers in the way this paper is handling the war news, especially during the present anxious days. AS you remember, "The Terrible Meek" was a terrible play, but not nearly so terrible as "The Army with Banners." As one reviewer observed, the Song of Solomon contains an even better title, "The Garden of Nuts," and another reviewer suspects that the author is not Mr. Kennedy, but Pichtchalkin, a character in "Smoke." "Pichtchalkin came, the worthy juge de paix," wrote Turgeniev, "and stayed three little hours. He talked, argued, raised questions, touched in turn upon the most elevated and the most practical subjects, and at last diffused such boredom that the unhappy Litvinof was ready to howl with despair. When it came to begetting a feeling of boredom that was mortal, glacial, incurable, Pichtchalkin had no equal."

CONCERNING COMMISSIONS.

(From "The Book of Artemas.")

23 ¶ Now when there was any matter that was beyond the rulers so that they knew not what to do, they would appoint them a commission for to inquire concerning it.

24 And a commission was an assembly of wise men that were sometimes foolish; and they would gather themselves together, and they would question all and sundry, and they would talk.

25 But lest they should do some thing in their carryings on, the rulers would give them instruction and would speak to them, saying,

26 Go ye into a room apart and gather round. And send the young men into the highways and into the byways that they may bring unto you all them that know aught concerning the matter. And whatsoever they may say unto you, that shall ye hear.

27 Afterwards, ye shall make us a report, for that doeth injury to no man. But woe be unto you if ye shall do anything that exceedeth our commandment; verily shall our wrath burn thee up, and thy bones shall fall away into dust.

28 By this means did the rulers put away for a long time those things that were vexatious unto them, having faith in the memory of the people that it was short. Therefore was a commission unto the rulers as a bag of sand to him that fighteth, for it was a shield. And the day was not known whereon the rulers appointed them not a commission.

29 ¶ But there was a certain man and his name was Northcliffe. And the people were divided into two camps concerning him, some saying that he was a raiser of scares, whilst others did say that he knew things. And all were agreeed that he was a thorn in the side of the rulers.

30 And when a commission did bring its report unto the rulers, then did these retire unto the privacy of their bedchambers. And the report they did take with them for to be a pillow unto their heads.

31 And Northcliffe would raise his voice on high and he would say many bitter words. And he would arouse them and would make them to do things.

32 And though many were against him because of it, the good that he did do was manifest. And because he left not the rulers to sleep, therefore did men call him Helsabout, which meaneth The Awakener.

MERITS OF OUTDOOR SPORTS.

J. M. writes: "Now that the one hour of daylight is to be saved afternoons, I have been considering the taking up of golf, tennis, baseball, or other outdoor sport as a means of exercise, being a confined office worker. No doubt there are many others in the same position as I.

"I should like to see a discussion of the relative merits of the different sports mentioned above, and how they compare with each other for men of different ages. I am just past 34 myself; and also how golf and tennis compare with baseball, indoor baseball, and basketball as a recreation and conditioner for sedentary workers. In other words, what would be the best form of recreation and conditioner."

REPLY—You are young enough to play tennis with advantage, and any man who has enough vigor to stand tennis is good enough for golf, basketball, or baseball. Of the games mentioned, golf is far the easiest, and, therefore, best suited for elderly people.

Golf is little more than walking. It starts then by an entry of the advantage of a frequently interrupted walk of two to five miles in the open air and on the turf. The drives, approaches, and putts furnish moderate exercise to the muscles of the arms and trunk. The good player never uses any muscles with great tension or violence. There is the single drive and then a walk before the next one. Nothing about that to strain the heart or to increase blood pressure.

Underneath the ledger entry of a walk in the open air is written: Moderate use of the muscles, of the trunk and arms. No strain—coördination of muscles—zest of play—mild competition.

Baseball is not to be classed with hard exercises. The pitchers, catchers, batsmen, and runners work hard. The other players take life easy until the play comes their way. They must be able to work hard for a short time. They must have good wind, but not much endurance is required.

The compulsory draft disclosed the fact that a lot of good baseball players are poor physical specimens. The fact that some ball players stay in fast company until they reach middle life is further proof that the game is not a hard one.

The draft examiners would probably throw out a majority of the golf players, including some near champions. They threw out a fair number of ball players, but it is a safe bet that a few high class tennis players, squash players, or handball players failed to pass the physical examination for the army.

When a tennis player is no longer able to hop back and forth at great speed for many minutes on a stretch, he may go into baseball, where he may not need to hop but once an inning. If he is no longer able to hop about at all, then golf is his game.

Taking the sedentary worker as a class, I should say that golf is his game. After he has hardened his muscles, taught his brain, nerves, and muscles coördination, he might play baseball if his heart is sound. If he has wind enough for baseball, he might think about tennis and handball. This is assuming that he likes the games equally well and that his physical makeup fits him for all.

A DRINK CURE.

H. offers the following valuable suggestions: Permit me to offer a few suggestions, based upon tolerably mature experience, concerning the treatment of the liquor and the drug habits. In all but the most exceptional cases there is a certain remedy for the cure of both conditions, and that remedy is food. Tissues that are properly nourished will never call for artificial stimulation. Most fortunately, the simplest and most easily assimilated foods are by all odds the most efficient in dealing with artificial diseases.

Light vegetable soups, animal broths, and ripened fruits and berries are of the highest value. Cheese and salads must not be forgotten. Buttermilk and cream are worth their weight in gold. Sedative drugs are of great service at times, but they must be employed sparingly and always with the same caution that we employ when administering a general anaesthetic. If opium is indicated, it must be given by the hand of the physician himself and never confided to unskilled laymen.

Alcoholics ought to be fed from ten to fifteen times a day, a bit of cheese or a morsel of tempting salad counting as a meal. Two ounces of hard cider, mixed with twice the quantity of water, and sipped at leisure will soon destroy the appetite for beer. I question whether saline purgatives ever do any material good. Spinach, wild mustard, turnip tops and young dandelion boiled with smoked jowl and eaten with corn pone and cold buttermilk will keep the bowels open. Never permit a reformed alcoholic to go to bed with an empty stomach.

But without a substantial breakfast the alcoholic is a ship without either sail or rudder. No man who cannot eat a solid breakfast will ever give up the whisky habit. Thirst should be quenched with buttermilk or with a mixture of hard cider and cold water. Vinegar is satisfactory when the cider cannot be procured. Its use creates no habit. Ice cream in small quantities taken at frequent intervals is very useful.

It is astonishing how rapidly the appetite for liquor vanishes under proper feeding. A strong will is much, but a sound stomach is far more important. I have no special theory to advocate, but the more vegetables and the fewer meats the better, within reasonable limits. I hope these suggestions may prove of some value to a rapidly diminishing army of sufferers.

REPLY.

Such a person could not get insurance at all or only by paying an extra premium. Speaking generally, the answer should be no.

PUBLISHERS PRESS PLAN FOR COMPETENT CENSOR

NEW YORK, April 26.—As the result of a suggestion made before the American Newspaper Publishers' association on Tuesday by Hopewell Rogers of Chicago, its retiring president, the organization decided today to seek coöperation by the government in establishing a voluntary censorship bureau composed of practical newspaper men.

Mr. Rogers in his address alluded to "wasted efforts" in the preparation of government publicity matter and classed the head of the government's publicity department as "incompetent and disloyal."

Under the plan proposed today a committee of trained journalists would be selected to gather from the various departments such news as would be of interest to the public and of value in the prosecution of the war, and at the same time eliminate such material as publishers regard as unimportant, thereby saving the time and effort now used in sending out "copy" which reaches waste baskets.

Frank P. Glass of the Birmingham Alabama News was elected president of the association. Other officers elected are:

Telegrams were read to the convention from President Wilson and Secretary McAdoo thanking the American publishers and their newspapers for the generous support given to war measures in general and the Liberty loan campaign in particular.

"May I not express to you and through you to the publishers of the daily newspapers of the United States assembled at the meeting of the American Newspaper Publishers' association, my very deep and warm appreciation of the generous message sent me under date of yesterday (Wednesday)? It is, indeed, stimulating and deeply encouraging to receive such assurances, and I beg that you will convey to the members of the association not only hearty greetings but my sincere hope that our united efforts may bring to the world the peace and justice which we all desire and for which we are all ready to fight to the utmost. WOODROW WILSON."

Secretary McAdoo's message to Mr. Rogers said:

"Will you be good enough to express to the members of the American Newspaper Publishers' association, now in session, my sincere and warm appreciation of the great service they have rendered the country by their consistent, unselfish, and patriotic support of the successive Liberty loans which have been offered by the treasury department?

"These loans could not have succeeded without the support of the newspapers, and it gives me great pleasure to make this acknowledgment.

"An enlightened public opinion is the chief asset of a democracy. By keeping the people of America informed on public events and transmitting to them word of the financial and other needs of the government, the American newspapers are performing a public service of incalculable benefit to the nation."

"W. G. McADOO."

The report of the board of directors of the Associated Press this year is considered of such unusual interest that it was decided today to make it public.

"There have been months this year during which more epoch making news has developed than during some previous years," the report says, "and all newspaper men must wonder whether we shall ever return to former standards of news values. Overtaxed cables, muddled censorships, and similar exigencies of war often have upset our plans and frequently neutralized the resourcefulness of our staff. Yet we have incomparably the most comprehensive machinery for collecting and distrubuting news that the world has ever known.

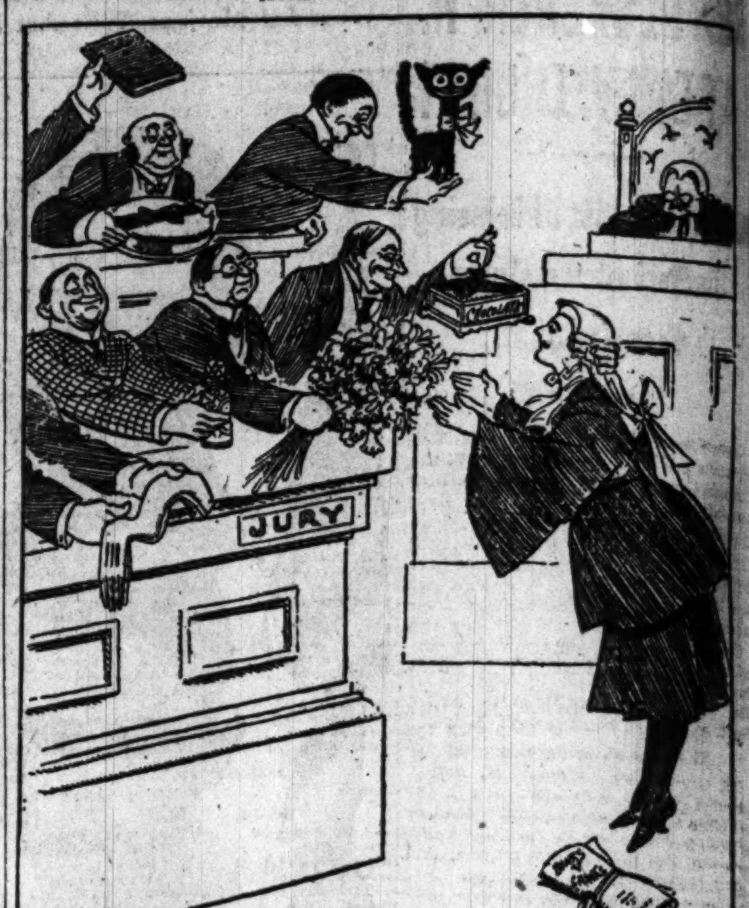
"Of our men abroad, we gratefully acknowledge our appreciation.

"One (Frank M. America) was knocked down by a Zeppelin bomb in London, but worked all that night as usual—merely an incident of the day's work in an office building which has itself been hit by such shells; another (Robert T. Small) fell into the icy Somme, but rode thirty-five miles to cable the story of the first American in Peronne; another (Charles T. Thompson) was on the highest rampart of the castle of Gorizia when a shell buried it and him under earth, but on that afternoon he wrote a story which thrilled the press of Europe as well as of the United States; another (Walter Whiffen) was shot in the knee on a Russian observation post; another (Charles S. Smith), after a bayonet and fist encounter at Harbin, escaped with painful lacerations; another (James Hickey) was blown through a glass door by the Halifax explosion, but before dressing his wounds was resourceful enough to find in a demolished building the terminus of the cable to the West Indies and sent by way of Bermuda and Havana to New York the first direct messages out of Halifax. Such incidents are not unusual in the service of your organization.

"Through the years the Associated Press has by maintaining its standards of accurate reporting preserved the best traditions of journalism. The good name of the Associated Press has not been impaired. The public confidence in our dispatches has steadily grown, until millions of readers now hesitate to give credence to many published reports until assured that they were carried by our association. The sensational Zimmermann note with its report of diplomatic intrigue in Mexico was universally accepted as genuine because the Associated Press said it was. The bombardment of Paris at long range was ridiculed by other press associations and by ordnance experts, but the Paris bureau of the Associated Press, which for two days alone reported this startling development of the war to American readers, convinced the skeptical quite as thoroughly as did the official confirmation of its report. When the government's action in taking over the Dutch ships in American harbors was reported in Europe several chancelleries inquired in European capitals whether the Associated Press announced this fact."

A "DARLING" COME TO JUDGMENT

[From London Opinion, London.]



When we get the lady barrister, will it be permissible for the jury to pay homage as above, after a brilliant legal peroration?

The Friend of the People.

ALLEY CONDITION IMPROVED.

Chicago, April 24.—[To the Friend of the People.]—There are no ash cans in the alley between Trumbull and St. Louis avenues, near Twenty-third street. This condition has been reported several times, but nothing has been done.

C. R.

The statement that there are no ash cans in this alley is untrue. However, those not provided with proper receptacles have been served with notice to procure same. Alley has been cleaned and is now in good condition.

F. S. MITCHELL,
Superintendent of Streets.

SERVICE GIVEN SEMI-WEEKLY.

Chicago, April 22.—[To the Friend of the People.]—The condition of the alley between Wrightwood avenue and Draper street, from Racine avenue east to the railroad tracks, is in a deplorable condition. This matter has on several occasions been brought to the attention of the officials of the Twenty-fourth ward, but they repeatedly ignore it.

A CITIZEN.

The residents were notified to put their ash receptacles at the curb after the heavy snows which made the alleys impassable, and that service would be given from the street until such time as teams could again use the alleys. This particular alley is narrow, and it is impossible for ash teams to use it at present. Satisfactory arrangements have been made with residents to put ash cans at the curb on Tuesdays and Fridays, collection days.

F. S. MITCHELL,
Superintendent of Streets.

FOREIGN RESIDENCE OF CITIZEN.

Chicago, April 22.—[To the Friend of the People.]—Does a naturalized citizen lose his citizenship if he lives outside of the United States for a certain length of time?

H. J. A.

The naturalization laws provided that "when any naturalized citizen shall have resided for two years in the foreign state from which he came, or five years in any other foreign state, it shall be presumed that he has ceased to be an American citizen, and the place of his general abode shall be deemed his place of residence during said years."

SHOULD WAIT TWO YEARS.

Chicago, April 22.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—A final decree of divorce was granted a wife in California on Sept. 18, 1917. How soon may the husband legally remarry, he having resided in Illinois for the last two years?

L. L.

We assume that you use the word "final" advisedly and that the decree was not merely interlocutory. In such case the only obstacle is Illinois law. A recent decision of our Supreme court indicates that it would probably be held that our prohibition of remarriages within a year applies to foreign as well as to Illinois divorces. Hence we must advise waiting one year, or if the ground was adultery the guilty party should wait two years before remarrying.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

CITY ORDINANCE IMPOSES FINE.

Chicago, April 22.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—What is the proper action to take to compel a neighbor to keep his chickens inclosed so that they will not scratch up my garden?

O. L. B.

WIDOW'S DOWER.

Urbana, Ill., April 22.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—A widower, with one son, remarries; later he dies, leaving no will. [1] In order for the widow to retain her dower interest in the home property, must she live there the rest of her life and keep the property in good condition? [2] Does her dower interest in the property terminate with her death? [3] Should the son die before the widow, do his heirs receive his share in the property or does his share revert to his father's widow?

C. E. L.

1. The widow may have a homestead that would be of more value than the dower interest in the home. To retain homestead as a general proposition it must be occupied. To retain the dower, residence is not necessary.
2. Yes.
3. It goes to his heirs.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

As but limited space can be given letters in this department, writers must confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Unless they give us their full names and addresses their letters will not be considered. No manuscript will be returned unless the writer sends postage for that purpose.

LIBERTY INSURANCE.

Chicago, April 26.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—I believe that a Liberty bond is the supreme form and fundamental basis of all insurance "of life, liberty, property, and the pursuit of happiness."

I believe that the future destiny of all mankind depends on the present struggle between the old and the new order.

I believe that my future prosperity and privileges will be in direct proportion to the manner in which I assume my responsibilities as a citizen.

I believe that it is the part of wisdom to sacrifice for the things I love, rather than pay the incomprehensible price of a German victory.

I believe that international law, the rights of women and children, and the neutralities of small nations must be respected.

I believe that "the parliament of man, the federation of the world," can be accomplished only on the basis of democracy.

I believe that I owe my all to America.

M. J.

RECOGNITION FOR OUR ITALIAN ALLIES.

Chicago, April 26.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—In one of the leading movies in the loop, while on the screen were showing some Italian and French generals reviewing the Italian troops somewhere in northern Italy, and while the organ was playing the Italian national anthem, not a hand was clapping, nobody paid any attention to the Italian soldiers and to the Italian colors. Nobody seemed to realize that the Italians are our allies, that they are fighting for the same cause that we are fighting for, under even more terrible hardships and conditions. Why this apathy from the American public for the Italians?

J. B. G.

A ROSTER OF SLACKERS.

Chicago, April 26.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Will not your staff correspondent keep on with the good work and let us have a complete roster of all the patriots who are in "bullet proof jobs"?

After ten or twenty years have passed there will be many old soldiers and sailors among us, but we should make sure that none of these slackers may be claiming a glory that is not theirs.

S. T. R.

THE "LOWEST KIND OF TRAITOR."

Chicago, April 26.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—When a man gives up his business, with little or no chance of ever getting it back, and severs all home ties in order to enlist, so as to help save not only his own country, but the whole world, from a ruthless autocracy, should he not go forward with the knowledge that the family left behind in loneliness will be cared for and guarded by every one?

As days go by, along comes the libertine, with smooth tongue—oftentimes a friend of the family [3,000 miles seem to "lend safety to almost everything]—and the inevitable exposure comes sooner or later.

When such a story reaches "over there," how will others feel about the safety of dear ones left behind? The man who works on the feelings of any woman in such a position is the lowest kind of traitor to his country and should be punished accordingly. W. D. MACK.

DID GOETHE SAY IT?

Chicago, April 25.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Garbled or untruthful quotations are not easily disproved conclusively. Sometimes a witness will preserve the spoken word and more often than not reproduce it wrongly. The case, however, is different when an eminent thinker is supposed to have said "in one of his works" that "the Prussian was born a brute and civilization will make him ferocious." Had Goethe ever uttered such nonsense—he would of course not have been Goethe—he would have been a fool pure and simple. Any man who is only slightly acquainted with Goethe's mind could not possibly attribute such a saying to him. As a matter of fact, Goethe did speak approvingly of the worth, dignity, and perseverance of the Prussians. JOHN C. SCHMITT.

MR. BAKER'S OCEAN TRIP.

Chicago, April 24.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Judging from Secretary Baker's statement his ocean trip was beneficial.

Most of us have had perfect faith in the "right arm in France" and the "body over here," but many of us have been worrying over the "charley horse" in the left arm at Washington—possibly the result of playing politics too steadily.

If the trip is of permanent benefit to Secretary Baker, and as a result the left arm is "invigorated," we should insist upon an ocean trip at once for the entire cabinet.

COL. J. J. GARRITY RESIGNS POST AT CAMP LOGAN

Maj. Abel Davis Becomes Lieutenant Colonel of Infantry.

Camp Logan, Houston, Tex., April 26.—[Special.]—Col. John J. Garrity of Chicago, former commander of the Second infantry, the One Hundred and Thirty-second infantry, U. S. N. G., and the One Hundred and Thirtieth infantry, tendered his resignation as colonel late last night. No action has been taken on the resignation as yet.

Col. Garrity will be the third Illinois colonel to leave the service since the Prairie division has been in existence. The other two, Cols. Moriarty and Wood, were given honorable discharge.

Thirty Years in Service.

Col. Garrity, who in civil life is a postoffice employé, stationed at the central office in Chicago, has been in the service for over thirty years. He served all this time with the old Second infantry. Col. Garrity served through the Spanish-American war in Cuba and was in command of the Second infantry at San Antonio in 1916. He came to Camp Logan in September, 1917, in command of the regiment. In January he was ordered to the San Antonio school for brigade officers. He finished the course successfully and was returned to Camp Logan. On his return he was put in command of the One Hundred and Thirtieth infantry.

Maj. Abel Davis of the One Hundred and Thirty-first infantry today was made lieutenant colonel and assigned to the One Hundred and Thirty-second infantry. It is thought that another day will see the promotion of Lieut. Col. Davis to full colonel and put him in command of the regiment. The extra day is the result of the well known army red tape. Col. Davis was in command of the provisional regiment, from which he salvaged 3,000 men for the division. He was next put in command of trench warfare, and then when Col. Houle was relieved of command of the One Hundred and Thirty-second infantry Maj. Davis was given the regiment. He has been in command continually since.

Banker and Lawyer.

In civil life Col. Davis is vice president of the Chicago Title and Trust company and a lawyer of prominence. He has been in the service since 1898, having enlisted in that year in the First Illinois infantry.

Maj. H. C. Castor, assistant division adjutant and one of Chicago's best known insurance men, has been transferred as camp adjutant of Camp Logan. This means that he will not move with the division when it leaves for France.

DAUGHTER TELLS OF NEW MISSING SCHMIDT WIVES

Detroit, Mich., April 26.—[Special.]—Confronted by Mrs. Adele Ullrich-Brown of Lakewood, N. J., wife of Helmuth Schmidt, Gertrude, 17 year old daughter of the self-slain bluebeard of Royal Oak, admitted today in the office of Prosecutor Gillespie that her own mother, Mrs. Anita Schmidt, and another woman, Margareta Baersch, both of whom preceded Adele Ullrich at Lakewood, had one after the other mysteriously and suddenly disappeared.

Mrs. Ullrich-Brown, who came from New York to claim her widow rights in Schmidt's estates, forced his daughter to confess that she had lied to the authorities on several essential phases of their inquiry.

Miss Ulrich and Schmidt were married Dec. 30, 1914, after she already had given him $1,250 which she drew from a bank. Her life at Lakewood, as she recites it, was one of terror and suspense.

Her suspicions were partly aroused soon after her arrival by her discovery that a deep well at the rear of the house had recently been boarded over, a kitchen addition and rear porch built above and around it.

"I asked Schmidt once why he had covered the well," she said. "He became very angry and told me not to be always prying around. Later he cooled down and offered the explanation that the water in it was unfit for use."

CHICAGO'S NEW SOLDIERS SLEEP AT CAMP GRANT

Six Mile March Given 1,500 First Day in the Army.

Camp Grant, Ill., April 26.—[Special.]—Chicago's selective recruits who arrived in camp today with the 2,500 advance guard of the second draft celebrated Liberty day by a six mile march which tested their mettle and endurance to the limit.

Three special trains brought in the Chicago and Cook county fighting men some 1,500 in number, and the camp was made noisily aware of their arrival. Flags fluttered from the coach windows of the long troop train which roared into the detraining field shortly before 1 p. m., and shrieks of the incoming locomotives were drowned by the war whoop of the rookies who had taken advantage of their spare time during the trip to organize effective mass cheering.

Walk Like Veterans.

They tumbled from coaches to fall in like veterans at the order of the officers detailed to welcome them, and swing away into the big camp in columns at the command to march. Their swing settled itself into a dogged march when the rookies began to realize that they were being led through the entire camp and that distances in the national army are measured in miles rather than in city blocks.

The column faced a barrage of banter as it threaded camp streets on its way to the depot brigade area. The close of Liberty day exercises had loosed some 20,000 soldiers to enjoy their vacation day in camp and they lost no opportunity to volunteer "advice" for the benefit of the recruits. After traversing the length of the reservation citizen soldiers marched through depot brigade warahouses, where each man received a mess kit and blanket bed roll.

Devour First Army Meal.

The line was never halted, but issued from the warehouses for a return march to One Hundred and Seventy-second infantry brigade barrack, where steaming dinners were attacked by the rookies and devoured to the last crumb. Steak and potatoes, cabbage, beans, green vegetables, pie, and coffee disappeared before the charge, while men older in the service stood by grinning, to offer cigarets and more advice. After dinner the recruits were marched again to regimental infirmaries, where they were given their first physical examinations. Tonight every new man retired early in barracks assigned to recruits in the division area. Rookies did not need be told "you're in the army now."

Alabama Negro Dies.

Private Silas Jackson of Company M, Three Hundred and Sixty-fifth infantry, died today in the base hospital. The Negro soldier's home was Bellamy, Ala., and his death is the tenth pneumonia casualty among the Negroes.

Ukrainians Fight Grain Grab; Hold Hun Hostages

Washington, D. C., April 26.—The requisitions made by the Austro-Germans in Ukrainia are so severe the peasants are revolting and are holding soldiers as prisoners. Clashes are occurring frequently, said a diplomatic dispatch today, and many persons have been killed on both sides.

CHICAGOANS WIN COMMISSIONS IN AVIATION CORPS

Washington, D. C., April 26.—[Special.]—Commissions as second lieutenants in the aviation section, signal corps, were given by the war department today to a number of enlisted men from Chicago and the middle west who have been students at military schools of aeronautics in the south and west.

Chicago men commissioned were:

Alfred B. Carroll, 138 Marion street, Oak Park.

David B. Harris, 5313 Dorchester avenue.

Jorgen E. Jensen, 5037 West Erie street.

Owen N. Price, 2124 West One Hundred and Twelfth street, Morgan Park.

George L. Roberts, 5008 Sheridan road.

Charles E. Hastings Jr., Wilmette.

YEAR IN JAIL FOR NONSUPPORT.

Michael Griffin, whose wife ended her life in the lake last Sunday, was sent to the bridewell for a year and fined $500 yesterday on a charge of failing to support his four children. His mother-in-law, Mrs. Nora Philbin, of 514 South Sacramento avenue, told the court that one of the children died a year ago from lack of nourishment.

THIS SINGER IS BITTERLY ANTI, SAYS EMPLOYER

New York, April 26.—[Special.]—Margarete Ober, the contralto, is described by the Metropolitan Opera house management as a "hostile enemy alien" whose "intense hatred against the American government is inimical." This is in the Metropolitan's reply to the singer's suit for $50,000 for breach of contract. She and eight other German and pro-German singers were dismissed when, in the autumn, the Metropolitan decided not to give operas in German.

The Metropolitan within the week has formally dismissed two principals and eighteen choristers who classify as alien enemies. The principals are Robert Leonhardt, baritone, an employé for five years, and Max Bloch, a minor tenor.

The status of Frieda Hempel, Margarete Matzenauer, and Arthur Bodanzky, a conductor, is still in doubt. Hempel is engaged to marry an American, W. B. Kahn.

SETTLEMENT OF VEEDER VAULT CASE IS MADE

Lawyer and U. S. Agree Upon Examination of Papers.

A complete and peaceful understanding has been reached in the Veeder vault case, according to those most vitally interested. For instance, Mr. Veeder in a statement handed out yesterday says:

"I do not anticipate any trouble or serious misunderstanding; neither do I expect my office to be raided again."

And to this Charles F. Clyne, United States district attorney, remarks:

"The government and the federal trade commission does not put it in the hands of an individual to choose what papers examiners are to be shown. The law fixes that and no one shall be left to determine it for the government."

Rights Are Unchanged.

Mr. Veeder's statement follows:

"The right of the federal trade commission to examine papers in my office is today just what it was last January, when Mr. McIsaac, an examiner for the federal trade commission, began his examination. At that time I accorded to Mr. McIsaac and other representatives of the commission access to sucr of the papers in my office as they were entitled to examine and copy.

"Mr. McIsaac became dissatisfied and sought to obtain possession of practically all of the files in my office by suing out a search warrant.

"My understanding as to my constitutional rights has been upheld by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals and by the United States Supreme court, and my papers which were taken under the void warrant have been restored.

Expects No Trouble.

"Mr. William Chantland, chief examiner for the federal trade commission, has in a courteous and gentlemanly manner requested access to the documents and papers in my office which, under the law, the federal trade commission has the right to examine. This request I have granted in the same way and to the same extent as was Mr. McIsaac's request nearly three months ago. I do not anticipate any trouble or serious misunderstandings with Mr. Chantland or any of his examiners; neither do I expect my office to be raided again."

MASSES JURY AGAIN LOCKED UP FOR NIGHT

New York, April 26.—The jury in the case of Max Eastman and three associates, who are charged with attempting to thwart the operation of the draft act by publishing seditious articles and cartoons in the Masses, Socialist magazine, had not reached an agreement at 10:30 o'clock tonight, after being out more than thirty hours.

Attorney Hillquit moved for dismissal and Judge Hand asked those jurors who thought a decision could be reached to hold up their hands. Eight hands were raised, whereupon court was adjourned until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning and the jurors were again locked up.

SUIT BARES 7 MARRIAGES OF FAMED LITIGANT

Aileen Christopher Frank, of Brick Trust Case, Is Accused.

Washington, D. C., April 26.—[Special.]—Mrs. Johanna Roth, who is suing Mrs. Juanita Frank, formerly Mrs. Aileen Christopher of Chicago, in the Circuit court at Rockville, Md., for $70,000 in connection with a stock transaction in which Mrs. Roth claims she was robbed by Mrs. Frank, concluded her direct testimony today.

She told of seven marriages on the part of Mrs. Frank, the details of Mrs. Frank's connection with the "brick trust cases" in Chicago in 1910, and the alleged methods employed by Mrs. Frank in obtaining from Mrs. Roth more than 100 shares of stock in Roth Bros., Inc., of Chicago, worth over $40,000.

Furnished Her Money.

Mrs. Roth claimed to have furnished money repeatedly to Mrs. Frank, wherewith the latter might conduct her various litigations. In this connection was mentioned the "brick trust cases." Mrs. Frank, while the wife of Daniel J. Christopher, a brick inspector for the city of Chicago, suddenly evolved a tremendous scheme for the formation of a brick monopoly in the city. This plan she eventually put into operation. In 1910 she sued the trust for various amounts, totaling $175,000, which she claimed were due her for her services. This suit she lost, whereupon she turned state's evidence against the trust. By her evidence three firms and seven officials were indicted.

In Jail One Month.

Mrs. Frank, then Mrs. Christopher, was in jail for one month at that time on a charge of withholding testimony and perjury, it was testified.

Mrs. Roth says that after Mrs. Christopher got out of jail she took her into her own home, where she was treated as one of the family.

Mrs. Roth says she finally turned over all her securities to Mrs. Frank, with the understanding that she sell them for her at a price of $40,000. Since then, she says, she has received neither the money nor the stocks.

As a result, Mrs. Roth states, she is penniless and has been dependent upon Washington relatives for a home.

The cross examination of Mrs. Roth by Mrs. Frank's attorney will be taken up tomorrow morning.

BAYONET POINT HELPS ALLINSON OVER OBJECTIONS

Brent Dow Allinson—the name has a familiar sound—connected with the business end of a bayonet in the hands of a soldier of the Three Hundred and Forty-fourth infantry, according to reports from the guardhouse of the regiment yesterday, and a bruise on the wrist has caused him to take more interest in picking up cigaret stubs and less comfort out of stubbornness.

It is the business of prisoners to go forth under guard and earn their keep by policing the grounds. "Policing" has a nifty sound, but it is prosaic in the extreme. One polices by picking up stubs of cigars and cigarets and all things which do not belong on the ground.

Overlooking a cigaret, Allinson was reminded by the guard. The conscientious prisoner objected, and shortly thereafter was jabbed by the cold and heartless jailer. He resumed his cigaret stubbing. Mrs. Allinson visited Camp Grant to see her son and Maj. Gen. Martin, but saw neither.

Two Jovial "Coots" See War

BY ROBERT LEE.

SO long as the name of William Allen White continues eligible in American letters there will abide with us a suspicion that all is not well with Kansas. There is nothing wrong with Kansas, but there is a proportion of our population which never has recovered from the shock of Mr. White's famous query, and their perpetual attitude is: "Well, if there isn't anything the matter, why did he ask? He must of had some inside stuff."

There be authors whose names are identified indelibly not with the daily batting average of good literature out with some pesky inadvertence which rises up out of their letters and confounds them as a wounded thumb in a conference of competent digits. Suppose Homer had been handed down to us as the brilliant and fecund author of "Pigs is pigs"! Could you imagine the benevolent bard smiting his celebrated lyre and demanding in quavering notes to know what the dickens had got askew with Byzantium?

Well—it was a good item Mr. White produced about Kansas, and a good one Ellis Parker Butler wrote about pigs, though we dare wager the latter will not confer upon Mr. Butler the pre-mortem halo with which Mr. Rascoe seeks diligently to thatch the dome of James Branch Cabell. But what we most desire to fetch home is this thought: Isn't it about time the magazines cease announcing that each forthcoming story and article is the greatest ever produced? Why let William Allen White be tagged with one slip, "What's the matter with Kansas?" when the work of his life is a canvas that is broad and high and deep?

Americans have ceased to boast AFTER doing a thing; they boast BEFORE it is begun. Every now and then some publication astonishes the world with the information that it proposes to publish exclusively a series of gems from the pen of none other than the successor to the mantle of the late Heroditus—George K. Stovepipe. Who is Mr. Stovepipe? No matter. Mr. Stovepipe, take our advertisement for it, has a keen, analytical mind and swings a gripping pen. The public reaches for "Treasure Island" and Mr. Stovepipe smokes on.

* *

WE'RE not getting on? Slowly. We've been trying to separate "what the publisher thinks of the author" from "what the public thinks of the author." If the item about Kansas is the best thing Mr. White can do, he ought to be interned so he may be prevented from injuring that work by other and less capable things. If Mr. Stovepipe fails to make good on the prospectus of the publisher he should be drowned in a butt of ink. So, now, having conducted Mr. White to the gate of the prison camp, we hasten to gallop in with a reprieve. It is "THE MARTIAL ADVENTURES OF HENRY AND ME" [The Macmillan company].

Mr. White calls this book a humorous "account of the experiences of two middle aged old coots who go out to ruthless war without their wives." The middle aged coots are Mr. White and Henry J. Allen, editor of the Wichita Beacon. Mr. White, being editor of the Emporia Gazette, it may be considered that Kansas is ably represented in the war zone (they are abundant persons, physically, editorially, and corporeally).

The first two-thirds of the book is devoted, in a Mark Twainesque sort of way, to a whole hearted and buoyant treatment of the great war, a way Mr. White has chosen of bringing home the spirit of America in France. Not a flippant nor purely jocund prodding of the sensibilities, but a wholesome, digestible preparation, significant of deep earnestness and clear headedness. One may be keenly in earnest and smile. But Mr. White's swift moving style and clear treatment is only the sugar coating for the dose he conceals in the last pages.

"If Germany wins," says Mr. White, "autocracy will hood its losing ground all over the world. For the same autocracy in Berlin lives in Wall street and in the 'city' in London, and in the caste and class interests in Italy and France."

He considers that junkerdom, however, rests alone on the divine right of kings, the last resort of privilege. Further:

"The important changes that will come out of this war—assuming that the allies win it—will be found in the changed relations of men. The changes will be social and economic and they will be institutional and lasting." The author reflects that adjustments between those who "have" and those who "have not"—if effected in favor of the latter—usually are lasting. And this war is a complaint of the "have nots." More:

Certainly if labor does not actually dominate the British government, labor will control it indirectly. . . . It is the spirit of democracy calling across the world. The supreme councils of the allies—what are they? They change, form and reform . . . points on the drill of the great machine whose power is the people of the world. . . . The points break off or are worn off—what difference does it make? Joffre, French, Cadorna, Neville, Asquith, Painleve, Kitchener, Haig—the drill never ceases. . . . For once in the world the spirit of democracy is organized.

Meat for strong men, those concluding pages "of a humorous account of two middle aged coots." And Mr. White seems to have extended the boundaries of his geographical inquiries and to have found an answer to "What is the matter with Berlin?"

Those who find uplift in the Cumberland mountains and the social diversions of those who discharge their neighborly duties with the squirrel gun and converse mostly in "thar" and "you-all" and "hit ain't squar', Bill," will find vast entertainment in "WHEN BEARCAT WENT DRY," by Charles Neville Buck [Watt]. Cabins nestle in cozy mountain nooks, rifles glint in the rays of sinking sun, the illicit stills shrink from the peering eyes of "rev'nooers an' sich," and altogether there is much adventure and suspended interest.

"A TEMPORARY GENTLEMAN IN FRANCE" [Putnam's Sons] should appeal directly to all those on the way over, to those who have others going over, and especially to those in the training camps. Capt. A. J. Dawson's letters have been made into a volume and their frankness, their newness and the unstudied philosophy they contain, together with their delightful sequence of war impressions, give them uniqueness in war writings.

"DRIFTING [WITH BROWNE]" [Dodd, Mead & Co.], by Byers Fletcher, is a war work of a kind that is not war at all. The central character is a convalescent soldier, whose drifting moments in a hospital recall memories of other days, and these he sets down before they leave him forever.

THE UNWILLING VESTAL

By Edward Lucas White
Author of "El Supremo"

The New York Sun says: "Action? From the first word of the first sentence Mr. White hardly ever lets up. As a story pure and simple THE UNWILLING VESTAL is technically miles ahead of EL SUPREMO. Like his first novel, this tale of Rome in the years between 100 and 200 A. D. is related mostly by episodes. But the story does not lack continuity. And it has suspense to a notable degree, to a degree far beyond the power of many novelists to achieve."

Ring Up the Curtain; the Stage Is Set

BY ELIA W. PEATTIE.

FOUR works of fiction lie in a row upon my desk. Let us, for variety, look upon them as little dramas which offer us an evening's entertainment. The "bill" is copious and unrelated, but that is quite in keeping with the fashion of the time.

The Curtain Raiser.

"THE APPLE TREE GIRL."
By George Weston
[J. B. Lippincott company, Philadelphia.]

A PRETTY girl is discovered surrounded by apple blossoms and with the nose of a touring car looming up beyond. She is named Charlotte Marlin and is nobody in particular but feels like everybody in especial. Therefore she asks herself three questions:

How can I make everybody like me?
How can I make myself famous?
How can I marry a millionaire?

Being only a school teacher in a "'way back" school, these questions, except possibly the first, were, indeed, posers. But she set herself to answering them with a determination in which a blithe egotism played a not wholly innocuous part. As for making "everybody" like her, she did that by liking them. She became famous by playing golf so well that she was admitted to an international contest and won. She got her chance to marry a millionaire by first whacking him on the head with a golf ball and then making him fall in love with her. But she didn't marry him. No, no, she was much too nice for that. She told him the whole truth, left him suffering from shell shock, so to speak, and married the man she loved.

By George W. Cable.
[Charles Scribner's Sons, New York.]

THE curtain goes up on a street scene—Bienville street in New Orleans. The heroine is one of a coterie of old Creoles, exclusive, childish, and irresistible. That is, the old Creoles are. The girl is half New England and is not so naive as her elders. The hero is a young lawyer who affects old book shops. On his way there he sees the heroine. Fate draws them together by means of three ancient manuscripts which fit into each other and which bind them by means of old sorrows, sins and victories in which their progenitors played their parts. There are several scenes, all delectable—the book shop, kept by Landry, the black man and connoisseur; the court yard of the old Creole house where live the aunts of Aline [the heroine]; the gaunt interior of the old house, and ever and again, the streets.

The characters that gather in these places are delectable too, quaint, pathetic, exquisitely amusing, yet always commanding respect. Mr. Cable was never more kindly. His kindness reaches out to include black folk and poor folk, bitter folk and amiable ones. He seems to have opened up a little jewel box of delicate virtues, each one a masterpiece of artistry as well as of goodness. And his story, complicated, curious, devious, winds like a laurel path, offering blossoms along the way and terminating in a beautiful view upon the sunlit summit of young love and hope. I cannot recount the tale; you will not remember it when you have read it. Let the curtain fall. In the interval before it arises again you will sit rapt in thoughts that seem like memories of gracious, proud and wistful folk, of the quaint streets and courtyards, and all the innumerable souvenirs of old New Orleans, now passing like a rich dream.

"PIECES OF EIGHT."
Richard Le Gallienne.
[Doubleday-Page and Company.]

THE curtain has rolled up briskly and the scene is set for adventure. A cutlass has inadvertently flashed out from the wings; a chest, evidently containing Spanish doubloons, appears, by accident, not far from the left upper entrance. The scene is the cream cheese loveliness of Nassau, dripping with blossoms; the characters are gentlemen in white flannels, Negroes in nothing at all; a villain of mixed blood and a shabby suit, and an invisible heroine. Rumors of buried treasure have set a practical minded young Englishman on a still hunt among the cays of the Bahamas. And he finds it, after as many struggles of as many kinds as Mr. Le Gallienne could think of. And the heroine becomes visible—was visible, indeed, most of the time, but being in boy's clothes was not recognizable.

During this little play, the middle one of the bill, no one yawns. There are too many sudden deaths, too much danger by sea and land. At least ten of the characters welter in their gore or sink to the bottom of a shark haunted sea. Or perhaps they do not get a chance to sink. But nobody cares. The sharks aren't real sharks, and the corpses aren't real corpses, and, alas, the treasure is not real treasure. It is all very exhilarating, and if, now and then, the piling up of adventure makes the structure topheavy, no one minds. Because even if it all topples, it will be fun while it lasts.

What really is enduring is the limpid beauty of Le Gallienne's prose. His description of his semi-tropic isles is felicitous in the extreme. Lafcadio Hearn could do it no better. These spoken words, coming to you over your imaginary footlights, will "enchant your ear" like those that Venus sang to Adonis upon the sands. There is triumphant love at the end, endless treasure safe in New York safety deposit vaults, and all the dead men are forgotten.

"OVER THERE,"
By Ethel M. Kelley.
[Bobbs-Merrill, Indianapolis.]

AGAIN a pretty girl stands before you. An American girl, chic, rather poor, somewhat frivolous, and tremendously expectant. She doesn't think America is going to war and she doesn't see why Europe needs to make every one uncomfortable. She wishes to be let alone to think about her lovers, of whom there are several. One, Tommy, is frightfully old—27. He is also, if not poor, at least much preoccupied. He takes care of his father and mother and a rather haughty sister. Another of Elizabeth's lovers is rich, too young, a pacifist, and addicted to despair.

Events move. America declares war. Tommy goes. But first he marries Elizabeth, quite to her own surprise. She discovers that she is in love; also that she is a passionate patriot. Her father loses his position. Hard times come. Tommy's father and mother move out of a pleasant home into a tiny flat. Everybody makes sacrifices. Elizabeth finds herself upborne by some curious power. She does not falter and will not weep. She consoles her other little war bride friends, makes a concrete patriot out of her pacifist, and bears a little babe to the absent Tommy.

And Tommy is killed. Yes. By a shell. Not in battle. On a road he is walking along. When the baby comes it has no father. The girl is still before you as the curtain drops. She still carries herself well; keeps her head up; affects a certain nonchalance. She has her little son in her arms, and beside her is the spirit of Tommy. He is now more than ever her companion. It has been done casually, it would seem, with an affectation of lightness. The curtain falls slowly. You sit silent, thinking of youth forced into a tremendous maturity.

Why Germany Will Be Defeated

The failure, so far, of Germany's fanatical onslaught to either cleave apart the French and British armies or to take the Channel ports, ranks it as only another "bath of blood" for German arms. For, as The Globe, New York, reminds us, "It is the destruction of armies, not the loss of territory that is vital in war." And the tremendous slaughter of men which Germany has sustained is "making her weaker relatively as well as absolutely."

"Even the German General Staff," notes the New York World, "can not continue indefinitely the policy of trading men for territory unless the territory means more than a further extension of their lines." Months may yet elapse before the decisive hour strikes, and in those months "tens and hundreds of thousands of Americans can be transported to France to turn the scale in our favor." Even the Vienna Arbeiter Zeitung assures its readers that "the greatest victory by land can not impose a peace of force on America and England."

Literary Reviews

Edited by BURTON RASCOE

Gossip of Books

Literature and Life—By Rupert Hughes

THE spring drive THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE is making on behalf of James Branch Cabell's literary worth is a splendid thing. It is refreshing to see American critics unafraid of visiting superlatives of praise upon an American author.

Mr. Cabell is a fine and imaginative artist who keeps the English language always in its evening dress. His qualities of fancy and graceful condescension toward reality are captivating in fiction, but at the risk of seeming to put a fly in the ointment, I must protest that these qualities are less valuable when he comes to the discussion of history. I regret to see his charm devoted to a peculiarly false review of art history.

His essay in THE TRIBUNE called "Literature and Life" is a perfect example of what he seems to admire with an exclusive affection, and that is the charm of the untrue and the inaccurate.

The opening statement that "books are best insured against oblivion through practice of auctorial virtues of distinction and clarity, of beauty and symmetry, of tenderness and truth and urbanity," leaves the authors of the Iliad, Prometheus Bound, Medea, Job, Ecclesiastes, Jeremiah, the Inferno, Paradise Lost, and some of the great Russians rather out of it; for his list of immortal qualities does not mention grandeur, horror, sublimity, ferocity, or any of the more epic qualities. It would fit Horace perfectly, yet leave Juvenal to oblivion.

* *

IN his references to periods and authors Mr. Cabell is so selective as to give a misleading result, for if a man selects from a great forest of all trees one shapely birch and says that that represents the forest, he is likely to give a false impression of the total.

Mr. Cabell writes of Homer as of one lacking in realism. Of course there are many scenes of which this is true. The vast majority of Homer's lines, however, concern familiar methods of fighting, eating, quarreling, praying, loving, plotting, and dying. There is so much realistic detail that special dictionaries are required for him. His conversations, being poetical, are often stilted and repetitious, but for that matter how many characters in comtemporary fiction talk as real people really talk?

As for Homer's miracles, proving a primitive imagination, the magazines and newspapers of today report prodigies of telepathy, materialization, and ouija board divination that are quite as amazing as any of the stunts of Homer's disappearing heroes and deities. In the solemn recitals of our day ghosts appear in the flesh and vanish; and tables speak, disclosing the future and carrying on conversations between the dead and the living; or at least very respectable people testify to these things and swear that they believe them, and they have no difficulty in getting them printed.

What I object to is Mr. Cabell's endeavor to envelop Greek life in a mystical aureole. He says that Greek actors wore masks "so that their features might display unhuman perfection." But might not this be said just as truthfully of the grease paint masks of our actors today? And it is usually accepted that Greek actors wore large masks because they played in such enormous auditoriums that their features were lost in the bright sunlight. The mouths of the masks were megaphonic for the purpose of carrying the sound to the distant auditors.

Again, Mr. Cabell speaks as if Sophocles and Euripides and their contemporaries summed up Greek dramatic art. Yet a vast amount of Greek drama, tragedy and comedy, was as realistic as anything could possibly be, and much of it so very realistic that it is not translated even for scholars in our language. Aeschylos wrote contemporary dramas as well as religious; he celebrated recent historical events as some of our poets make sonnets of the European war. Aristophanes was as contemporary as a daily paper. His lyrics were like the musical comedy lyrics of today. In musical comedy lyrics of today. In fact, Aristophanes and his rivals wrote musical burlesques, while Aeschylos and his school wrote grand opera. Aristophanes' dialogue was in general the very slang of the streets. The people he assaulted were the local bosses, the ward politicians, the popular playwrights, particularly Euripides, whose dead mother he ridiculed; the street corner preaches like Socrates; the names of notorious young men about town were tossed to the audience among local gags and topical songs. Anything less resembling the poetic dreaminess of Mr. Cabell's Greece could hardly be imagined. And then there were the unspeakable knockabout farces that ended the show.

* *

WHEN Mr. Cabell says that the Greeks "were nurtured among art's master works" he gives an idyllic decorative effect that is as unreal as even he could wish. We have more of the Greek masterpieces in the New York and Chicago art galleries than the average Greek ever saw, and we could quite as accurately say that the people of Chicago are "nurtured among art's master works." Surely only a small proportion of the Greeks saw the master works at Athens and the few other cities that had them. Furthermore, not all of Greek art was master work.

Greece had multitudes of sculptors, most of them bad. Athens had much of the most debased art. One who does not believe this may well read what the Athenians said of it. Read the Guide Book that old Pausanias wrote.

When Mr. Cabell says with an almost unearthly elegance the Greeks "recognized with much of that perturbing candor wherewith children everywhere appraise their associates, that gracefully to prevaricate about mankind and human existence was art's signal function," is he doing no more than what he so charmingly calls "evoking a haze of lovely words"?

"Hazes of lovely words" are delightful, but they should not be published as history. The Greeks did not do anything of the sort, or rather but few of them did, and most of them didn't. Some of the Greeks were, of course, superb artists, but some of them were loathers of art. There were fiercely accurate mathematicians who demonstrated of old that the earth was a globe and who got its circumference computed within about one-twentieth of the correct figure. Some of these Greeks were the coarsest and grossest materialists, and Phidias, the divine sculptor, was brought into court for graft in his gold and ivory statue of his god.

People who write so dreamily about Greek statuary seem to ignore the fact that it resembled less the white plaster or marble we see in galleries than the gaudy stuff we see in cheap homes. The Greeks painted all their statues, distinguishing flesh color, hair color, and clothes color. Sometimes they put jewels in their eyes and round their arms bracelets and armlets of precious metal. Their temples were painted like marble barns with advertisements on them.

Their best works in art, architecture, literature have never been surpassed, yet they were not always at their best and often at their worst. Some of their monuments to their dead were as atrocious as American or Italian cemeterial art. They developed amazing realism in sculpture, too; there could never be more photographic realism than their old beggars, their knife grinders, their boys picking thorns out of their feet, and others of the sort.

The figurines of Tanagra were sold by the tens of thousands; they represented everyday life in a myriad delightful forms; they showed ladies in big hats, parasols, high shoes, corsets, children playing games, horses, dogs, birds, foods, everything domestic and familiar.

* *

IN fact, the life of the Greeks was modern. Of course it was once actually modern. Time has saved many beautiful things and destroyed many others. It destroyed, for example, the most beautiful statue of ancient Greece, the Venus of Knidos, by Praxiteles.

And that brings up Mr. Cabell's statement of the familiar myth that as he puts it: "Greeks shared few of our delusions concerning decency; for of course they had no more moral aversion to a man's appearing naked in the street than to a toad's doing so, and objected simply on the ground that both were ugly."

This is a double ender for inaccuracy. The Greeks were altogether too far from believing that men's bodies were always ugly. Being in a tropical climate, they wore usually hardly more clothing than our people do on bathing beaches. On certain festivals there was a good deal of nudity, as there has been recently in our own time. I have myself seen—not to say public dancers but young ladies of excellent families dancing on lawns in scant and translucent costume with legs entirely bare. Perhaps some Mr. Cabell of 2,000 years from now stumbling on a photograph of such a scene will describe it as a typical incident in everyday American life and use it as a reproach to the prudery and matter of factness of his own time.

But to return to Praxiteles. He made his most famous statue for the little town of Plataiia, which had ordered a Venus for a church. When Praxiteles invited his clients in to observe what he had done for them the vestrymen were so shocked at the nudity of the statue that they made him do another one fully clothed. His first Venus was sold for a bargain to the little island of Knidos, where it became famous.

Greek literature abounds in proofs that the Greeks had the normal amount of prudery, modesty, and decency, with all the hypocrisies that go along. Their very word "gymnos" that we translate "naked" really meant "lightly clothed."

* *

NO one can really delve far into Greek history or art and maintain that the Greeks were in the least such people as Mr. Cabell implies. He jumps across much interesting life to say "equally in the middle ages did literature avoid deviation into the credible." He is saved by that "equally," for the middle ages was just as devoted to the credible as Greeks and Yankees were and are. They had a more elastic credulity in some things, but Lord knows our people do some mighty tall believing. We tell our children fairy stories, we accept Santa Claus, we have our myths, which we do not really believe, and the Greeks were, many of them, utterly skeptical of the pretty legends they loved but did not trust.

The middle age literature was not altogether a case of telling how "Sire Roland held the pass at Roncevaux." They had their little realistic, nasty, hilarities also. They had plays and festivals and pictures and stories and songs of the most complete objectivity. They would have loved the movies.

Mr. Cabell gracefully says that "with the novel invention of printing thoughts spread so expeditiously that it became possible to acquire quite serviceable ideas without the trouble of thinking, and very few of us since then have cared to risk impairment of our minds by using them. A consequence was that with inaction man's imagination in general grew more sluggish and demurred."

Even as whimsical humor this either means that printing was death to imagination or it means nothing. It surely means that everybody used to do a great deal of thinking until everybody learned to read, whereupon everybody stopped using his brains and his fancies. This surely is a cruel slander. Our world today is full of thinkers and dreamers, of poets, and artists, philanthropists, and great soldiers.

Mr. Cabell at least cannot, in the instance of this essay, be accused of what in arraigning Shakespeare he gracefully calls "a too sparing employment of untruthfulness." His review of the history of the world is what somebody said Carlyle's French Revolution was, "a masterpiece of fiction."

I do not mean to break Mr. Cabell's butterflies of fancy on a wheel, but these butterflies are moths. In any case, it has been a pleasant interlude to join in battle about such things as those in such times as these. Otherwise I congratulate THE TRIBUNE on its celebration of this otherwise distinguished artist, Mr. Cabell.

Andreas Latzko is an Austrian officer, author of "Men in War" (Boni & Liveright), which has been described as great a war book as "Under Fire." A review of the book will appear shortly.

Presuming You Are Interested

BY BURTON RASCOE.

I REGRET the necessity of impaling Assistant Professor of Latin Keith Preston, the pet of Northwestern; but, inasmuch as he has not only forced me to unsheath but has rushed headlong upon the point of my rapier, regret is tempered with reflection that the heedless will their fates.

It is a pity, too. Mr. Preston is my most faithful reader. He weekly checks up on my every statement; and allusion sends him scurrying to the source books. Is perchance a comma out where one should be? He makes note of it. I could count on him for no end of faithful page work. A deft trouvère he would indite a ballade of my deeds and carol them in far-off Evanston.

But excess of zeal has led to his undoing. Last week I let drop a clause, none to pertinent to my theme, that although Menander was praised by no less than Caesar, not a play by Menander is extant. The assistant professor hastened to a catalog and, thumbing it with eagerness, discovered: "Four Plays of Menander, edited by Edward Capps, Ginn & Co., 1910," and forthwith rushed into print with it. His colleagues in the classical department might have told him better and further counseled him that error is a sin in scholarship which expedition does not mitigate.

The edition he found listed is misnamed: it does not contain four pla but the fragments of four plays by Menander, only two of which are in such a state that the plots can be made out. The various Menander fragments, derived chiefly from the Oxyhynchus Papyri and the Gustave Lefebvre collection dug up at Cairo in 1906, from which Prof. Capps drew most of his material, altogether make up only some several hundred more or less dubious and imperfect lines out of the entire 108 [some say 106] plays Menander wrote.

These fragments are of such an unsatisfactory character and are so inconclusive in sustaining the reputation Menander bore among his contemporaries (and, indeed, until well in the Christian era) that Dr. Philippe Legrand of the University of Lyons has ignored them in his monumental work on the Komodia Néa and has relied mainly upon the translations of Plautus and Terence for his knowledge of the work of Philemon, Apollodorus, Diphilus, and Menander.

His more prudent colleagues in the Greek department at Northwestern might have told the excited Latinist that the same Edward Capps, mentioned in the catalog, supervised the cataloguing of the index of the much abridged translation, by Dr. James Loeb, of Dr. Legrand's work on the New Comedy, the which was published last year by Heinemann in London and by G. P. Putnam's Sons in this country.

But though I can hand Prof. Preston little on his scholarship I cherish in tender memory these, his ennobling lines:

WHAT DO WE CARE?

What do we care for the sort of mesh
If a soul pulsates in that pulp of flesh.
What do we care?
What do we care for the huge cigar,
If the spark of it be a guiding star.
What do we care?

First Book on the A. E. F.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

A. E. F. There are no three letters in the world which mean so much to Americans these days. They are the simplified spelling of L-O-V-E and U. S. They are America's contribution to the greatest triumvirate of the world, America-England-France. A. E. F. stamped in the lower left hand corner of an envelope have a magic to cheer any American heart. When we write A. E. F. in an address we do it with pride in our hearts and a prayer for the entire Force, that it may be expeditious as well as expeditionary.

There is scarcely any one who doesn't know some one "somewhere in France." So it's good news that the first book from our own boys over there has just been published. "The A. E. F." (Appleton) it is called. Heywood Broun, former dramatic critic of the New York Tribune, went over with the first contingent, was in Bordeaux to welcome the first transport as it "warped into the pier and the two broad stripes of yellow, which ran the whole length of the upper decks became so many layers of men in khaki, each motionless and each gazing toward the land."

That glorious Fourth of July, which no one who was in France will ever forget, the training camps of the artillery, the doughboys, the boys at Pau learning to fly, Gen. Pershing—there is something in "The A. E. F." about every branch of the service, and the sort of something that makes the hazy pictures we've all had grow clear, and make us realize that it is true that our boys were "the first soldiers in many months who had smiled as they marched."

The American conquest of France was immediate and thorough, Mr. Broun says. The privates won the hearts of the French women by helping them "with the chores" and the matter of language didn't complicate things much. "When I asked one doughboy, 'How do you get along with the French? Can you make them understand you?' he said, 'Why, they're coming along pretty well. I think most of 'em will pick it up in time.'"

Mr. Broun gives a picture of Gen. Pershing which is unforgettable. "Nobody will ever call him 'Papa' Pershing. He is a stepfather to the inefficient and even when he is pleased he says little. In the matter of giving praise the general is a homeopath. 'I think,' said one young American officer, 'that his favorite military leader is Joshua, because he made the sun and moon stand at attention.' In other words, Pershing is a soldier's soldier. No man can strike such hard blows as he does and leave no scars. There are men here and there in the army who do not love him, but their criticism almost invariably ends, 'but I guess I'll have to admit that he's a good soldier.'"

The spirit of the A. E. F. is summed up in the words of an efficiency engineer, who gave up "a practice worth $15,000 a year."

"Great stuff!" he said. "There'll never be anything like it in the world again. Everything's happening and I'm in it. I'm in a little of it anyway, and if I have a chance to get in something big I don't care what happens. No, sir, if I could just help to give the Boche a good wallop I wouldn't care if I never got back. Why, I wouldn't miss this for—I wouldn't miss this for $50,000 cash."

◆

There's a food and gardening show at the public library, and such a show! Wejtables and everything! It's on the fourth floor of the library, Washington street side. I don't want to spoil it by telling you about it, but I will tell you this much—it's the life-likest food that ever stayed fresh all through a show. Model war rations for the folks at home are planned there and you'll be surprised to see how much you can eat and still be patriotic. There are government documents which are the last word—of course—in food styles.

"LADIES from HELL"

By R. D. PINKERTON

This is war—its thrills, its nobilities, its splendors. A poet at heart, and face to face with the flaming realities, this young Scotchman wrote the first draught of his book, and in it is the very breath of the battlefield.

"Ladies from Hell" the Germans called the Scotchmen in kilts as they came tearing through their lines, fighting with an effect associated with a place whose climate is said to be different from that of Scotland; and the name has lived.

The reader will re-live, with the author, in minutest detail, his months of training and fighting; the reader will be made a comrade in arms with the captivating "Ladies from Hell." From the story Americans may see, with a clearness to be gained from few other books on the war, just what our soldiers meet when they fight, as they are now doing, the Hun and his minions.

In this book of a fighting Scot with a poet's heart there are flashes that tremble in vividness against the tremendous black background. And at the end the reader will know more of what war is—its sacrifice and its magnificence—than he ever knew before, unless he already has been at the middle of the greatest event of modern times.

SHELLPROOF MACK

The book that bowls them all over

An American's Fighting Story

By ARTHUR MACK

Late of the 23d Battalion of the London Regiment

MACK was twenty-eight months in the British Army—seventeen months in the trenches.

Got his dose of mustard gas.

Was buried in the mud by one shell and blown out by the next—hence the name of "Old Shellproof."

What he describes he saw—and he tells what he saw in simple soldier language without any camouflage.

The Secret of the Marne
BY Marcel Berger

Author of "Ordeal by Fire"

12° $1.50 net.

You remember how you seized your daily paper with bated breath that time the German hordes were marching on Paris with the arrogance of victors? And the glorious Marne week that turned victory into rout?

You remember how the military experts were puzzled, bewildered at the sudden German change of front—that flanking movement that resulted in defeat?

In this daring and convincing novel, Marcel Berger reveals the reason for this supreme blunder so disastrous to the enemy, and the disclosure is so plausible that the reader will be surprised into accepting this solution of the repulse of von Kluck's armies.

Do you read detective stories? "The Secret of the Marne" will furnish you with more thrills than any mystery story you have read for many a day.

PHIL'S RIGHT FLOORS EDDIE IN THE THIRD

Knockdown Evens Up Points Made by Clever Rival.

"Tribune" Decisions

BY RAY PEARSON.

Racine, Wis., April 26.—[Special.]—Phil Harrison won't go back to the junk pile, at least not for a while yet. By crossing a right to Eddie McGoorty's jaw in the third round tonight, the Chicago Ghetto fighter pulled a stunt that was a startling upset, and when the score on ten rounds was summed up a draw verdict fitted the fight.

McGoorty entered the ring a 7 to 5 favorite, and but for the unfortunate business of permitting Harrison's fist to connect with his chin, Oshkosh Eddie would have scored a victory by a wide shade.

McGoorty's Kayo Punch Missing.

McGoorty didn't seem to punch with the K. O. force displayed in his bout with Frankie Brennan, or else Harrison has a junk jaw. Times, without number Eddie punched Phil with left hooks and right crosses, but the blows didn't keep Harrison from coming forward for more, but when Phil connected with his right that was another matter. The stuff that produces sleep was behind it, and it was a night's work for McGoorty to keep out of the way of Harrison's crosses.

Phil scored his upset of Eddie after he had forced the Oshkosh scrapper into his corner. He took a left hook and a right cross himself before he let it go, but Phil's one wallop dropped McGoorty to his knees, where he took a nine count. When Eddie got up he used all the defensive he knew and stuck the round out.

Cleverness Saves Eddie.

McGoorty held his own in the next session, and after that fought a covered fight, and, although on the defensive frequently, he scored point after point and made up for the knockdown by cleverness. He jabbed, hooked, and crossed to Harrison's head many times without a return. It was a great fight and had the crowd in Wagner's Lakeside arena yelling wildly.

Five rounds belonged to McGoorty, three were even, and two were won by Harrison. Both boys showed they were in a scrap on leaving the ring. Both were bleeding from the mouth and Harrison had a bunged up lamp.

McGoorty conceded Harrison five pounds, the weights at 3 o'clock being, McGoorty 160, Harrison 165. It was announced they had agreed to scrap at catchweights.

O'Brien Beats Grace.

The semi-windup was some slugging match, Joe O'Brien of Milwaukee punching Frankie Grace, a fellow townsman, drunk in six rounds, and earning the verdict. O'Brien scored a knockdown in the first round and was dead on his feet from his efforts to K. O. Grace. O'Brien weighed 150 and Grace 148.

The opening bout lasted half a round, Young Griese quitting before B. Johnson when Johnson "cruelly" hit him on the shoulder. Both are Racine boys. Young Dennis of Milwaukee gave Johnny Graham of Racine a trimming in less than a round and the sponge from the Graham corner ended hostilities. Dennis weighed 118 pounds and Graham 117¾.

There couldn't be any kick on the size of the crowd. Lakeside arena was filled, which meant about a $3,500 house. Several of the fair sex attended. The success financially of the show was due to Chicago, special trains on the Northwestern and electric carrying some 500 fans, a lot of whom paid $3 for a ducat and war tax.

GOV. BURNQUIST MAY FORBID BOUT

St. Paul, Minn., April 26.—The Willard-Fulton bout will not be permitted in Minnesota July 4. This was learned today from a source close to Gov. J. A. A. Burnquist, who has the final word as to whether the bout will be held.

On May 4 a public hearing by the state boxing commission will be held. If that body authorizes the bout the governor will step in and stop it. The governor has maintained silence regarding the bout.

MAROONS WIN MEDLEY RELAY RACE AT PENN; NEW ALL 'ROUND KING

Philadelphia, Pa., April 26.—[Special.]—The University of Chicago team of four athletes won the distance medley college relay championship at the annual Penn games today, scoring a hollow victory over Pennsylvania, the only other entry. The Red and Blue quartet was so badly outclassed that there was no comparison.

Chicago has a fast group of distance men, and had the competition been keener the westerners undoubtedly would have made much better time. Their figures for the complete two and a half miles was 11:05 1-5, which is :45 1-5 slower than the record.

Feuerstein Gets Good Lead.

Feuerstein, conference indoor quarter mile champion, was the first runner for Chicago and defeated Brennan of Penn by a good fifteen yards. Greene then took up the burden for Stagg's team, and at the finish of the half mile led Clayton by forty yards. McCosh, running against Cummins, increased the advantage, and when Lewis broke the tape Price, Penn's anchor man, was more than half a lap behind.

William Frederick Bartels, an awkward, long legged freshman at the University of Pennsylvania, was crowned pentathlon champion. Rising from obscurity, this giant youth leaped, tossed, and ran his way into the light of prominence.

"Unknown" Wins Pentathlon.

Bartels, a giant of 6 feet 4 inches, living in Jersey City, virtually was unknown in the athletic world, yet opposed to a classy group of competitors he gained two first places, a second, a fifth, and a sixth in the five events which test skill, stamina, and speed in the all round championship.

D. F. Shea, Dartmouth, finished second; M. Haddock, Kansas, third; Charles Hammond, University of the South, fourth; R. Bechtel, Lafayette, fifth, and Emery, Pennsylvania State, sixth.

There were fifteen starters in the pentathlon. Earle Gilfillan, Notre Dame entrant, dropped out of the competition after finishing seventh in the broad jump and thirteenth in the javelin.

GOLFERS who have visited the Marquette park course this season have been surprised by the improvements made and the new concrete golf shelter. The latter contains 430 lockers for men and 240 for women, each of sufficient size to accommodate four players. The house contains an adequate supply of shower baths and the players are now on even terms in this respect with those who patronize Jackson park. A well ventilated lunchroom also is a welcome addition.

Under the changed conditions the first and ninth tees are located near the clubhouse, the present starting point being the old number three tee. Among the changes made is the addition of a small lagoon to the left of the first fairway, into which hooked balls may find their way, while this same hazard will also catch a wild ball from the ninth tee. Changes have been made on a number of the other holes and the hazards altered.

Although a chilly breeze swept the South Shore Country club course yesterday afternoon, Jim Barnes, the Broadmoor professional, set a record of 30 on his only time around the nine hole circuit. His card was: 4, 3, 3, 4, 4, 3, 2, 4, 3—30, which is par for the course. Gil Nichols, W. W. Harless, chairman of the sports and pastimes committee, and J. E. Campbell of Colorado Springs played with Barnes, the first named getting 36. Barnes and Nichols will practice today for their match against Chick Evans and Jock Hutchinson tomorrow afternoon.

Officials of the Lincoln Park Golf club have started a membership campaign, the war having reduced the total to 175. In order to stimulate the campaign five merchandise prizes have been donated and will go to the members securing the largest number of recruits. It is desired to boost the membership to 500 and make it possible to secure a clubhouse with lockers and baths in the vicinity of the course. The remodeling of the course has prevented the committee from scheduling early events, but a lengthy program is being arranged. A. R. Johnston, 4423 Beacon street, is secretary.

Iowa City, Ia., April 26.—[Special.]—Iowa's baseball team overwhelmed Chicago this afternoon, 10 to 3. The Hawkeyes pounded Hinkle steadily and hit Terhune hard.

The Maroons gave poor support to Hinkle, who lasted four innings. In the sixth, Iowa's sluggers hit Terhune for three singles and two doubles, scoring five runs.

Exhaust Echoes
By SHEPPARD BUTLER

THE real campaign for the $60,000,000 good roads bond issue to be voted on this fall will be launched today at the headquarters of the Illinois Highway Improvement association through the mailing of detailed organization instructions to 700 committeemen who have been appointed throughout the state.

The instructions call for meetings in each county within the next ten days to elect officers for the county organizations and get the good roads forces in motion. From now on every community in Illinois will be bombarded with speeches, literature, and other propaganda designed to convince the voters that the bond issue should be authorized.

* *

Special appeals will be made to the motorists, who pay for the bonds through increased license fees, and to the women, who cannot vote on the measure, but are already supporting it actively. Much emphasis will be laid on Gov. Lowden's declaration that, although no effort will be made to market the bonds or begin the road work until after the war, it would be a "calamity" if the measure failed at the polls.

Each county will have its own staff of speakers, and in addition a central speakers' bureau has been established to fill engagements at special meetings. A comprehensive campaign textbook has been prepared and more than 50,000 road maps—500 to each county—will be distributed.

* *

Highway commissioners and town clerks from thirteen central Illinois counties met at Springfield yesterday to discuss their duties under the new law reducing the number of commissioners in each township from three to one. S. E. Bradt, state superintendent of highways, and W. G. Edens, president of the Illinois Highway Improvement association, urged support of the bond issue project. Similar conferences will be held in other parts of the state next week.

The search for good outdoor range sites so far brought little results, which is to be expected in a thickly inhabited section such as the neighborhood of Chicago. An outdoor range to be really worth while should permit shooting at least 600 yards and stretches of uninhabited land free from obstructions and so arranged that stray bullets will do no damage are hard to find. If you don't believe it, try and find such a spot.

Some years ago, Capt. Moffett, commandant of Great Lakes Naval Training station, looked over the Dunes with the idea of putting in a big range there. He said that a wonderful range could be built in the sand hills at a cost of $1,000,000, and he ought to know, as he is the man who planned the big range at Guantanamo, Cuba. Incidentally, the captain is one of the few naval men who displays much interest in small arms fire, but he believes that soldier and sailor alike should know how to hit what they shoot at.

Of course $1,000,000 is a mere trifle to the rifle clubs of Chicago, so they will continue to accept Capt. Moffett's hospitality and use the Great Lakes and Camp Logan ranges until they can dig up a nearer place.

SOCCER MATCH POSTPONED.

PREPS AT LYONS STAGE REGULAR FOOTBALL GAME

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

Every one knows the war has turned things more or less upside down in athletics, but football games in the spring were something unthought of until the coach of Lyons Township High school brought in the first gridiron lineup of 1918. The game was played at Emmond field, La Grange, yesterday.

The La Grange boys divided into two elevens, Gold and Blue, and played a 12 to 12 tie.

The teams have been practicing football for six weeks under Coach Clint Osborne, drilling twice a week for five weeks and every night since last Monday. The elevens are composed of boys from the freshman and sophomore classes, to a great extent, the idea being to break in the younger lads for football, so that the school will not be left entirely without skilled grid players by enlistment, graduation, and the entrance of older boys in war industrial service. Lineup:

Gold [12].		Blue [12].
R. E.	Werner	Williams	L. E.
R. T.	Breed	Sammons	L. T.

JAMS DEEDS OF WHOLE CAREER INTO ONE GAME

Idol Yields Two Hits in Farewell to Big League World.

BY JAMES CRUSINBERRY.

Alexander the Great has come and gone! In the space of about one hour and fifty minutes yesterday Chicago's baseball fans enjoyed the presence of Mr. Grover Cleveland Alexander as pitcher de luxe of the Cubs. In that bit of time he made his debut to Chicago and his farewell and he let the St. Louis Cardinals down with two hits and beat them, 3 to 2, after which he departed to join Uncle Sam's warriors at Camp Funston. Whether or not Aleck ever appears again in baseball depends upon his luck in this world war and how long it takes to capture Berlin.

The great pitcher, who has been called to join the colors and who will be in khaki by Wednesday of next week, arrived in Chicago yesterday from his home in St. Paul, Neb. Before leaving home he bought $5,000 worth of Liberty bonds. At the ball park yesterday afternoon he bought another $5,000 worth; then he warmed up a few minutes and pitched a two hit game, though he hasn't had a ball in his hands since last Sunday.

After the game he had only enough time to eat dinner before departing for his home to bid farewell to his mother before going with eleven other boys from his district to become a national army man.

Leaves Much to Do His Part.

Aleck is giving up much more than the average man to become a soldier. In the first place, his salary is $12,000 a year, and he is just at the height of his career as a star of the national game. In spite of that he pitched yesterday with as much unconcern about the future and, at the same time, as much enthusiasm over the game itself as he ever did in his life, and he won the battle in about as hard and tough a fight as he ever got into on the ball field.

Although the weather was damp and cold and awful for baseball, there were something more than 6,000 fans present to hail Aleck and bid him farewell. Never in the history of the Cubs has there been a more enthusiastic demonstration over a player. Before he had time to get warmed up to battle the Cardinals got a run off him, when they whaled one home in the first inning.

Like Rooting for P. L.'s Champs.

From then on, the crowd rooted better than in years, and in the seventh inning, succeeded in seeing a rally that gave Chicago two runs. In the ninth the Cards tied it, but in the last half the Cubs pushed over the winning run. Several hundred small boys and grown men jumped upon the field and surrounded Aleck, but he escaped to the clubhouse. A half hour later, when he came out in street clothes, there still were more than a hundred boys and men, who swarmed around him and practically carried him to the front entrance, where he again escaped into President Weeghman's office.

Of course, in order to make the day a success, it was necessary for Aleck to win his game, but the St. Louis Cardinals made him close his baseball career with a tough fight. Although only two safe hits were made off him and both were made by Rogers Hornsby, the star shortstop, the game was a battle all the way and an uphill fight for Chicago most of the way. Both of Hornsby's blows drove home runs.

Aleck Gets Bad Start.

In the first inning Aleck passed Jack Smith and he advanced to third when the next two went out, but Hornsby came up and poled a drive to the left wall for two sacks, sending Smith home. From then until the ninth inning, not a St. Louis man got a base hit, and only two of them got as far as first base, one on an error and one on a walk.

In the meantime the Cubs had pegged away helplessly at the left handed benders of young Mr. Jake May, late of San Antonio, who seems to be of big league caliber already. When the seventh round arrived only one man had succeeded in getting a base hit off this youngster, but in the seventh, with the 6,000 or more fans standing and screaming, Les Mann opened with a tremendous drive to the right wall for two sacks and in a jiffy the Cubs were in front.

Paskert Sends Mann In.

Dode Paskert lammed a single over second, sending Mann home, then after Merkle had flied out, trying the hit and run play with Dode, the latter stole second with Kilduff at bat. Kilduff was called out on strikes when he dared to take one an inch outside and inch and a half high, but Charley Deal came through with a single and Paskert tallied. It looked like Aleck didn't need more than those two, but at the start of the ninth Hollocher booted Jack Smith's roller.

Jack advanced on Niehoff's out, and then Baird fanned. It looked as if Aleck would have been wise to walk Hornsby, but he pitched to him and a single to left resulted, sending Smith home and tying the count.

Winning Rally in Ninth.

In the last of the ninth Mann opened with a two bagger to left, whereupon young May was yanked and the veteran Leon Ames sent to the slab. Paskert walked. Both advanced on Merkle's out, then Kilduff was purposely passed, filling the bases. In this pinch Max Flack was sent up to hit for Deal, and his best was a soft bouncer to Ames, but Ames messed it all up and Mann was over the plate with the winning run in a jiffy.

The final game of the Cardinals' series will take place today. George Tyler is slated to pitch against Willie Doak.

GOOD-BY, ALECK! GOOD LUCK!

ALECK'S FAREWELL

"I am sorry to leave all you fellows, but it looks like a tough fight over there, and as if a lot of us must go and help. I don't know whether I shall ever come back to play ball or not, but if I don't I'll make it necessary for them to dig a lot of holes for the enemy before they get me."

Those were the words offered by Grover Cleveland Alexander after the game yesterday, when he responded to a farewell toast offered him by the Cub president, several stockholders, some of his teammates, and a dozen or more friends in the Cub office at the north side park.

Notes

The Cubs subscribed for $12,000 worth of Liberty bonds before the game yesterday. Alexander took $5,000 of that amount and Manager Mitchell had a large portion of the remainder.

Alexander expects to joint the forces in Camp Funston Tuesday afternoon. He left last night for St. Paul, Neb., and is slated to leave there early Tuesday morning as one of a dozen drafted men from his district.

At the home plate before play began Aleck was presented with a couple of bundles of roses. In the clubhouse he was given a handsome wrist watch by the members of the team, and on the inside was engraved "Alkali Pete," a pet name given him by his pal, Bill Killefer.

WHITE SOX ROUT BOTH RAIN JINX AND BROWNS, 6-2

McMullin Proves Mascot; Jackson Poles a Homer and Three Singles.

RECORD TO COLLINS

St. Louis, April 26.—Eddie Collins today broke the world's record for playing in consecutive games, with 473 straight. The record was held by Sam Crawford, with 472 games in 1913-1916.

BY I. E. SANBORN.

St. Louis, Mo., April 26.—[Special.]—Fred McMullin made good as a mascot. Not only did the weather clear off as soon as it was announced he would play third base, permitting the long delayed opening of the American league season here, but the White Sox won the game, 6 to 2, and McMullin was a big factor in the defense while Joe Jackson was starring in the offense.

Mister Joe made nearly half the safeties registered by the world's champions, ringing up a home run in addition to three singles out of four times at bat. These blows were good for five of the six runs counted by the visitors, and Joe registered the other himself on a freak double steal.

Rest Makes Williams Wild.

Lefty Williams, who worked for the Rowlands on the slab, showed the effects of the long layoff by being doubtful in his aim, but he baffled the Browns when he could get them over.

McMullin was one of the sheet anchors in Williams' moorings, for he did a lot of defensive work brilliantly, his only slip being the dropping of an easy foul fly. He finished a great play by Liebold in the eighth inning when Nemo threw Maisel out at third base on a Sisler single, thereby wrecking a threatening rally.

Sun Shines at Last.

The sun shone for the first time in a week in St. Louis, and although it wasn't good baseball weather and the field was heavy with recent rains, it was decided to pull off the opening with what was left of the original designs calling for military and patriotic features.

The preliminaries were conducted by a company of mixed rookies, infantry, artillery and remount men, from Jefferson barracks. With a band from the barracks they escorted the White Sox and Browns out to the flagpole and raised the Stars and Stripes to appropriate music. Then the soldiers gave an exhibition drill on the field which elicited much applause.

Drive Lowdermilk to Pasture.

It required only five innings for the world's champions to get even with Lowdermilk for what he did to them in the opening game at Chicago. In that time they slammed him for eight hits and six runs, with the help of some dark brown support, and assumed a safe lead.

Jones switched to Lefty Lifield, who used to be a star before anybody dreamed of a world war, and the veteran shut out the world's champions with only two hits in the other four innings.

The Sox got the jump in the opener, when Liebold walked, stole second, went to third on Collins' out, and scored on Jackson first hit. The Browns took the lead in the third, when they hopped on Williams hardest. Gerber singled, Lowdermilk and Tobin doubled, and two runs scored with nobody out. Williams stopped them there by getting the next three men.

The Rowlands resumed the lead in the fourth. Collins led with a pass and Jackson soaked a fly into the right field bleachers for a home run good for two more tallies.

They clinched it in the fifth with three runs. Liebold was given a life by Gedeon's fumble. Weaver beat out a bunt toward first, and Collins' out advanced them. Jackson came across with his third hit, a single, which scored two more runs. Felsch sent Joe to third on a single, and they pulled a double steal with the aid of a wild heave by Nunamaker, which let Joe score and sent Hap to third, where he was left.

The ninth was a tough one for Williams, as he started by passing Hendryx and hitting Nunamaker on the hoof. But Lefty steadied and got the next three without letting in a run.

Eddie Cicotte, convalescent pitcher, showed up this morning entirely recovered from his attack of grip, he said. He put on spangles and pitched to the batsmen in practice. He was not expected to report until the team reached Cleveland.

In the Wake of the News

By RING W. LARDNER

PROF. MARATHON.

IN ONE LONG ACT.

(Auditorium of a State University. Long past bedtime.)

Presiding officer—I now take great pleasure in presenting to you the speaker of the evening, Professor Marathon. (Applause.)

Prof. Marathon—Students and gentlemen: There is a great war going on across the sea. On one side are autocracy and militarism, represented by Germany, Austria-Hungary and Turkey. On the other is democracy, represented by Great Britain, France, Italy, Portugal, Serbia, Brazil, and Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean, the great republic of the United States of America. (Pause for applause.) Let me read you the Declaration of Independence. (He reads it.) Can any man with red American blood in his veins say he ever heard truer, more inspiring words than those! (Applause.) I shall be glad to my dying day that I went into this war over the draft age! I have bought a $50 Liberty Bond and would be ashamed if I had not! (Pause for demonstration.) I want to say to you, gentlemen and students, that you of the middle west should be proud to fight side by side with us easterners. A man from this very state of yours once committed a murder. I take it from that you are all murderers. (Snores.) Let me read you the Book of Exodus. (He reads it.) I will follow that up with Leviticus. (He does so.) And in conclusion (Applause) I will read the first half of the New York city directory. (He does so.) We have entered the European war to do or die! (Whispers to himself.) The damn traitors! Why don't they wake up!

STRANGER THAN FICTION.

Though you may not believe it, the following pathetic letter was written in France on the last day of February. The censor passed it bodily, but in passing made of it an accurate copy, the which we reproduce:

Deer Ant:

Recetted your P. C. today and you are sure in rotten luck. All men loos cows once in a while, so you should worry about an old skate that give you about two qrts milk every five days. i am in the best of health hopin you are the same. i had a letter from the old man yesterday and while everythin is Jake with him he hollers like a bull about that dam cow you lost. i mit lose my life over here and you dont here me holler. i guess not. the old man does not think i am in france, and i should fret and fume about his opinyun of me.

'TO WOMEN ONLY' SERMON CROWDS THE TABERNACLE

Crying Baby Halts Eulogy of Childhood, but Billy Talks On.

'Twas a sight to gladden a suffragist's heart—ladies' day at the tabernacle. Billy Sunday preached a sermon for women to women only during the afternoon and evening, and they reveled in their exclusiveness. Even the indispensable Rodeheaver was dispensed with, as were the men pianists, choristers, reporters, and ushers. In the place of Rody the singing was conducted by Mrs. William Asher, director of the extension department business women's work, and "Ma" Sunday led the closing prayer.

"Standing Room Only."

The crowd assembled rather late. But they came, and it was the biggest afternoon audience Billy has preached to since he has been in Chicago. At the evening meeting every seat was taken and many stood.

"Is it well with thee? Is it well with thy husband? Is it well with thy child?" was the subject Billy chose for his text. Under this heading he managed to heap scorn upon "the modern matron who prides herself upon her criminal knowledge of how to be relieved from the cares of childhood"; the girl who marries through ambition or indolence, instead of love; "the long haired man and short haired women"; the divorce laws; preachers who fail to instruct; the evils of dancing, and some fifty other subjects.

Wailing Baby Interrupts.

It was rather inconsiderate of some youngster in the audience to begin to cry just while Billy was most eloquent in denouncing the woman who considers maternity an inconvenience. A faint squall which began as Billy lauded children and grew steadily louder forced him to pause in the sermon to request mothers with wailing children to take them out, as he could not compete with them. After that all was quiet.

"I believe children have the inherent right to be well born," declared Billy, diverting to another topic. "I wish I could force mental, moral, and physical examinations before marriage. And I hope to live long enough to see sexual hygiene taught in the schools."

Praises Women's Powers.

Billy did not fail to take advantage of the many pleasant things he could say about women to put his audience in good humor. He told them of their power to reform the world, of the noble needs members of their sex have performed, and of their many praiseworthy characteristics.

"A woman's wit and powers of perception are wonderful," he exclaimed.

"There is no such thing as an old maid," said Billy, taking up another idea. "They are all ladies-in-waiting. Don't worry if you never get married——" Here he was interrupted by prolonged applause. "And I bet every one clapping is a married woman," he remarked.

Nothing Silly In Love.

"Don't simper and look silly when talking about love. Some people who are in love act silly, but that's the fault of their brains, not love. I think love is the noblest gift of God. But don't transfer your love of children to cats and dogs."

From the sermon into the prayer Billy went without pause. "Lord, do you want me to pray for the kaiser?" he inquired, after blessing every one and everything he could think of. "O, don't ask me to! I might be able to pray for Hindenburg, but I can't—I can't pray for the kaiser."

A Billy Sunday league was organized last night, with C. O. Frisbee as president. The league will continue Sunday's work after he leaves and will take an active part in patriotic work. Other officers of the organization are J. H. Van Dyke, A. L. Lindsay, A. G. Seaholm, F. G. Sickles, and M. R. Wright.

HOYNE SEEKING FIVE YEAR TRAIL OF TAX GRAFTING

Delinquents Who Paid Also Guilty, He States.

State's Attorney Hoyne's investigation of tax assessment fixing is to cover all personal property tax reductions that have been made through the state's attorney's office in the last five years, the prosecutor announced yesterday.

As for Assistant State's Attorney Morris L. Schaeffer, under suspension in connection with alleged fixing, Mr. Hoyne declared he will receive his notice of discharge from the state's attorney's service this morning. He is already under suspension.

Assistant State's Attorney Charles Center Case Jr. and John Foster will start Monday morning on the work of checking back the personal property tax records. If they find evidence of graft or tax fixing, Mr. Hoyne declared, he will arrest and indict every man who is guilty.

Seeks Trace of "System."

"I am led to believe there has been a systematized campaign of 'shakedowns' of delinquent taxpayers," Mr. Hoyne said. "I do not wish to say that Mr. Schaeffer is guilty."

Benjamin Lindheimer, who was said by Mr. Hoyne to have been the gobetween in the alleged attempted "shakedown" of Frank N. Bush, which led to Schaeffer's discharge, yesterday made several appointments to confer with the state's attorney's office regarding his alleged connection with the Bush affair. He called Mr. Hoyne by telephone, requesting an opportunity to explain his connection. Mr. Hoyne referred him to Mr. Case and he later made appointments with Case, but he failed to appear or to explain why he did not appear.

Delinquents Give Graft?

"There are three places where tax fixers may find out who delinquents are—at the county clerk's office, at the county treasurer's office, and at the state's attorney's office," Mr. Hoyne explained. "I don't know whether there has been activity between the fixers and the delinquents or not, but I am going to find out. I have been led to believe that the fixers do look over the lists of delinquents and then offer to get a reduction for a price.

"The reduction might be legitimately made, and still the fixers might be guilty of 'shaking down' the delinquents."

'Friendly Enemies' to Play for Fighting Men Sunday

Commanding officers of both the army and navy are to attend the special free matinée for soldiers and sailors tomorrow afternoon, when Sam Bernard, Louis Mann, and their company will give "Friendly Enemies." The Great Lakes station will be represented by Commandant William A. Moffett and his entire staff. Maj. Gen. Thomas H. Barry's staff will be present. Woods' theater is at Randolph and Dearborn streets. The doors will be open at 2 o'clock, and there will be no reserved seats. A uniform will be a pass.

This is in addition to personal contributions of himself and son, amounting to $1,200,000.

LOYAL CITIZENS WANT HALF DAY SALOONS CLOSED

Loyal citizens of Lake county are planning a campaign to put out of business the four saloons at Half Day in Vernon township despite the action of the Lake county supervisors in giving their O. K. for new liquor licenses for 1918.

"The new campaign will not be a proposition of 'wet' and 'dry,'" the Rev. Thomas Quayle, head of the Lake County Law and Order league, said last night. "The citizens are against these places for patriotic reasons. They are a menace to the welfare of the soldiers and sailors of the north shore and the government, we believe, will act if the local authorities refuse to end the nuisances."

Asks Board to Act.

It was learned during the day that the county supervisors received what amounted to a government warning some time ago in connection with the places at Half Day. In a letter to the chairman of the board, Raymond Fosdick, head of the Fosdick commission, which has acted as a federal arm in the investigation of vice near military posts, urged the board to act in harmony with the federal authorities in cleaning up undesirable spots.

In the face of this request the vote to continue the saloons was 18 to 7, Chairman Mather heading the majority.

Soldiers Served in Saloons.

Mr. Quayle stated that he has cited repeated instances of sailors and soldiers as well as young girls being sold intoxicants in several of the places. Several months ago Col. Nicholson, then commandant at Fort Sheridan, stated to the board that fifty-eight men in the regular army had become intoxicated from liquor sold in the Half Day saloons.

Col. Samuel B. Burkhart, present commandant at the post, termed the action of the board in permitting the saloons to remain open in the fact of government protests as "excessively unpatriotic."

It was reported last night that agents of the Fosdick commission now are keeping the places under surveillance and that a new report upon conditions on the north shore will be made very soon.

BULL MOOSERS DECIDE TO JOIN BRUNDAGE RANKS

Fifty Progressive-Republicans, former leaders of the Progressive movement, met yesterday at the Hotel La Salle, adopted patriotic resolutions and decided to affiliate with the "loyalists," led by Attorney General Brundage. This means that they will support Congressman Medill McCormick in the senatorship race.

The decision to act together as a group was reached after a full discussion and Harold L. Ickes was authorized to appoint a steering committee to discuss a county ticket with the Brundage group and to lay plans for the campaign.

Thomas J. Graydon, former Progressive county chairman, presided. Others present included Charles Ringer of the board of assessors; Charles H. Sergel, president of the sanitary district; Miss Harriet E. Vittum, Thomas D. Knight, Malcolm J. Dempsey, Emil N. Zolla, John Grunau, Harley B. Mitchell, F. M. Board, A. M. Anderson, Tom Murray, and William D. Cousin.

Resolutions Are Adopted.

The resolutions adopted follow in part:

"The present supreme duty of every citizen is generous, self-sacrificing, and whole hearted support of the government in prosecution of the war. To support the government does not mean to abandon political principles or parties and to approve alike of good and bad administration of office, but rather to insist upon efficient public service and that public officers be chosen who are worthy of their trust.

Must Purge Party.

"It is time to purge the Republican party of every disloyal element, in order that when its voice is raised in protest against administrative failures to prosecute the war with full vigor there may be in that voice of honest protest no dishonest pro-German accent. If the party name is to be made again the hall-mark of patriotism Republicans must make sure that disloyalists find no shelter in the party councils, nor skulk under its banners in order that their faithless candidates may slip into power through the ranks of loyal Republicans."

I. W. W. VENIRE EXHAUSTED AND TRIAL IS HALTED

Because all available veniremen had been examined and the new panel was not ready yesterday afternoon, Judge Landis continued the I. W. W. trial until Monday. Meantime the jury will remain locked up. It is expected Monday will find only nine of the ten jurymen chosen in the box.

W. J. Blaser of La Grange, plumber and hardware man, asked to be excused because of illness in his family, and the court intimated that he would be permitted to go home. This means the jury is one man farther off than it was four days ago.

Thirty new veniremen will report Monday morning.

STATE FACTS ARE TURNED TO AID OF RUBY DEAN

Witnesses Strengthen the Defense of Accident, Not Murder.

The defense of Ruby Dean, cabaret singer, on trial for the murder of Dr. Leon H. Quitman in her apartment in the Lessing, 550 Surf street, last September, scored several points yesterday. It was testimony by two of the state's own witnesses which caused satisfaction to her attorneys.

Arthur M. Holly, who lives across the street from the Lessing, and Dr. H. G. W. Reinhardt, coroner's physician, testified to details that were favorable to the theory of the defense that the shooting was accidental.

Holly, on cross-examination by the defense, directly contradicted the testimony of Thomas H. Mallay, who testified for the state on Thursday. He declared Miss Dean was in a different room from that stated by Mallay, when she was brought back into her apartment after the shooting of Dr. Quitman. He stated she could not have heard Dr. Quitman's accusations of her, and that she had stated at all times the shooting was an accident.

She Called It Accident.

"Miss Dean asked how he was," he said, "and she declared repeatedly it was an accident—that the gun exploded while she was trying to take it away from him. She said she would not harm him for the world."

Dr. Reinhardt, on cross examination, testified that he did not believe Dr. Quitman received proper medical treatment in time or he would have had a good chance of recovery.

Prosecutor McCarthy fought to keep testimony damaging to the state out of the record, but it was all considered competent testimony by the court.

Some Love Letters.

Following are some of the ardent love letters alleged to have been written by Dr. Quitman to Miss Dean, and which will be introduced into the evidence by the defense:

"To the best little sweetheart in the world.

"Darling—My, how empty everything looks to me up here. It just seems as if I am serving out a jail sentence. There's a lot to do, swimming, golf, dancing, gambling, etc., etc., but who can enjoy it with their heart in Chicago in the keeping of the finest little pal that a man ever had.

"Write to me, Piker, and tell me all about yourself and your love and what you are doing while I am out here, torn away from you as I am.

"There are a hundred things to do, but I cannot get interested. I would rather sit out upon that hill in Cedar lake and just feast my eyes upon you as I did when we were there."

He Was "Blue."

A letter sent from aboard the Pere Marquette railroad read:

"Darling: It is a mighty blue doctor that is rushing away from you in so unseeming a manner, but you can see that I have no alternative at least at present. My sentiments are very well expressed in the little verse which is as follows:

"Here's to the tears of affection,
May they crystallize as they fall,
And may they be pearls to be worn in after years
In memory of those whom we have loved."

A letter from Watervliet, dated Aug. 14, reads:

"Sweetheart: Just stepped from telephone booth and taking this opportunity to send cheque, which was mentioned during conversation.

"Gee, but it did seem good to talk to my sleepy little sweetheart again. It just seems like a thousand years since I last saw you, and I am trusting the Almighty to survive the next three days that I may again hold you in my arms and caress you as you have never been caressed before.

Another Sweetheart Letter.

A letter dated Aug. 13, from Watervliet, reads:

"My Darling Little Sweetheart: My object is to have a phone visit with my sweetheart. Gosh, I just can't, or 'kain't,' wait to be back with you! If I ever get my arms around you I don't think you'll survive the squeezing that I will subject you to. My! how I would enjoy this vacation if you were here, and oh! how the time drags without you!"

A policeman, Charles Mueller, was mentioned in yesterday's accounts of the trial as having testified as to Miss Dean's actions following the shooting. Charles M. Mueller of the Chicago avenue station, the only man on the force by that name, stated yesterday that he had had nothing to do with the case.

Cause of Fire at Stock Yards Plant Is Sought

An investigation is under way to determine the cause of a fire which caused a $10,000 loss in the killing plant of the G. H. Hammond Packing company, at Racine avenue and Forty-fifth street, last night.

Fourteen employés were driven out of the building by the fierceness of the blaze, but the prompt work of the firemen extinguished it in half an hour and the men returned to work.

CITY PREPARES TO ENFORCE NEW CABARET RULING

Daniels Virtually Asks a Ban on Bar Permits.

Chicago's anti-cabaret ordinance, which becomes effective May 1, will be strictly enforced. Corporation Counsel Ettelson and Chief of Police Alcock made this declaration yesterday after they had spent two hours conferring on the legislation.

The penalty for any infraction will be the immediate revocation of the license of the violator. The chief also was given verbal instructions as to the operation of certain of the more or less obscure features of the legislation, and these, with the order for rigid enforcement, will be sent throughout the department.

Before the conference started a letter was received by City Clerk Igoe from Secretary of the Navy Daniels. The secretary virtually requested that the special bar permit ordinance be repealed during the war.

Mr. Daniels explained that a delegation of reform leaders called on him recently when he was in Chicago and pointed out that dances given under special bar permits were a menace to sailors and soldiers.

Secretary Daniels' Views.

"We have more than 20,000 men at the Great Lakes station," part of the secretary's letter read. "These men spend some of their off leave time in Chicago.

"It has been a matter of great gratification to this department to observe the hospitality which the good people of your city have extended to these sailor lads, and I venture to express the earnest hope that this hospitality will continue by such action by the city authorities as will throw every possible safeguard around these young men by closing such institutions as injure their moral and physical welfare and by making it so that parents all over the country can rejoice that their sons who are in the navy have the privilege of spending their spare hours in your city.

"I was greatly impressed by the appeal made by the delegation of citizens, representing men of every faith and creed in your city, and I take it that a copy of this appeal has been given the city council."

Will Notify Council.

Mr. Igoe said he would transmit the secretary's letter to the council. The special bar permit matter is now in the hands of the city council committee on home defense.

It was learned that Mayor Thompson and his cabinet members are going to give their coöperation toward a repeal of the special bar permit ordinance.

Several attorneys, representing cabaret owners, have been to see Mr. Ettelson to ask that he agree to start a friendly suit to test the validity of the anti-cabaret ordinance. Mr. Ettelson refused to enter into any sort of an agreement, and stated that the measure would be strictly enforced.

Amusement Licenses.

Deputy City Collector Lohman said he did not anticipate more than twenty-five applications for amusement licenses under the anti-cabaret ordinance. No applications have been received so far. Up to last night 628 saloon licenses for the new period were issued. There are 6,053 saloons now. Under the anti-cabaret measure cafés can have orchestral entertainment if they pay annual licenses of $300 and have the approval of the police authorities.

It was estimated that there are about 2,000 cabarets in the city, and about 200 of these are of the larger variety.

Woman Sues Son of Former St. Louis Mayor for $50,000

Mrs. Mary T. Hill of Chicago, whose whereabouts could not be ascertained last night, brought suit yesterday against Fred Ziegenhein of St. Louis, son of former Mayor Henry Ziegenhein, for $50,000, alleging breach of promise.

Mrs. Hill is said to have alleged that Ziegenhein repeatedly asked her to marry him and that she consented finally to become his wife, but he has failed to keep his promise.

In St. Louis last night Ziegenhein said it was true that twenty-one years ago he met Mrs. Hill in Chicago and jokingly proposed to her, but that he has not seen her since and had never thought of her since.

TUNES OF THE U. S. A.!

They Abound in Program of Fourth "Tribune" Dime Concert, 3:15 Tomorrow, in Senn High School.

"O, PLAY me a tune from the U. S. A.!" ran the catchline of a song popular before this country went into the war. Glenn Dillard Gunn, in making up programs for THE TRIBUNE'S five dime concerts in the public schools, seems to be paying heed to the plea of the half forgotten ditty of ante-bellum nights in the variety theaters. Thus, in the bill for the fourth TRIBUNE concert, at 3:15 tomorrow in the Nicholas Senn High school, tunes of the U. S. A. predominate. The Senn school is at 5900 North Glenwood avenue.

KOEHNE PHOTO

The big number in the program, Dvorak's "From the New World" symphony, is based on tunes of the American Indian and of the southern Negro heard by the famous Bohemian composer when he was in this country. Victor Herbert, James MacDermid, and John Alden Carpenter are American composers whose music is in the bill for tomorrow. Rossetter G. Cole is another. His setting of "King Robert of Sicily" will be played as Mrs. Sterling Doak-Rice reads Longfellow's verse.

Litta Cohn, a pupil of the Senn school, is to make a special contribution of patriotic character to the program. The chorus of the school, under Ira Hamilton, also will take part with the American Symphony Orchestra.

Tomorrow is the last save one of THE TRIBUNE'S concerts, which are given by arrangement with the Civic Music association and the board of education.

TWO ARE HALED BEFORE MASON ON ANTI-U. S. CHARGE

S. Gecan, 2736 Best avenue, alleged I. W. W. sympathizer, was arrested yesterday on a charge of making seditious utterances. It is claimed that he said the United States is governed by a "bunch of crooked politicians" and to have added that he approved assassination for millionaires helping the war program.

Operatives said he made other remarks which could not be printed because of their nature. The case was continued for further investigation when he was arraigned before Lewis F. Mason, United States commissioner.

Gustave Hahn, a baker at 2914 Irving Park boulevard, was held for trial by Commissioner Mason. Mrs. Bessie Brendenburg and Mrs. Florence Stoltz, neighbors, appeared against him. Mrs. Brendenburg said he put a dirty rag in his window with the remark, "It's as good as the American flag."

Mrs. Stoltz testified that she had heard Hahn declare that the Liberty loan was "all humbug."

Two Weeks' Bonus to Milk Drivers Is Turned Down

Several milk distributors have offered their drivers a bonus of two weeks' pay if they will work through their summer vacation period, but the offer has been refused by officials of the Milk Wagon Drivers' union.

"We refused this offer because it was contrary to our agreement with the distributors," said R. G. Fitchie, president of the union, yesterday.

Many of the drivers are reported to favor accepting the offer and some suggested that the money be used in buying Liberty bonds.

Seek Data to Fix Blame for Corners in Food

Data regarding Chicago's packing houses and grain dealers is being gathered here by agents of the federal trade commission to enable the commission to fix responsibility for food cornering. Col. W. T. Chantland, in charge of the investigators, said the constantly growing demand for foodstuffs made it necessary for the government to obtain data regarding them. His inspectors will have access to the books of all concerns and will pay special attention to production, method of distribution, and supplies.

2 SHOT; BARBERS' ROW IS BLAMED; ANOTHER SLAIN

Police Say War of Intimidation Has Begun.

One murder and two probably fatal shootings kept the police of various stations busy last night, the two shootings lending clews which the police believe will lead to the arrest of men interested in a general strike of barbers scheduled for May 1.

Joseph Sangerman, a barber operating a shop at 1447 Winona avenue, was shot twice as he was leaving the place early in the evening. Persons in the vicinity said four men in a black limousine drove up, fired the shots, and fled. Sangerman told the police he thought he recognized an officer of the barbers' union as one of his assailants.

Part of "Terror Campaign."

Sangerman said he had had no trouble over labor, but believed he had been attacked as part of a reign of terror to induce the master barbers to sign the proposed new agreement.

Willard P. Porter, a law student of the University of Chicago, living at 6220 Ellis avenue, was shot down and probably fatally wounded by four men who also drove up in a black limousine. No attempt was made to rob Porter, the police say, but his assailants leaped out of their car, threw a flash light in Porter's face and then fired, immediately fleeing in their car. The police think the men mistook Porter for a barber in the neighborhood.

Man Found Dead.

Porter was given assistance by Mrs. G. Watkins of 549 East Sixty-second street and later taken to a hospital.

Earlier in the evening the police found Joseph Drogojlowich dead, his head crushed in and a small baseball bat lying nearby, in front of 2040 Coulter street. Later on four men and twenty women, arrested in rooms over a saloon at 2476 Blue Island avenue, were questioned by the Marquette police in the belief that the man had been killed in a general mêlée.

FIX TOP PROFIT ON CANNED CORN, PEAS, TOMATOES

Profits which will be allowed canners of corn, peas, and tomatoes have been fixed by the food administration. The figures for corn are of especial importance in Illinois, as there is a large number of canneries throughout the state. The figures refer to maximum profits, and food administration officials have announced that they do not imply any change in present rules governing the industry.

Hereafter licensed canners of corn will be permitted a maximum profit of 19 cents on a dozen cans of No. 2 standard, 22 cents on No. 2 extra standard, and 30 cents on No. 2 fancy.

The profits on peas known to the trade as substandard, standard, and fancy will be 15, 22, and 31 cents.

Sailor Reports Theft of $500 on Way to Station

J. H. Dawson of Salt Lake City, a sailor of Great Lakes station, reported to the police yesterday that he had been robbed of $500 while on his way to the Polk street station to board a train.

Nathan Korman of 2322 Augusta street reported he had been held up by two men while two women companions of the bandits took $10 from him.

Mrs. E. Hellier of 4026 Indiana avenue was robbed of $24 when a Negro snatched her purse. Mrs. Jennie Morey of 6200 University avenue lost a purse containing $15 and a $50 Liberty bond while shopping.

Family Still Waiting for News from Lieut. Hines

The family of Lieut. Edward Hines Jr. is still awaiting anxiously word from him. They were advised of his serious indisposition two weeks ago today by his commanding officer, Maj. Willis Mills of the Fourth machine gun battalion of the regular army, and since then, although they have repeatedly cabled, they have received no word.

BEG YOUR PARDON

The issue of April 24, under Liberty Lights, said that the "priests' scholarship fund" of Mount St. Joseph college would benefit by a Liberty bond party today in the Hotel La Salle.

Mount St. Joseph's is a school for girls. The proceeds of today's party, which is given by the Chicago chapter of the alumnæ, will be put into bonds for the benefit of the free scholarship fund.

NEW TWELFTH ST. VIADUCT IS HELD UP BY McADOO

Calls Use of $800,000 in Bridge Material Unnecessary.

Construction of a new viaduct, part of the Twelfth street widening project, may wait until after the war. W. G. McAdoo, director general of railroads, sent a telegram yesterday to Mayor Thompson withholding his approval of an expenditure of $800,000 for the viaduct. The railroads were to pay this cost.

"The question of safety does not seem to be involved," said Mr. McAdoo, "but only convenience. In view of the necessity for conserving capital, materials, and labor for urgent war needs, including indispensable transportation, will you not coöperate with me and order a postponement of the work, at least until after the war?"

Bennett Holds Hope.

Commissioner of Public Works Bennett was not inclined to lose hope. Mr. Bennett said he believed there still was a chance to convince the director general that the work should continue.

A week ago Mr. McAdoo ordered work on the Franklin-Orleans street bridge stopped. This order, however, was withdrawn and the work is now under way.

See Chance for "Link."

M. J. Faherty, president of the board of local improvements, appeared confident that the government would not stop the carrying out of the Michigan avenue "boulevard link" project.

GUARD OF 'BRIG' TELLS OF 'DUMMY' IN BOWEN'S BED

Government operatives seeking solution of the escape of George Bowen, petty officer and chief witness in the food graft inquiry at Great Lakes, learned yesterday, they say, that L. E. McClintock, now locked in the "brig," called on Mrs. Bowen in Waukegan the day before the escape.

McClintock was a guard at the brig the night of the escape, and admits that he had been a close friend of both Mr. and Mrs. Bowen. He denies any knowledge of the escape of Bowen, however, and protests his innocence. Bowen, according to McClintock, rolled up a blanket and made a dummy which he placed in his cot.

Bowen is believed to be in hiding somewhere in or near Chicago, and every avenue of escape is being closely watched.

Autopsy Follows Poison Hint in Binkowitz Death

An autopsy performed on the body of Samuel D. Binkowitz, manager of the Illinois Wire and Cable company, who died Thursday, was made by Coroner's Physician Burmeister at the request of Julius Binkowitz, nephew of the decedent. The fact that his uncle's body turned black led him to suspect poison had been the cause of death. Binkowitz was insured for nearly $70,000, it is said. The inquest and further inquiry will have to wait for a report from Coroner's Chemist McNally.

'Prominent Business Men' Raided; Pot Disappears

Eight "prominent business men" were arrested on the third floor of the Inter Ocean building yesterday just as the size of the jackpot in the poker game which drew their attention became of considerable attractiveness. But as detectives entered the room the jackpot was swept from the table. The detectives seized the cards and chips, however. "Ernest Robbins of Glencoe" was taken as keeper of the game.

BIRTH OF RACE STOCK SOLD BY MAIL, CHARGE

State to Ascertain Its Rights Under Blue Sky Law.

Barred by the "blue sky" law from selling it in Illinois, Chicago brokers are seeking to sell stock in the "Birth of a Race" film corporation by mail in other states.

Following the arrest of Giles P. Cory of Giles P. Cory & Co., fiscal agents for the film company, several weeks ago, its representatives told the newspapers the sale of stock had been completed and the Cory company announced it had quit selling this security.

But Attorney General Brundage yesterday received a complaint from the vigilance committee of the Associated Advertising clubs that a new fiscal agent is busy. The committee forwarded literature sent by Almont & Shroyer, 608 South Dearborn street, to Frank Armstrong of Des Moines, Ia.

Like Old Literature.

It was almost identical with the literature previously sent out by Cory & Co., including "testimonials" for the picture from Julius Rosenwald, Gov. Frank O. Lowden, the Rev. Jenkin Lloyd Jones, and others, but the quotation from William Howard Taft was omitted. All of these men have denied emphatically that they recommended the purchase of the stock.

Attorney General Brundage referred the matter to Raymond S. Pruitt, his "blue sky" expert, who is investigating to determine whether the Illinois statute covers mail sales made by Chicago brokers in other states.

The letter from Almont & Shroyer informed Mr. Armstrong that an investment "should net between 500 and 3,000 per cent within a very short time," and that the film "is expected to go on the screen in about ninety days."

Arraigned for Bond Sale.

Walter S. Martien, 809 First National bank building, will be arraigned in the South Clark street court for selling a "ten year $5,000 bond" in the Fidelity Investment association of Wheeling, W. Va., which is not licensed in Illinois.

This purports to be a savings organization and George Braid, western representative of John Wanamaker, who is the complainant, was told that for paying $120 down and $40 a month he would receive $10.40 a month in interest and at the end of ten years would be paid $5,000 in a lump sum. In other words, he says he was convinced that although his payments would amount to only $4,920, he would receive in return a total of $6,248.

Martien, as Chicago agent for the company, displayed excellent recommendations, and the only charge made by the attorney general's office is that the sale of the "bonds" is not authorized in Illinois.

Start to Fill Medical Schools During the War

Plans for filling depleted ranks in the student bodies of medical institutions, caused by volunteer or draft service for the war, were discussed at a conference of the educational committee of the American Osteopathic association in the Hotel La Salle last night.

"The government," said Dr. E. J. Drinkal of Chicago, "has refused to recognize osteopaths in its medical war service, and in order to do our bit we are arranging plans whereby the association will begin a nation-wide drive for students for medical institutions to replace students who have joined the colors."

Aero Motor Division Here in Active Training

One of the most actively engaged war units in Chicago is that of 100 men composing the aero motor division stationed in the old Hyde Park telephone exchange and known as the University of Chicago training detachment. The detachment is in training under Capt. D. Crandall and Lieut. J. Thurstonson. Mess is in University of Chicago commons and drill is carried on in Stagg field. The men have just been outfitted with uniforms, the chief distinction of which is the green hat cord of the United States army service school. All the men are those whose names were far down in the registration and who enlisted voluntarily. They will be in training about three months.

FORTY YEARS

Wife Gets Tired After Four Decades in One House and Husband Gets Divorce.

FRED E. DUERR and Helena were married forty years ago, and they lived together at 438 Center street all the time. But after forty years Helena grew tired of the same old house, the same old neighborhood, and the same old man. She deserted. That is the story told Judge Brothers yesterday by Fred, who was granted a divorce.

"I see no reason for the continuance of a binding tie that means more sorrow to both of us. I am convinced that we cannot fight the battles of life successfully if we are together." That's what John H. Irwin, a salesman, wrote to his wife, Lillian E. Irwin, 2146 Louis street. She was granted a divorce after Judge Brothers read the letter.

Leo C. Klein, owner of a café at 1655 Sedgwick street, was sued for separate maintenance yesterday by Mrs. Kate E. Klein, who charges cruelty. The café is said to net an income of $5,000 a year.

O, WHERE IS THE CINDERELLA WHO HIT THIS HAT

If the young lady
Who tossed her shoe
At the head of the man
Who kept on his hat
When the flag went by

In yesterday's Liberty loan parade will kindly announce her identity she will solve a very neat mystery. At a benighted hour last night the owner of the shoe could not be found. It's a 4 AA.

The gent with the cement hat band was standing at the corner of Wabash avenue and Monroe street yesterday afternoon when the parade began passing. He became increasing conspicuous as the flags went by and his hat stayed on. The crowd began to murmur. Detective Sergeants De Mar and Fetscher shouldered their way to where he stood alone in his ignominy.

"Why," he began, "I—I——"

He was interrupted by the shoe, which, sailing from a window of a nearby hotel, landed on his head, kissed off, and bounced onto Sergt. De Mar's jaw, whence it fell to the pavement uninjured.

The two officers picked it up and went through nearby buildings in an effort to restore it and compliment the patriotic Cinderella. But they couldn't find her. It's a chocolate colored, left foot shoe with a cloth top.

Socialists Refuse to Hear Liberty Loan Speaker

The Liberty Loan committee some time ago rented East End hall, Erie and North Clark streets, for a meeting last night, later cancelling the contract. Following this the Socialist committee of Cook county rented the hall for an address by Kate Richards O'Hare, who, in her advertising, admits she is "the greatest woman orator in America," and who was recently convicted and sentenced to five years' imprisonment for seditious utterances. She is out on bond pending an appeal.

Last night a male speaker and a woman singer who did not know of the cancellation turned up at the hall to talk and sing for the loan. They were met by a Socialist leader, himself now under indictment. "You cannot speak here," he said. "This hall has been rented by the Socialists." He told the woman she might sing, if the audience were willing, after the matter were explained to them, but she declined.

Mrs. O'Hare denounced the fairness of the judge and jury which convicted her.

Seek Girl Who Vanished in Quest of Movie Job

The police yesterday were asked to search for a girl who left home to seek fame as a movie actress. She is Miss Angeline Miller, 16 years old, of 1234 Noble street.

Mrs. Tillie Miller, the girl's mother, told the police she believed her daughter was employed by Maxon Bros., 118 South Clinton street. Inquiry showed that the girl had quit work last Monday. She disappeared on Wednesday.

The missing girl is described as 4 feet 6 inches tall, with light brown hair. She wore a white middy blouse, black dress, and black shoes.

MAN SHOT BY POLICE DIES.

Edward J. Mastrofsky, also known to the police as Masters and Mason, who was shot on Friday night while running from the police, died yesterday in the Fort Dearborn hospital.

LA SALLE STREET BROKERS SEIZED FOR STOCK DEAL

J. Cadwel Benson and T. F. Lamon Accused by a Waiter.

J. Cadwel Benson, president of J. Cadwel Benson & Co., investment brokers, 29 South La Salle streets, and T. F. Lamon, an officer in the company, were arrested yesterday by Officers Loftus and Moran of the detective bureau on a charge of operating a confidence game. The warrants were issued by Judge Hugh Kearns and were sworn out by August Mayr, head waiter at the Morrison hotel, who was represented in court by Attorneys Callahan and Callahan.

According to the testimony presented before Judge Kearns, Benson and Lamon are the "higher ups" in a coterie that has been operating in Chicago and vicinity for several months.

"Our firm has been retained by twenty-five people who have complaints against Benson, Lamon, or their co-workers," said Attorney Francis J. Callahan yesterday.

Complains of $800 Loss.

Mayr complained that he had invested $800 in Benson's company stock, which he alleges is worthless. He also purchased stock in a Victor Motor company.

Though the first arrests were made yesterday, the state's attorney, the detective bureau, federal authorities, and Attorneys Callahan & Callahan have been coöperating for two weeks.

Last Tuesday Benson was sued for $25,000 by Charles M. Read, a 74 year old retired farmer of Piper City, who, according to Attorneys Callahan and Callahan, has invested most of his life savings in the Victor Motor company.

"Piper City has been thoroughly worked by Benson's men," said Callahan yesterday. "Eight or nine farmers paid heavily for gold edged stock certificates.

$50,000 Sales Alleged.

"Benson sent his salesmen into Piper City and they gave dances and barbecues to stir interest in the Victor Motor company. Altogether they took nearly $50,000 out of Ford county.

"They brought Read to Chicago and wined and dined him. Why, he even purchased stock in a fender company and never really learned the company's title."

Benson and his salesmen are accused of informing prospective buyers that the Victor Motor company had bought out the entire Pullman plant and that it was going to be used for the manufacture of Victor motors.

"They stated that they were turning out 100 to 300 cars a day and that the government had contracted for the entire output," said Mr. Callahan.

Defendants Named.

D. A. Kloethe, a Piper City merchant; T. F. Lamon, and C. Thomas Schults all were made defendants in Read's $25,000 suit.

Benson and Lamon were released last night on $4,000 bonds. Their cases will be heard this morning by Judge Kearns in the South Clark street police court.

Callahan and Callahan were requested yesterday to bring their Piper City clients to Chicago for a conference with Mr. Hoyne.

UTILITIES BODY'S POWER IS SAME, BRUNDAGE RULES

Authority of the Illinois public utilities commission in the regulation of railroads remained unimpaired insofar as it does not conflict with federal requirement, in the opinion of Attorney General Brundage, who yesterday rendered a written opinion to Frank H. Funk, a members of the commission.

The same general policy has to do with the construction of extensions, terminals, equipment, etc., except where war needs intervene or where the government purchases outright. State-made rates in freight and passengers will be unaffected as to intrastate traffic. In interstate commerce there is also no change save in that rates now are "initiated" by the president instead of the carrier.

Mr. Brundage does not believe the authority of the commission is affected as to the issuance of securities. It is pointed out that it is a new war burden of the roads to obtain the consent of the president in matters of securities, which procedure is cumulative only, inasmuch as the consent of the commission is first required before the president is approached.

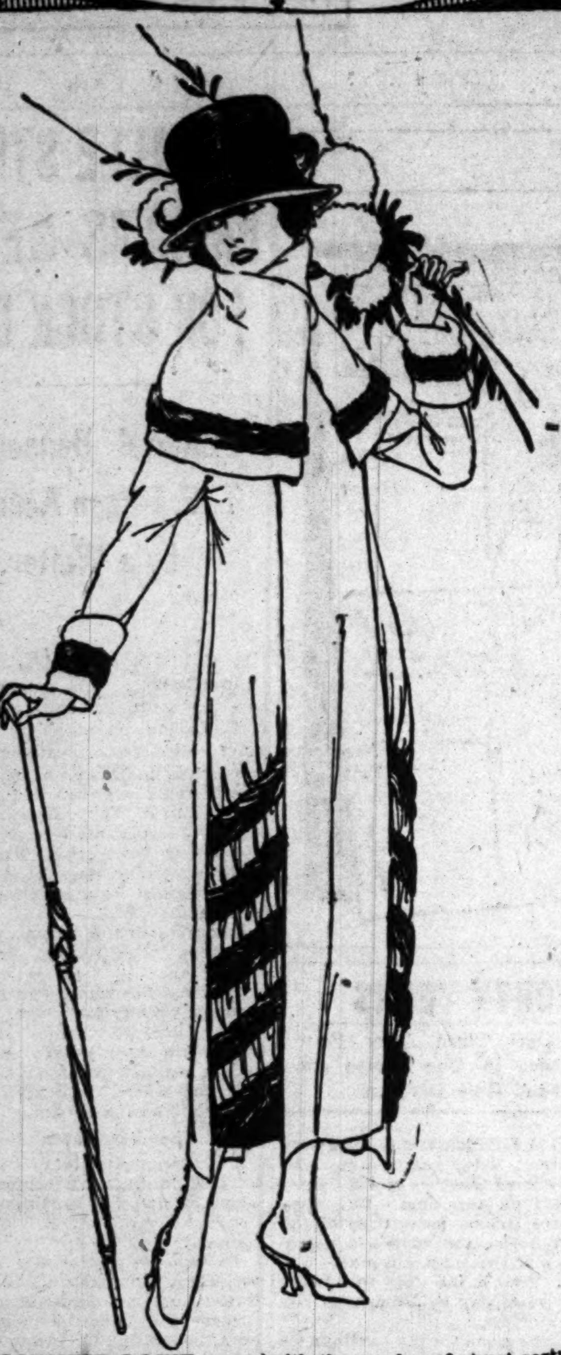
Dedicate Field House at McKinley Park Today

With two elaborate celebrations today, one in the afternoon and the other at night, the new $200,000 field house at McKinley park will be formally dedicated. Children from ten public and parochial schools will take part. The presentation will be by Commissioner Patterson of the south park board, and David E. Shanahan, speaker of the Illinois legislature, will formally receive it. Congressman John W. Rainey will make an address.

Mail from 'Over There' In and Makes Many Happy

Thousands of Chicagoans were made happy yesterday; the French mail got in! It was the biggest shipment of stampless soldier mail received since the boys got "over there." The post-office had a busy day. Paris post cards in bright colors were very popular and the morale of the American army is shown in many variations of this message, "You ought to be here to enjoy it. This is some war."

FASHION'S BLUE BOOK



BY CORINNE LOWE.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—The surging sea nowadays has little "on" the surging land. Probably both look the same to the eyes of the aviator or at least soon will do so if this navy serge wave is not stopped by some King Canute of the fashion realm. Navy blue suits, navy blue frocks, navy blue capes—why, even Annapolis on parade never looked like Fifth avenue nowadays!

With navy blue suits and frocks are worn neck frills and cuffs of old blue and French blue organdy. The combination is so persistent that it is almost a uniform. Sand color, too, is set off with this tint of organdy. Consequently, we note with relief a new combination. This is advocated by New York's leading designer in a recent fashion show. Here one was struck with the number of street costumes in sand color tricot, which were worn with blouse of orchid color. It is really an exquisite alliance of color and really much more springlike than the perpetual navy and light blue.

"Hie thee to a cape," says Dame Fashion through her biggest megaphone, and we all of us hie. Yet, even so, there are a few of us who retain presence of mind sufficient to note that the coats of this season are really beautiful. Of course, motor coats are always good, and probably by the end of May or June we shall see a wholesome return to the dress coat.

At all events here is a Directoire model of rose silk jersey trimmed, as are so many of the new silk coats, with fur. This particular pelt is kolinsky banded diagonally on the two side front panels so as to shirr the inclosed material.

Now did you EVER——!

Wheatless Recipes.

The United States food administration, Illinois division, has out a new bulletin on "Wheatless Recipes." The recipes given are for cake, biscuit, and muffins. In the introduction it says:

"Owing to the fact that some flour substitutes are not always available, we have included in this pamphlet recipes for such products showing many different combinations which have been tried and found satisfactory.

"It is the duty of every patriotic citizen to buy as little wheat flour as possible until the war is over. Our army and the nations associated with us in the war need every pound of our available surplus, and there will be no surplus unless you and others save.

"There are many wheat substitutes which have all the food value of wheat and can be used to make appetizing breads. You may use corn grits, corn meal, corn flour, hominy, potato flour, edible corn, rolled oats, sweet potato flour, soya bean flour, feterita flour. Rye flour is not a substitute, as the supply is limited.

"Many clubs, hotels, and restaurants are volunteering to use no wheat products in any form until the next wheat crop is available."

The list of muffins using no wheat is long. There are twenty-one of these called "combination substitute muffins," with method of mixing. The first fourteen have the following proportions, up to the flour: One cup of liquid, one tablespoon of fat, two tablespoons of sirup, two eggs, four tablespoons of baking powder. The per cents of different substitutes used are given by weight. For instance, in a muffin in which there are 50 per cent oats and 50 per cent barley there are four ounces of each, but by cups there are one and one-half cups of barley and three-fourths cup of ground rolled oats.

When four ounces each of buckwheat and oats are used there is one cup of buckwheat to three-fourths cup of ground oats. Four ounces of both buckwheat and corn flour make one cup each. When four ounces each of corn flour and barley are used the measure is one and one-half cups of barley flour and only one cup of corn flour. And four ounces of rice flour make one cup.

A study of these measures shows that there must be six cups of barley flour to a pound and may partly explain why we can add so much of it as compared with other flours when we are using flours to make batters of the requisite thickness. Buckwheat and corn flour yield four cups per pound, which is approximately what wheat flour yields, while ground oats and rice flour give only three cups to a pound. These figures have a significance which I believe we are likely to have a better understanding of as we experiment with the substitutes and are careful by tablespoons.

Some suggestions offered are: "All the combinations are good. In nearly all cases a combination of substitutes makes a better product than the use of one substitute. Muffins containing oats have a particularly pleasant flavor. Other substitutes used with buckwheat will modify the color and improve the flavor of the product. The use of molasses will also do this. When corn meal is used, mix, do not sift the ingredients."

Let's Do It as They Do It in the Movies

By Mae Tinée.

The gentleman right over there
Just lit a cigaret.
In doing so, however, he Missed one important bet.
Of course for real life smoking
He proceeded quite all right,
But smokers in the movies
Always jiggle out the light.
That maiden's mouth, I must insist,
A something seems to lack;
In real life—yes—the lips are pink,
But on the screen they're black.
So tell her please to get some paint
Or else a little jam,
And camouflage until her mouth
In daily life a man and wife
Have scraps from different angles,
But on the screen you'll notice that
They all hinge on triangles. (The scraps.)
And Harvard men we've known to have,
Good manners now and thin,
However, on the screen they tuck
Their napkins 'neath their chin.
There people always die on time,
And Fate, sometimes unbending,
In real life—always here relents
And grants a happy ending.
The "vampire" of the screen's a jade,
A hard and obvious creature,
Who dresses like a band wagon—
Is coarse and loud of feature.
In real life I should say she'd scare
The average man to pieces.
But on the screen—t'is different,
They follow her like—geeses. (Poetic license.)
The ne'er do well of screen intent
Always goes west and soon shows
Experienced cowboys of the plain
That he much more than they knows.
He outshoots, outfights, outrides them.
You feel it is a pity
These poor roughnecks did not receive
Their schooling in a city.
Spies always are captured at night,
A crook is always dirty,
The hero's upper lip protrudes,
Be he sixteen or thirty.
And no matter how small he is,
He never must be beaten,
And oft they eat upon the screen
Meals as they are not eaten.
But—who cares.
I don't—do you?

Exhibition of Swedish Art Opens Tonight

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

Patriotism is to be mingled with art at the exhibition which opens tonight at the Swedish-American Art club. The prizes which are to be awarded Wednesday will be in the form of Liberty bonds and thrift stamps. That this awarding of prizes will be a difficult task may be seen at even a cursory glance. Sweden may well be proud of her artist sons in the new country.

John F. Carlson, one of the most famous of America's painters, has a group of winter scenes. Among them are "Winter Morning," "Under Open Skies," and "Thawing Snow." He depicts the bleakest season of our year with a force and beauty that kindles a love for the snow months in the most reluctant heart. The marine paintings by Charles Hallberg are worthy of mention. It may be noted in connection with them that a set of eight paintings from his brush was presented by him to the Great Lakes Naval station. Emil Gelhaar has a beautiful seascape, "Sea and Sea Gulls." The warmth of a summer day radiates from the deep blue of the sky and sea.

Von Hofsten has a representative group of water colors. "Sunset on the Skokie," "Starlight," "Afterglow"—all of them scenes we take so much for granted on November evenings, but which he has seen with a true poet's eye and transplanted to delight us forever on his canvas. In different manner are the landscapes of Alfred Jansson painted. His color is rich, but veiled with that mystic stroke of the brush which, perhaps, is best seen in the work of George Inness.

Hand in hand with her gentler sister goes the more robust figure of sculpture. And that this muse, if muse she be, has not been forgotten the group of figures at the end of the gallery successfully remind us. Agnes V. Froman shows a "Board of Chinamen" and they are as quaint and unusual as the name implies. The larger figure of "Eve" shows the sculptor's power in handling marble and chisel to bring perfection into flower. Frank Gustafson has several studies of interest. Possibly the "Challenge" is the most striking. The figure is of a youth, who, with the smell of battle in his nostrils, faces the world, naked but sure of the strength in his unweaponed hands.

Bright Sayings of the Children

"The Tribune" will pay $1 in thrift stamps for each childish saying printed. The story told must never have been printed in any magazine or paper. It is not possible to acknowledge or return unavailable contributions. Please write on one side of the paper. Address bright sayings to Aunty Bee, "Tribune," Chicago.

Gertrude coaxed so often for a dog that she was finally promised one. When her birthday came her wish was gratified. She was asked how she liked the dog. "O," said the youngster, "it's fine, but I was hoping he would be twins." C. S. C.

Beth had heard her parents talking about being exposed to the measles.

A few days later her mother, noticing something on her face, said, "I thought maybe you were getting the measles."

"Well," she replied, "I'm 'sposed for the measles, ain't I, mother?" R. W. M.

Frankie was visiting in the home of his uncle when the subject of homesickness was being discussed.

"I don't think I was ever homesick," said the little boy, "but I've often wished I was where I wasn't." K. C. S.

We Ought to Get Chummier with the Clothesbrush

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

WAS IT YOU?

"My kingdom for a clothes brush!" sighed the woman in front of me. Her gaze was fixed in fascination on the blue serge shoulders of the girl beside her. Such a sad stopping off place it was, powdered with dust and dandruff, and patterned with a tracery of stray hairs.

The clothes brush is a friend in need, indeed, and it's too bad more of us don't get chummy with it. A whisk in time might save us from harsh criticism. Dust has a perfectly fiendish penchant for hopping on blue serge, especially in the pause of the day's occupation.

And while I'm on the subject I am reminded of a letter that came in recently. My correspondent writes: "Just the other morning a woman adjusted her bonnet and left the impression of her finger tips on the pretty black sailor. Ask them to keep their hats brushed. I know you can help the cause along. Nuff sed!"

Merci, madame!

State Council Aids Gardens.

In every ward of the city where vacant lots may be used as war gardens a garden director will be furnished through the State Council of Defense, which also will provide demonstrations and instruction in gardening. All ward chairmen have been asked to appoint child welfare chairmen in order to help in carrying on the more effectively the campaign about to open to weigh and measure every baby in the city in the movement to make a nation of better babies and reduce the death rate among children below school age. Volunteers for the work may apply at 315 Plymouth court, telephone Harrison 7885.

GO TO CHURCH SUNDAY

Some of our Lord's most blessed revelations of Himself and His mission were made to those who turned aside from their ordinary tasks and listened to Him.

Moses turned aside to see the burning bush and God talked to him. Three disciples turned aside to the mountain of vision and Jesus was transfigured before them.

Going to church is turning aside from the stress and strain of modern life and giving God a chance to speak to us. PAUL RILEY ALLEN, pastor, North Shore Congregational church.

AN OPEN LETTER TO THE ACTING CHIEF OF POLICE OF CHICAGO

MR. JOHN ALCOCK,
Acting Chief of Police, City of Chicago.

Dear Sir:

We wish to take this opportunity of thanking you for the efficient manner in which your police officers co-operated with us yesterday at both the matinee and night performances at the Olympic Theatre, until late at night, in handling the tremendous crowds which struggled to reach the box office.

Undoubtedly this was the largest assemblage of this kind that they have ever been called upon to handle in front of a theatre in Chicago, not even excepting the crowds attracted by such gala occasions as the concerts of John McCormack, Galli-Curci and other big events of this nature. At all times the line of persons desirous of purchasing tickets extended the entire length of the block on Randolph street from the Olympic to Dearborn, but your splendidly trained corps handled this multitude of clamoring people, keeping them in perfect order until they secured their turn at the box office window. The most trying period in handling these crowds, we are glad to say, has passed. We now have a greatly augmented box office force, and we feel confident that in the future we will be able to take care of the great demand for seats for D. W. Griffith's tremendous success, "Hearts of the World."

As strangers in your city, we again wish to thank you for your co-operation and to congratulate you on the efficiency of your department. Very truly yours,

WILLIAM ELLIOTT, F. RAY COMSTOCK, MORRIS GEST.

BY CINDERELLA.

Some people are coming home from the winter resorts and others are leaving for the summer resorts. This week Mrs. Bryan Lathrop, Mrs. R. Hall McCormick, and the Edward L. Ryersons arrived from Santa Barbara. Mrs. Lathrop will be in town ten days before leaving for Washington en route to open her summer place at York Harbor early in June.

Her Santa Barbara branch of the Chicago Italian auxiliary of the Red Cross turned out a great success and there were piles of the loveliest socks and sweaters and scarfs the eye ever beheld, ready for shipment to Mrs. Thomas Nelson Page in Rome.

Especially admired were a half dozen pairs of socks in the most marvelous heathery green knitted and sent by Mrs. William G. Beale at White Sulphur Springs, and many more in pearl gray knitted in the fleeciest soft wool and sent in by Mrs. J. Ogden Armour, Miss Gwetholyn Jones and her sister, Mrs. Edward Bennett, Mrs. Edward Ryerson, Mrs. T. W. Wadsworth, Mrs. John A. Spoor, and Mrs. John C. Black.

◆

Women showed their good taste by their smart color combinations in socks. Really there is the greatest difference. Nobody thinks any more of decking a fighting man out in a white sock with red and blue bands on it, apparently. But soft browns, tans, greens, grays, and the famous Liberty wool are in vogue with garnishments to suit the fancy. Where the beneficiary is an officer husband the darlingest clocks go on the socks, which is, of course, the height of luxury, for one has to go out of one's way to knit clocks. Mrs. Harry Howard knits awfully nice socks and so does Mrs. C. Morse Ely.

◆

But to return to Mrs. Lathrop's gifts for Mrs. Page in Rome, Mrs. Barbour Brown came home from the south with one thousand of the sweaters made from the heavy bathrobe material to send to Italy. This was the banner gift.

Mrs. Page's recent letters from Rome are full of the refugee situation. One lovely young girl from northern Italy came to the American embassy for help. She had only the clothes she stood in and in her hand a bird in a cage, her sole possession and traveling companion.

Out of her own pocket Mrs. Page has maintained a war relief of sixty paid Italian women and many American volunteers. They met in the great frescoed salons of the embassy, an ancient and magnificent palace, and made dressings and hospital garments for the men at the front. Now the American Red Cross has taken over this tremendous responsibility from Mrs. Page and she has 200 more needy Italian women established in the Del Drago palace. All of the refugees from the north who arrive in Florence and Rome have only the clothes they stand in, and no food, no money.

The last news from Lieutenant Colonel Alexander Smith of the Red Cross in Europe and assistant to Major General James W. Perkins is that he is coming home as soon as he can on a short furlough. Charles Garfield King has already arrived in town from France and his words are being literally hung upon by all.

Miss Ryerson at the Front.

Reports from abroad tell of strenuous experiences by Miss Suzette Ryerson of Chicago near the battle front. During the recent fighting, it is said, she worked for five days and nights in a canteen without undressing, and catching a nap only now and then. She, with other members of a nursing unit, was thus occupied until the hospital to which they had been assigned was ready for them. Since that time she has been nursing in the hospital.

Miss Ryerson's mother, Mrs. Arthur Ryerson, will sail within a few days to work in the service of the American fund for French wounded.

In the issue of Wednesday, April 17, the engagement of Miss Alma Chambers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Chambers of 5558 West Quincy street, to C. F. Stephens was announced in the society column. This announcement is an error and both Miss Chambers and Mr. Stephens deny they are engaged. The information came to THE TRIBUNE in a letter which was signed "A Subscriber."

All Topnotchers at Actors' Benefit; $10,000 Proceeds

Julius Tannen of "The Land of Joy" was master of ceremonies and introduced the various actresses and actors. Louis Mann of the "Friendly Enemies" company spoke for a few minutes on "Liberty Day," and then announced he would auction off a program which every star in the city had autographed. The bidding went slowly and cautiously until Mr. Mann told several funny stories, and thus boosted the price at which the program went up to $150.

◆

Georgia O'Ramey, Oscar Shaw, and Olin Howland of the "Leave It to Jane" company scored the biggest hit in their song and dance, "Sir Galahad." Encores weren't allowed, so the program announced, but this bit had to be repeated several times before the audience would allow the performance to proceed. William Courtenay joined in the final frolic and assisted Mr. Shaw and Mr. Howland in stuffing Miss O'Ramey's head down the horn.

Margaret Anglin read "In Flanders Fields," with orchestral accompaniment adapted from the vocal setting. The orchestra was led by the composer of the music, Lieut. John Philip Sousa.

Carolyn Thomson of the "Maytime" company gave two vocal solos and Arthur Geary of the same company sang. Donald Brian told several Irish jokes.

Mlle. Valdeo de Coriche gave a gypsy beggar dance. Leo Ditrichstein and twenty-nine members of his company contributed one act of "The King." Betty Prescott, Ralph Schoolman, George Rubens, and Nat M. Kahn of the Playshop players gave a one act play entitled "Philistines: Their Countries." Stella Mayhew confided in the audience that her husband Bill had gone to Plattsburg to learn to fight, but that she couldn't see the use of it, for, so she said, "We had some pretty good battles at home." She also sang several coon songs and jigged.

Judge John P. McGoorty spoke on the Liberty loan. The proceeds of the benefit amounted to about $10,000.

In the audience were many society people and scattered about in the boxes were several women who by their blue and white hat bands proclaimed they had taken part in the Liberty parade. Some of these were Mrs. William J. Chalmers, Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, Mrs. James Keeley, Mrs. Edward F. Swift, Mrs. Charles A. Munroe, and Mrs. William Pullman.

◆

Also in the boxes were Mrs. Charles J. Barnes, Mrs. Ralph Martin Shaw, Mrs. Robert J. Dunham, Mrs. Nelson L. Barnes, Mrs. John Alden Carpenter, Mrs. George E. Marcy, Miss Elizabeth Ware, Miss Harriet Pardridge, Miss Louise Hessert, Mrs. De Forest Hulburd, Mrs. Frederick G. Wacker, Mrs. Alden B. Swift, Mrs. Frank E. Wilhelm, Mrs. Huntington B. Kenilworth Players Aid War.

Three one act plays will be given on May 8 by the Kenilworth players for the Winnetka Woman's club war fund. They are "Lonesome Life," "The Flower Shop," and "The Latest Cure for Insanity."

WOMEN IN WARTIME

A woman's land army experience meeting was held yesterday in the library of the State Council of Defense, and the testimony offered was enough to scare any anti-feminist farmer who thinks his wife's or daughter's place is at the kitchen range. It was a meeting of Mrs. Charles W. Hubbard's subcommittee of the Woman's Land Army of America.

There was a report from a little woman in one of the north shore units who has raised chickens on her radiator by night and out in the sunny yard by day. With an expenditure of 50 cents on feed per week, another woman kept nine hens all winter, from which she was the recipient of eighteen eggs a week in the days when eggs were selling at 73 cents a dozen. From Ravinia came a woman who hoped that some one would like to come up to her place and learn from her about the keeping of bees, for she is anxious that people see what bees can yield in food in a year; and another asked of the committee how she and her three little children could learn how to milk a cow, in preparation for their spending the summer on a farm.

Mrs. Tiffany Blake, Illinois chief of the Land Army of America, led the meeting. Any one wishing to find out more of the movement may communicate with her at 120 West Adams street.

◆

A French flower market will be held in Winnetka on May 18, and in the gardens of some of the suburbanites living in Winnetka there are now growing the plants to be sold that day by society women, who will be dressed in French peasant costume and have charge of flower booths to be set up about the community house. Mrs. Willoughby Walling, Mrs. Laird Bell, Mrs. Roger Sherman, Mrs. Franz Anderson, Mrs. Augustus Peabody, Mrs. J. Allen Haines, Mrs. Charles Hubbard, and others will be active in the fair. The receipts will be given to the American fund for French wounded.

◆

A call for more workers has been sent out by the women in charge of Madison Park Red Cross auxiliary, 4935 Blackstone avenue, which has a class in surgical dressings and hospital garments that meets on Wednesday evenings.

BUY JULY CORN; FEAR FOR CROP YET UNPLANTED

Growing Anxiety Over the Possibility of Material Decrease in Area.

Although planting of corn will not commence in the important sections for another two weeks, fears are already expressed over the outcome of the yield. Because of the scarcity of good seed and the fact that considerable corn land has been seeded to small grains, there is growing apprehension of a materially decreased acreage and poor germination, and this stimulated a great deal of buying yesterday.

Commission houses took July corn persistently and it closed 2⅝c higher for the day. Block-Maloney and Updike were conspicuous buyers. Local traders were disposed to sell on the bulges, but were subsequently forced to cover. Numerous stop loss orders were encountered on the advance. Prospects are for continued cold and wet weather.

Cash corn was steady to 5c higher under receipts of 98 cars. Demand for the cheaper grades was especially good. Primary receipts were 936,000 bu, against 1,064,000 bu a year ago. Argentine shipments for the week were 716,000 bu. Farmers are hauling little grain and country advices of shipment are light.

Oats Advance Reluctantly.

Oats futures were maintained by the strength in corn. Prices at the finish were a fraction to ⅝c higher. There was no enthusiasm on the buying side, but a number of local traders bought because of the bulge in corn and there was also some demand from Bartlett-Frazier and Wagner. Selling by Updike was a feature.

Some increase in the outside interest in July oats was noted, but trade generally was moderate, as much attention was transfered to the corn pit. Indifferent bidding by exporters and continued fine crop prospects were bearish influences. A private corp report estimated that the oats acreage would show a 5 per cent increase, which would make a record total.

Cash oats were steady to ½c higher with 133 cars received. A little business late Thursday was claimed. Primary receipts were 941,000 bu, compared with 1,128,000 bu a year ago. Argentine shipments this week were 631,000 bu. Some improvement in eastern shipping demand was reported.

Provisions Finish Irregular.

Provisions closed irregular. Further selling of July ribs on the bulges was a feature and some liquidation in May lard was also noticeable. Fair buying of lard was stimulated early by reports of liberal allotments for Belgium. There was considerable changing from May to July by carriers which tended to widen the difference. Western markets received 71,850 hogs, against 69,285 a year ago. Local meat shipments were 1,910,000 lbs, compared with 1,998,000 lbs a year ago, while lard shipments were 736,000 lbs, against 1,199,000 lbs last year.

Firm Market for Rye.

Rye was quiet, but firm. Cash No. 2 was quoted $2.60 bid and $2.65 asked; No. 3, $2.55 bid and $2.60 asked. Receipts, 3 cars.

Barley ruled strong early, but closed slow and unchanged. Malting and milling grades were quoted $1.60@1.85 and sold $1.70@1.85; feed and mixing quotable $1.40@1.67, with a sale at $1.65; screenings were quoted 70c@$1.30 and sold over the same range. Receipts, 13 cars.

Timothyseed was quiet. April closed $8.35 bid, $8.75 asked; September, $9.35 bid, $9.75 asked; October, $9.05 bid and $9.35 asked. Cash lots sold at $6.25@7.50. Cloverseed was unchanged, with cash quoted $18.00@28.00 and spot prime, $30.60.

Flax closed 3¾c higher, with cash quoted $4.12½@4.14½.

Will Place All Jobbers of Oil Under Federal License

As the result of conferences between M. L. Requa, director of the oil division of the United States fuel administration, and the petroleum war service committee, the subcommittee representing the jobbing interests, and the subcommittee representing the oil well supply industry, announcement was made that a decision had been reached to extend considerably the licensing feature placing all jobbers of oil under federal license. It is expected that licensing will be further extended to manufacturers and distributors.

GOSSIP OF THE PIT

"REPORTS of our correspondents indicate a probable winter killing of 10 per cent wheat, almost entirely in the southwest and far west," say Clement, Curtis & Co. "Condition of winter wheat improved over last month. Spring wheat acreage largely increased in all states and total increase may equal the loss in winter wheat. Indications are for 59,000,000 acres of all wheat versus 46,000,000 bu harvested last season. Oats acreage planted and contemplated shows an average increase of 5 per cent; prospects good except in south Atlantic states, where acreage is negligible. Barley acreage will be increased."

◆

James E. Bennett wired from St. Louis: "In all the twenty-five years I have traveled the Chicago-St. Louis lines I have never seen such a perfect wheat outlook. Not a single field showed a bad spot. There is a big supply of moisture; the growth will soon be sufficient to protect the ground and carry almost to harvest. Color good, showing strong root. All inquiries among dealers and farmers through this country confirm my impression.

"Although it is reluctantly admitted by persons approached, I am satisfied there is a considerable quantity of old wheat back, but in parcels too small to market singly, which will come forward with the new wheat, adding materially to the early movement unless the almost criminal neglect and incompetence of last year in transportation and official handling is repeated.

"The advertised shortage of last year, which probably was not a real fact, caused some wheat holding at a loss to both the holder and the country. The country is full of corn. Many farmers have their whole crop excepting only the loss from rot due to failure of transportation. Much corn is still spoiling that could be saved by prompt handling. Cars are still needed and there are many complaints. The powers that be will need to get busy or there will be further waste. The farmers worried over seed corn, some trying a doubtful experiment of bringing in corn matured south of their territory."

Reports on the condition of the coming wheat crop, made by delegates who attended a convention of master bakers at Burlington, Ia., indicate prospects for a yield possibly exceeding 1,000,000,000 bu. A letter quoted by one baker from Food Administrator Hoover was to the effect that if our wheat crop equaled 850,000,000 bu a return to normal standard of eating and milling would be possible.

Exporters were bidding 10c over May price, track, seaboard, for oats here yesterday, but no sales were reported. Offerings were limited. Spot premiums were steady. No. 3 white oats sold mainly 4c over May and standards at 4½c over. Bids for No. 3 white oats to arrive, 30 days shipment, were at 3c over May price.

ST. PAUL HEAD EXPLAINS ROAD'S CAR SITUATION

President Byram of the St. Paul explained yesterday the negotiations recently conducted in which the road expected to finance its car building plan. He said:

"A short time ago the St. Paul was endeavoring to negotiate the sale of $10,000,000 of equipment trust certificates to provide funds to build 5,000 new cars. The directors had this matter under discussion at the last meeting of the board, and after approaching several bankers we found no one interested. Therefore, it will be necessary for the government to provide the funds. Thus far arrangements have not been completed with the railroad authorities in Washington for the carrying out of such a project. The plan calls for the building of 2,500 box and 2,500 coal cars. We are now completing the 3,500 car order, work upon which has been under way for several months."

President Byram was asked if the government had any jurisdiction in regard to the dividend matters previous to the beginning of 1917, and replied that it did not.

"As the articles of association of the company provide that no dividend shall be paid on the preferred stock for any given period unless earned in that particular time, it is difficult to see how it will be possible for St. Paul to pay dividends for the last six months of 1917, as it is understood that the balance available for dividends in the year 1917 was equal to only about 4 per cent on the preferred stock. During the first six months of 1917 3½ per cent was paid on the preferred, leaving not more than ¼ of 1 per cent remaining available for dividends on that issue for the last half of the year."

FINANCIAL NOTES

ENGINEERING AND MINING JOURNAL says of the copper situation: "There was a rather large increase in mine production in March, but refiners are only able to increase their production slightly, the unsatisfactory labor situation being a great handicap. The European demand now has become large. Domestic industry is still on a ration basis. There is a large inquiry for June and later delivery, which refiners are booking subject to new government fixing price.

UTAH COPPER SURPLUS SHOWS $10,000,000 LOSS

The annual report of the Utah Copper company shows a loss of $10,000,000 in surplus after all charges, a showing slightly better than had been expected. Surplus was equal to $17.66 a share on the stock, as compared to $24.10 in the previous year.

Of the dividends paid in 1917, $2,842,857 is described as a "capital distribution." The income account for the year, with comparisons, follows:

Total revenue	$48,797,423	$50,280,073
Oper. expenses	24,886,646	16,532,334

Final surplus	48,293,528	43,153,137

Butte and Superior had been expected to make a bad showing, and it fully justified those expectations. Net for the stock amounted to 94 cents a share, as compared to $21.93 in the previous year.

COTTON.

NEW YORK, April 26.—COTTON—Early irregularity was followed by a sharp rally in the cotton market here today, with July selling up from 25.90c to 26.67c, with the general list closing firm at a net advance of 20 to 60 points. The market opened firm at an advance of 14 to 40 points, with near months relatively firm in response to better cables than expected and covering. This initial bulge met a renewal of more or less general selling and prices quickly weakened. There were a few May notices which probably caused a little liquidation, but that delivery was relatively steady, selling no lower than 26.03c, while July broke to 25.90c, or 10 points net lower, and October to 25.40c. As soon as this rush of selling had been absorbed the market turned firmer. Trade interests were moderate buyers on the advance, which carried May up to 26.65c and October to 25.98c, or 43 to 67 points net higher. The close was a few points off from the best under realizing. Two reports were issued on acreage, one indicating an increase of 2.6 per cent on the average, while the other said there would be increases ranging from 10 to 50 per cent in Alabama and Mississippi and a decrease of from 5 to 10 per cent in Tennessee. Marshall Field & Co., in their weekly review of the dry goods trade, say:

"Current wholesale distribution of dry goods is well ahead of the corresponding period of a year ago. Road sales for both immediate and future shipments show good increases over the same week in 1917. Merchants have been in to market in about the same numbers. Collections are ahead."

Boston and Maine.

C. J. W.—The Boston and Maine, though only 2,300 miles long, has the most complicated financial structure of any road in the United States. It owns only a third of its mileage. Two-thirds of it consists of about a dozen leased lines. The leases were made years ago and under present conditions some of the rents are too high. Efforts to put through a voluntary reorganization and unify the system have failed because stockholders of the leased lines refuse any concessions. The system has outstanding $43,338,000 of bonds and notes in fourteen different issues, most of them unsecured by mortgage. A receiver was appointed early last year and all the bonds except those of leased lines are in default. The road was once one of the most prosperous in the United States and probably still would be but for confiscatory regulation by the New England states and the general government. Its bonded debt is only $18,848 a mile and in 1917, though operated by a receiver, it earned about 96 per cent of its fixed charges. Most roads in such a condition could be put on a sound basis by a moderate assessment on the stock, of which there is $42,645,000, leaving the bonds practically undisturbed. It may take years, however, to harmonize all the conflicting interests.

Chicago Bonding and Insurance.

I. H.—The Chicago Bonding and Insurance company conducted its underwriting at a loss in 1917. It wrote $800,618 net premiums and had a total income of $852,477. It paid $500,822 for losses and $497,721 for management expenses. The ratio of losses to premiums was 62½ per cent and of management expenses to premiums 62.2 per cent. As the volume of business grows the expense ratio should decline somewhat. The company began business as of Dec. 31, 1914, being a merger of the old Chicago Bonding and Surety company and the Prudential Casualty, both of which had been unprofitable. It started with $500,000 of capital and $296,048 paid in surplus. During the year the reserves for reinsurance and losses declined, and because of this the surplus over all liabilities increased $29,496 to $325,544. The company is now offering new stock for sale. The shares represent participation in a business venture which is not on a paying basis.

Haskell & Barker.

O. J. R.—The Haskell and Barker company earned $2,634,192 in the year ended Jan. 31 last, an increase of 131 per cent over the preceding year. This figures out at $9.27 a share on 220,000 shares of capital, compared with $3.15 in 1916. The figures are before deduction for war tax, which is expected to amount to about $1.80 a share. The company manufactures cars and, like all railway supply concerns, is subject to extreme fluctuations of earnings. Dividends are paid at the rate of $3 a year. The other stocks on your list are highly speculative. Send stamped envelope for recent reviews if you wish them.

A. H. Q., Kenosha, Wis.—The Automatic Electric company reported net earnings of $264,189 in 1917, compared with $359,942 in 1916. Dividends stopped a year ago, and as far as available information goes have not been resumed. As far as limited available data show the stock is a mere speculation.

BANKS CONSIDER LIBERTY BOND STORAGE PLAN

May Follow Example of New York and Give Free Service.

A number of Chicago banks are considering plans for giving some measure of protection to the hundreds of thousands of investors who have bought $50 and $100 denomination bearer bonds of the various Liberty loan issues and have no safe place in which to store them. The Northern Trust has announced that it will give free safe deposit storage to small denomination bonds and other banks are expected to adopt the plan.

Bankers point to the vast number of individuals owning baby bonds as indicating the need of such protection. There are no accurate figures available showing the number of owners of $50 and $100 bonds in Chicago for the reason that none can tell how many of the purchasers of the first issue participated in the second floatation, but it is estimated that the number is about 375,000. When the third loan has been placed the total may be 500,000.

This estimate might appear extravagant but for the fact that the average amount of bonds of the second issue owned by individuals in the Chicago district is but $292.77. The average individual holding in this district in the first loan campaign was $276.20.

Bankers have recognized from the beginning that small bond buyers were entitled to greater protection from theft and loss but have been unable to determine the best method of furnishing it. Were the buyer to demand that his bond be registered instead of in coupon form he would be fully protected and might then keep his securities in the family album with safety.

Banks and bond salesmen have discouraged the registering of bonds for two principal reasons; when registered the bonds cannot be transferred without verification of the signature of the owner and some bothersome detail of work for the banks which in the aggregate might become burdensome; a second reason is that if the majority of the fifteen or more millions of owners of Liberty bonds of the three issues registered their securities the work of sending semi-annual interest checks by mail might overwhelm the treasury department.

New York Banks Act.

Having elected to discourage investors from registering their bonds many bankers feel under obligation to furnish safe storage for them. The thing has been done in New York by the concerted action of twenty-six banks and safe deposit companies. These have made public announcement that that they will care for one $50 and one $100 bond free of charge for any person. The depositor is given the bank's receipt and when coupons are due clerks clip and cash them and credit the account of the depositor with the amount.

The extent to which purchasers of Liberty loan bonds have been urged to accept coupon or bearer bonds instead of registered is shown by the fact that of the $527,000,000 bonds sold in this district in the second campaign $478,000,000 were coupon bonds and $49,000,000 registered. The bulk of registered bonds were those of large denomination owned by persons of wealth who have safe deposit boxes and have no especial need for the protection of registration.

The $527,000,000 of bonds was made up of 2,603,500 pieces, of which 1,385,000 were in $50 denomination and 897,000 in $100 denomination. Of the balance but 5,200 were in denomination greater than $1,000. Baby bond buyers took 521,179 $50 pieces and 355,600 $100 pieces of the 1,029,477 pieces distributed in this district after the close of the first Liberty loan campaign.

Calls It Duty.

President Solomon A. Smith of the Northern Trust company finds that the bank has been able to handle all of the bonds offered for storage without serious difficulty.

"We have advertised publicly that we will give free storage facilities to Liberty bond buyers on the theory that those able to afford safe deposit boxes will rent them. Thus far we have not been imposed upon. We believe it to be our duty to give the greatest safety possible to the investment of the small bond buyer. We have had thousands of bonds offered to us and have refused none. We have not found it necessary to hire extra help. The whole scheme has worked out satisfactorily. We consider every bond depositor a potential client and are glad to have them with us."

Many bankers believe that all small denomination bonds should be registered and that the government would be able to handle them without serious dislocation of treasury department facilities. They pass over the objection that the sale of a registered bond is somewhat troublesome with the reply that the small effort necessary to having signatures verified might deter many who now sell their bonds to pay current bills and lose the value of their lesson in thrift.

BOND PRICES HOLD STEADY

New York, April 26.—[Special.]—Bond prices held steady today, but trading was comparatively light, in anticipation of the half holiday. Prices of the Liberty issues and the foreign war bonds held around yesterday's closing quotations.

Although the New York stock exchange authorities announced that trading in the new Liberty loan 4¼ per cent bonds would not be permitted on the floor until formally authorized, the application of the order applied only to transactions in contracts calling for delivery the next day. Some of the members of the exchange have appeared on the floor with $50, $100, and $500 bonds in their pockets and have disposed of them with difficulty at the price they are being sold by the government. This is the first time in the history of the stock exchange that bonds have been sold and immediately delivered on the floor.

WANT COMMERCE BODY OUT OF THE RAIL SITUATION

Commission Blamed by Roads for Security Shrinkage.

Some explanation of the recent dullness in railroad stocks may be found in the negotiations between the railroads and the government pertaining to the drafting of the form of contract for government operation of the roads.

It is a contention of the attorneys for the carriers and also the large financial interests, that the contract as drawn by the government representatives would in effect invest control in the interstate commerce commission, giving that organization supervision of all moneys including the amount set aside for improvements. The railroads want the interstate commerce commission eliminated. They contend that during the seven years the commission carried enlarged powers, there was an average yearly depreciation of $1,000,000,000 in the value of railroad securities, or a total of $7,000,000,000 in shrinkage, and relatively the same amount in the credit of the lines.

Equipment Depreciates.

The result has been that the roads in the last two and one-half years have purchased but 50 per cent of the usual amount of freight cars and a variously estimated reduced percentage of locomotives. That equipment, both locomotives and cars, has been allowed to depreciate as borne out by the prospective orders of the government for 300,000 new cars.

It is the claim of the roads that if the interstate commerce commission had properly exercised its functions and allowed the roads sufficient increase in income to meet the increased outgo, the shrinkage of $7,000,000,000 in value would not have obtained, and the roads would have been adequately prepared for the big business of today instead of being in a crippled state and requiring the absolute intervention of the government to save the situation.

No Objection to McAdoo.

It appears the railroads have no objection to Director General McAdoo having full charge, but the element of the interstate commerce commission is for the reasons mentioned regarded as a reversion to the old order of things which was changed under the terms of the railroad act.

In the last ten days the market for railroad stocks has been an indifferent one, which indicates the large directing influence which the financial interests have in making markets. A bullish attitude by these interests, based on confidence in the outlook, would probably mean an average of 15 or 20 points increase in prices of railroad stocks, or a restoration of approximately $1,250,000,000 of market value.

Central Leather.

Friends of the Central Leather company are pointing out that the quarter ended March 31 showed the poorest earnings that may be expected in the current calendar year. The profits shown were based on a fall in value of inventories and reckoned at a time when leather prices were the lowest since the war upswing was established. There has been since the fixing of the March quarter figures, an increase of 15 per cent in leather prices and a rise in inventory values to the amount mentioned.

In the first quarter of 1918 the proportion of the annual dividend rate of 5 per cent was barely earned. But in view of the company's surplus of over $28,900,000, or approximately $73 a share for the common stock and also because of the advance in leather, it is predicted the stock will this year pay more than 5 per cent.

CHICAGO STOCK TRANSACTIONS

THERE was some improvement in the undertone for traction securities on the local exchange, and series 2 certificates of the Chicago Railways company were up 1½ points to 11½. The buying is based on the resumption of negotiations between representatives of the companies and the transportation committee of the city council. Walter Fisher, counsel for the committee, has disagreed with the plan of the companies based on the report of the special commission, and will submit a plan of his own for consideration next week. The plan of the commission cost $300,000, while Mr. Fisher's charges are $100 a day in his office or $150 a day for action outside. La Salle street is trying to figure out whether a $300,000 plan should be any better than a $150 a day one.

The packing house shares were steady, but dull. Swift & Co. was up 1 point. Peoples Gas gained 1½ points over night. Pneumatic Tool was up 1 point on two transactions.

In the bond department there were a few trades of Swift & Co. 5s and Commonwealth Edison 5s. Each was off ¼ at 93⅞ for Swift 5s and 91⅞ for Edison 5s.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, April 26.—Cotton goods here today were easier in the gray goods divisions. Yarns were steady. Raw silk was embargoed on some railroads on shipments west from New York. Wool markets were quiet. Markets closed early in consequence of the "Liberty day" holiday.

M'ADOO PLACES $90,000,000 CAR CONTRACT

American Car Foundry to Build 30,000 for the U. S. A.

Washington, D. C., April 26.—Orders for 30,000 box and coal cars to cost in the aggregate between $80,000,000 and $90,000,000 were placed today by Director General McAdoo with the American Car and Foundry company at fixed prices which will represent about 5 per cent profit.

Announcement of exact prices and specifications was withheld pending completion of contracts for construction of 70,000 additional cars by other manufacturers with whom John Skelton Williams, the railroad administration's director of purchases, is negotiating over prices.

Maximum of Wood Used.

Two styles of each kind of car were ordered. All will have steel bases and frames but will contain a maximum of wood to save steel for the nation's shipbuilding program. They will be completed within six months and be put into service for fall and winter hauling.

This is the first order for rolling stock placed by the railroad administration. It probably will be followed soon by contracts for the construction of about 1,000 locomotives. The ordering has been delayed by disputes over prices, the original bids of the builders providing for 10 per cent or more profit.

Will Distribute Orders.

The American Car and Foundry company, it is understood, will distribute the car order among its various plants, some of which are located at Memphis, Pittsburgh, Wilmington, Chicago, St. Louis, Detroit, Buffalo, Indianapolis, Bloomsburg, Pa.; Huntington, W. Va.; Berwick, Pa.; Milton, Pa.; Jeffersonville, Ind.; St. Charles, Mo.; Terre Haute, Ind., and Depew, N. Y.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, April 26.—SUGAR—A holiday spirit prevailed in the sugar market today and the committee reported no fresh purchases. Prices of raws remained at the fixed level of 4.985c for Cubas cost and freight, equal to 6.005c for centrifugal. In refined business is a little more active on account of the more liberal arrivals of raw sugar. Prices are unchanged at 7.45c for fine granulated.

WHISKY RUMORS CALLED FALSE.

Investigation reveals that the rumors circulated in Wall street that the government was about to commandeer whisky supplies and contemplated fixing a price for denatured alcohol are without foundation.

TALK OF THE STREET

DISTILLERS SECURITIES showed considerable recovery, advancing to 50⅝. The rumor that whisky in bond would be commandeered by the government was credited to stock exchange operators as a pure invention designed to knock the price of the shares. It had such effect on Thursday. Investigation at Washington showed no intention to take over whisky supplies.

The railroads were almost neglected. There were only three or four trades in Union Pacific, which was up ½, and but one sale in Canadian Pacific, up ¾. There were no sales in St. Paul, and but a few transactions in Reading.

A feature of the short day's trading was an advance in Superior Steel from 37½ to 40½. The "big" steel stocks were firm, led by U. S. Steel common, which easily advanced more than one point and held most of the gain. The meeting of the board for action on dividends is scheduled for next Tuesday. The market is undecided, but inclined to think the regular extra of 3 per cent will be declared. Crucible and Bethlehem were firm, without special price features.

Corn Products was strong. The company's earnings are above 22 per cent on the common stock, and while no dividend will be declared until after the termination of the suit pending against the company by the government the street accepts the increased earnings as a forecast of what will be done when the management is at liberty to inaugurate dividends.

Studebaker common was considerably improved. While the price opened fractionally lower it rose 1⅛ above the previous close and lost but ⅛ in the final transaction. The stock is down now to a point where the discontinuance of the dividend probably would have little effect. The management of the company, however, has not indicated any intention of cutting off the distribution, 4 per cent, which was about twice earned last year.

The oil stocks were rather quiet. There were no transactions either in Texas or Sinclair. Mexican Petroleum was moderately active and closed around the high price. Ohio Cities Gas was fractionally higher.

The equipment shares were in good tone, but not a great deal doing. The principal issues were all higher.

Because of the half holiday a meeting of the directors of the Bethlehem Steel corporation which was scheduled for yesterday for dividend action was postponed until Monday.

A bullish statement was made by President Ripley of the Atchison when he said: "When the 1918 crop returns are in the world will know more about the great southwest than it ever knew before. Kansas and all other states in the southwest empire have prospects for an enormous crop yield. Our reports are uniformly good."

Standard Oil of N. Y. Owns $15,075,000 Liberty Bonds

New York, April 26.—[Special.]—The Standard Oil company of New York earned 40 per cent on the $75,000,000 of capital stock outstanding in 1917, compared with 48.85 per cent in 1916. The annual report issued to the stockholders today showed total earnings of $30,000,672 after deducting expenses incident to operation, including federal taxes and sundry reserves and depreciation, compared with $36,638,495 in 1916. The company paid dividends of $8,250,000 last year, compared with $6,000,000 in 1916.

At the close of 1917 the corporation showed cash on hand and other current assets aggregating $60,014,527, compared with $41,677,904. United States Liberty bonds were carried as a separate item at $15,075,000. The profit and loss surplus at the end of the year was $98,636,245, compared with $68,635,573 on Dec. 31, 1916.

Value of the company's real estate, plants, and vessels increased from $61,825,470 in 1916, to $67,297,723 in 1917.

TRADING NARROWS.

New York, April 26.—[Special.]—While movements on the stock exchange were extremely narrow during the short session today, the market displayed surprising steadiness in the face of the unsatisfactory news from the western front in Europe, and there was excellent buying in some of the leading specialties.

The strength of United States Steel common was generally attributed to the absorption of stock for the account of an operator who recently made a highly profitable turn on the short side of the cotton market.

This trader, it is said, bought a long line of stock around 90 and sold out in the early part of the week, when the stock crossed the 94 mark. The fact that he had been repurchasing his line at prices higher than the levels at which he sold had the effect of attracting a substantial following in steel among the trading element on the floor.

Public Takes Small Part.

The public did not take part to any great extent in the making of values today. It was merely a disinterested market and commission houses did practically nothing, although the wire houses executed a few orders, chiefly on the buying side, from the west. La Salle street has been absorbing the motors steadily on the recent declines and today sent through several heavy orders for the aeroplane stocks, to be executed in the outside market.

New England has been picking up the better class of low priced railroad issues for a fortnight, but did little today in that group, although some of the heaviest out of town buying of the copper issues came from Boston.

The strength of Corn Products and American Can common was the feature of the industrial list.

Decreased Output Increased Values

The tremendous demand for labor, materials and factories to meet the war needs of the nation has cut the production of passenger automobiles more than 30 per cent—but all this has placed a higher selling value on used cars.

Because an automobile is a necessity for the greatest efficiency of the modern American business man there is an unusually active "used car" market this Spring.

If you have a used car to sell this Spring—sell it to the very best advantage—advertise it where the largest number of prospective buyers are looking for used cars.

Get your offer before the readers of more than 600,000 copies of next Sunday's Tribune. The Tribune Want-ad Section is the big, permanent "used car" market—and that means the best possible results.
